It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Mr. [John] Dickinson, a delegate for Delaware, attended, and took his seat in Congress.

A letter, of this day, from T. Paine was read, enclosing a paper which he informs is part of an original letter sent to him about a month ago.

A letter from Leonard Albouy has read,¹ soliciting an answer to the memorial from the inhabitants of Bermudas, on which the committee to whom the memorial was referred, report as follows:

"That they have examined the said memorial, and conversed with Captain Albouy, the bearer thereof:

"That it appears to your committee that the inhabitants of Bermuda are in deep distress for want of provisions: that the Virginia and Galatea ships of war are stationed at Bermuda: that it is garrisoned by British soldiers; and that it is not altogether certain that any provisions Captain Albouy may be permitted to export will go to the relief of the Bermudians; therefore the committee are of opinion,

"That so long as Bermuda shall continue to be guarded by British ships and garrisoned by British soldiers, how powerfully soever humanity may plead in their behalf, and the disposition of Congress incline them to relieve the distresses of Bermuda, yet sound policy and the duty they owe to their constituents, will constrain them to refuse a compliance with the request of the memorialists."²

On the question to agree with the report of the committee, the yeas and nays being required by Mr. [John] Jay, ¹ The letter of Paine is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 55, folio 55; that of Albouy is in No. 78, I, folio 241.

² This report, in the writing of William Ellery, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 25, I, folio 145. Thomson has recorded upon it the vote.

A letter, of this day, from Colonel F. Johnson was read, inclosing sundry accounts:

Ordered, That the same be referred to the Board of Treasury.

Ordered, That the consideration of the reports of the Board of Treasury and Board of War be postponed.

The committee, to whom was referred the letter of 22, from General Greene, quarter master general, brought in a report; Whereupon,

Your Committee, to whom was referred the letter of General Greene, of the 22^d of April, 1779, beg leave to report:

That they have held a conference with Major General Greene, who informed the Committee that his Department is considerably in debt, and that the orders he has received from the Commander in Chief cannot possibly be complied with in the time specified for that purpose, unless he can receive very considerable supplies of money.

That General Greene also laid before your Committee letters and estimates relative to the number of Waggoners to be employed, and the mode of obtaining them, to which they pray that reference may be had, and whereon they submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That the quarter master general be empowered and directed to employ so many waggoners as shall be necessary for the use of the army, upon the best terms on which they can be obtained, provided such terms are approved by the Commander in Chief.

That General Greene further informed your Committee, that unless an answer can be had to his former requests touching the assistant and deputies in his Department they will not continue in the service, wherefore your Committee submit the following order:

Ordered, That the Board of War make report with all convenient speed upon the letter of the from the Quartermaster General.

That the General further informed your Committee that the jealousies and suspicions which have prevailed with respect to the mode of paying for the services rendered in his Department; the very considerable tho' unavoidable expenditures, and the obloquy to which he finds himself exposed thereby, lay him under a necessity of resigning his office of Quartermaster General unless it can be held consistent with his reputation; wherefore he prays that Congress will take his Department into their early consideration, Your Committee thereupon submit the following order:

Ordered that the arrangement and salaries of the Quartermaster General's Department be taken into consideration on next.¹

A report from the Board of War on the salaries of officers in the department of the quarter master general was taken into consideration; after debate,

¹ This report, in the writing of Gouverneur Morris, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 19, II, folio 439.

Ordered, That the same be referred to the committee appointed to superintend the quarter master and commissary's department, and that they be directed to confer with the quarter master general, fill up the blanks and report to morrow morning.

Congress resumed the consideration of the resolution moved by the delegates of Rhode Island, and in lieu of the amendment moved by Mr. [Gouverneur] Morris and Mr. [James] Duane, viz. "upon condition that no farther or other wages be allowed to the said men by the said State, than what is paid to other the continental troops:"

A substitute was moved by Mr. [Thomas] Burke, and seconded by Mr. [William] Whipple, in the words following:

Provided, that the said State shall not augment the pay of the officers and soldiers of the said brigade, beyond the pay allowed to officers and soldiers in the continental army.

† A memorial from the hon^{ble} Sr Gérard, minister plenipotentiary of France, with a paper enclosed relative to two Spanish vessels captured by an American privateer and carried into the State of Massachusetts bay;

Also a letter from Mr. Holker, relative to a suit commenced by Messrs. de la Neuville et la Nos against Captain Douglass, commander of the privateer schooner, The Hunter, were read:

Ordered, That they be referred to the Committee on Appeals, and that the Committee be instructed to prepare a system of regulations for marine jurisdiction.

The Committee on Appeals to whom was referred the Memorial of the 24th of April last from the Minister of France, upon the representation of Don Juan De Miralles respecting two Spanish ships captured by two American Privateers, and carried into Newberry and Beverley in Massachusetts Bay; and also the Memorial and papers thereunto annexed from Joseph De Llano and Joachin Luca, Masters of the said two Spanish ships, report:

That by the law of Massachusetts Bay, appeals from their maritime courts to Congress are allowed only in cases, in which vessels in the service of the United States are concerned, and that all other maritime causes arising within the said State, are finally to be determined in a Court of Appeal in the State.

That the cases of the said two Spanish ships are not triable on appeal before Congress, but are now pending in the proper court for trial thereof in the State of Massachusetts Bay, according to the law of that state, and the Congress cannot interfere in its administration of justice in the premises.

That it is of the highest importance to the welfare and interests of these United States, that there be an uniform and equal administration of maritime law within the said states, and therefore the Committee on Appeals submit to the consideration of Congress, the following resolution:

Whereas, on the sixth of March last it was resolved, that Congress is by these United States invested with the Supreme Sovereign Power of War and Peace: that the Power of executing the Law of Nations is essential to the Sovereign Supreme Power of War and Peace: that the legality of all captures, on the high seas must be determined by the Law of Nations: that the authority ultimately and finally to decide on all matters and questions touching the law of nations does reside and is vested in the Sovereign Supreme Power of War and Peace: that a controul by appeal is necessary in order to compel a just and uniform execution of the Law of Nations: that the said controul must extend as well over the decisions of Juries as Judges in Courts for determining the legality of captures on the seas, otherwise the Juries would be possessed of the ultimate Supreme Power of executing the law of nations in all cases of captures, and might at any time exercise the same in such manner, as to prevent a possibility of being controuled, a construction which involves many inconveniencies and absurdities, destroys an essential part of the power of war and peace intrusted to Congress, and would disable the Congress of the United States from giving satisfaction to foreign Nations complaining of a violation of neutralities, of treaties, or other breaches of the law of nations, and would enable a Jury in any one State, to involve the United States in hostilities, a construction, which for these and many other reasons is inadmissible: And whereas in the Articles of Confederation heretofore laid before the several United States, provision is made for a proper administration of law in cases of capture on the high seas, but by reason that only twelve of the said United States, have ratified the said articles, the said provision remains without effect: And, whereas it is absolutely necessary, as well for the tranquility of the citizens of the several states, as for the satisfaction of Foreign Powers, that the said provision should be without delay carried into full effect; Wherefore,

Resolved, That it be recommended to each of the United States, that a law be enacted vesting in the Congress of the United States the powers specified in the said provision; to wit, That "the United States in Congress assembled shall have the sole and exclusive right and power of establishing rules for deciding in all cases what captures on land or water shall be legal, and in what manner prizes taken by land or naval forces in the service of the United States shall be divided or appropriated, appointing Courts for the Trial of Piracies and Felonies committed on the high seas and establishing Courts for receiving and determining finally appeals in all cases of captures; Provided, that no Member of Congress shall be appointed a Judge of any of the said Courts."¹

The Board of War to whom was referred the petition of Colonel Van Cortlandt and Colonel Gansevoort, report that the same be referred to General Washington, who will proceed in the settlement of the rank of these officers in the mode pursued in similar cases.

Resolved, That Congress agree to the said report.

Ordered, That so much of the report of the Board of War as relates to George Ewing, commissary of hides, be re-committed.

Adjourned to 10 oClock on Monday.

² This letter is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 152, VII, folio 263. Washington also wrote a private letter to Jay containing questions on marine policy, to which Jay replied:

"While the maritime Affairs of the Continent continue under the Direction of a Committee, they will be exposed to all the Consequences of Want of System, Attention and Knowledge. The Marine Committee consists of a Delegate from each State. It fluctuates, new Members constantly coming in and old ones going out. Three or four indeed have remained in it from the Beginning, and have a proportionate influence, or more properly Interest in it. Very few of the Members understand even the State of our naval Affairs or have Time or Inclination to attend to them. But why is not this System changed? It is in my Opinion convenient to the Family Compact. The Commercial Committee is equally useless. A Proposition was made to appoint a commercial Agent for the States under certain Regulations. Opposition was made. The ostensible Reasons were various. The true Reason was its Interference with a certain commercial agent in Europe, and his Connections." Jay to Washington, April 26, 1779. Washington Papers. Letters to Washington, 32, folio 40.

The Committee on the Treasury brought in a farther report;
Whereupon

Ordered, That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of the State of Maryland, for five hundred thousand dollars, to be paid to the delegates of that State and by them transmitted to Governor Johnson, for the purchase of flour for the continental army; the said State to be accountable.

Whereas many accounts of expenditures for the public service in the State of New York remain unsettled:

Resolved, That John Welles, Edward Chinn, and Eleazer Wales, Esqrs. the commissioners of accounts for the northern department, be continued in their present office so long as the Board of Treasury shall think it expedient, notwithstanding the appointment of Mr. Welles as a commissioner of the chamber of accounts; and that all such accounts as have arisen or shall arise within the said department, be adjusted by the said commissioners of accounts.³

TREASURY OFFICE April 21st 1779.

The Committee on the Treasury beg leave to submit the following report:

It is the opinion of your Committee that Congress are loudly called upon to turn their attention to ways and means for supporting the war.

It is no longer probable that the expedient of calling in the emissions of May 20th, 1777, and April 11th, 1778, will afford any other extensive advantage than that of defeating frauds by counterfeits. Such are the thirst for traffic, the diffidence of our funds from the fluctuation of the paper money, and the arts of the disaffected, that little comparatively of those emissions will be drawn into the Loan offices: a vast proportion of the amount must consequently be exchanged after the first of August, and pass again into circulation, while experience has shewn that those emissions effectually suspend the attainment of other money on loan. Nor can the tax of fifteen million dollars produce very essential effects. The emission of new money is therefore our principal resource, and it must keep pace with the expenditures, at the same time that those expenditures increase with such rapidity that it is impossible to foresee where they will terminate. In fact your Committee are of opinion that unless vigorous and decisive measures are adopted, the present system, by which the expences of the war are supported, must be frustrated. Your Committee from these apprehensions beg leave to lay before Congress the remedies which appear to them to promise success.

Economy in the public expences is the first object.

The establishment of a Board of Treasury with competent authority to call public debtors and defaulters to account, a plan for which is herewith presented numbered (1).

The reduction of unnecessary Boards and supernumerary Officers, both in Civil and Military departments. The suppression of useless separate commands.

A Reformation in the manner of rewarding Purchasing Commissaries and Quarter Masters; and a reduction of the expences of the Hospital, are some of the particulars which in the opinion of your Committee demand attention. To promote so necessary a reformation; your Committee are of opinion that a strict enquiry ought to be made by a select Committee (or one of the standing Boards) into the public expenditures, and the practicability of their reduction; for which purposes the resolutions N^o 2 and 3 are submitted.

The second great object is to establish the funds for carrying on the War, for which purpose your Committee submit the following propositions:

That it be recommended to the respective States to call in million dollars by a tax the ensuing autumn, in the proportions and on the terms specified in a resolution for the late tax of 15 million for which purpose they have proposed the report (No 4).

That an alteration be made in the system of the loan offices so as to afford the lender a reasonable prospect of security. At present the progressive depreciation of the paper medium, which at least keeps pace with the emissions, is an unsurmountable discouragement.

A plan for this purpose is contained in the report (No 5) herewith presented.

That twelve million dollars be borrowed on life annuities. Your Committee have reason to think that a plan of this nature would be very acceptable to the citizens of these States, and meet with great encouragement.

They have submitted it in the report (N° 6).

A Recommendation to the States to licence and regulate retailers of foreign Commodities, so that they may be limited within some bounds.

Unless some remedy is provided the murmurs of the Citizens of these States will, it is feared, be followed by consequences still more disagreeable than the rapid depreciation of the money. Your Committee for this purpose have proposed the resolution No 7.

A foreign loan, at least to the amount of all the cloathing, arms and ammunition necessary to carry on the War. A Report for this purpose has long since been presented by the Committee of Conference and remains for consideration.¹

The Committee on the Treasury report as their opinion:

That Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays be assigned for considering the reports of the treasury or other committees, relative to finance, until a decision thereon is obtained, and that no other business be considered after 12 o clock on those days, unless by the unanimous consent of the members of the House.²

¹ This report is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 136, III, folio 265. It is endorsed as "Read April 27. Postponed to Thursday next." See p. 491 n. ante.

Ordered, That the information from the Committee on the Treasury, relative to Alexander McKallaher be referred to the Medical Committee, and that they take such measures for ascertaining the facts; and if properly supported for bringing him to a tryal, as they shall judge expedient.¹

AT A BOARD OF WAR, April 27th, 1779.

Present, Col. Pickering and M^r. Peters

Col George Morgan having represented to Congress, that it was impossible for him to do the business of his department at the Commission of $\frac{1}{2}$ p^r cent allowed him as Deputy Commissary General of purchases for the Western District, and desiring either that the Commission be increased or an adequate salary fixed. The Board taking the same into consideration, beg leave to inform Congress:

That not knowing the views of Congress with respect to the compensation to be allowed to the Officers of the civil Departments, it is impossible for us to form a determinate report on the subject; but we beg leave to submit the following, that they may be pleased to act therein as they shall deem most proper.

That from the scattered situation of the settlements in the Western district; and the consequential difficulties in obtaining the supplies of provisions therein, Col Geo: Morgan, Deputy Commissary General of Purchases for that district be allowed a Commission of p^r Cent, on all purchases made by him for the Army of the United States. Or—That in consideration of the peculiar difficulties attending the purchases of provisions in the Western District, Colonel George ¹ The committee's recommendation was that "an enquiry ought to be made into the truth of the said charges, without delay; and that on proof thereof the parties charged ought to be suspended and brought to trial." The resolution adopted was an amendment offered by Elbridge Gerry, to be found in his writing on folio 259 $\frac{1}{2}$. The name is written McKallaster in the Journals, and McKallaher in the committee report.

Morgan, Deputy Commissary General of Purchases for that district be allowed dollars per month, as a compensation for his trouble and expences in making the necessary purchases of provisions for the use of the troops stationed at the posts depending upon him for supplies.

That each of his assistants be allowed dollars per month and two rations per day.

That his clerk be allowed dollars p^r month and two rations p^r day.

We have enclosed a paper signed by Colonel Morgan, which will shew Congress his expectations and his Ideas of the appointments necessary for the persons employed under him. We beg leave to add that a Commission of 2½ p^r Cent on the probable expenditures for provisions in this Department for the year to come, will amount to twice as much as the pay Colonel Morgan asks for himself, of thirty dollars a day for pay and all travelling expences. He informs the Board that he would be extremely sorry to throw any embarrassments in the way of public business; on the contrary, that he is anxious to have the supplies for the Western Department procured; but cannot continue to conduct that business on his present allowance to his certain very great loss; that nevertheless, if the terms he proposes are not agreeable, he will exert himself to the utmost in making the necessary purchases until Congress shall appoint a proper person to Succeed him, so that the Department may not suffer from a want of provisions; hoping in this case that such appointment would not be long postponed; but for this purpose an immediate supply of money is indispensably necessary, but which he has not [^]yet been able to obtain of the Commissary, Generals Agent, who says he cannot obtain it from the Treasury. He further represents, that so much time has already elapsed since his application to the Commissary Generals Agent for money it is out of his power to fulfil the orders he received from the Commander in Chief in the time limited; and that a longer delay will probably put it wholly out of his power to furnish the requisite supplies for the ensuing Campaign.¹

¹ This report is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 147, III, folio 241. The letter of Colonel Morgan, dated April 27, is on folio 245.

A motion was made by Mr. [Gouverneur] Morris, seconded by Mr. [John] Penn;

That a sum of money in specie be immediately sent to the Commander in Chief, for secret services.

In lieu of which a substitute was moved by Mr. [Henry] Laurens, seconded by Mr. [Nathaniel] Scudder in the words following, viz:

That the President write to the Commander in Chief and enquire whether he is in want of specie for secret services.

Question put, to admit the substitute. Passed in the affirmative.

An amendment was then moved by Mr. S[amuel] Adams, seconded by Mr. [Gouverneur] Morris, instead of the words "enquire whether, &c.", to insert, "inform him that if he is in want of specie for secret services, he may draw for any sum or sums to the amount of two thousand guineas upon the treasurer, who will pay the same."

Question on the amendment, passed in the affirmative.

On the question to agree to the motion as amended,

Resolved, That the President write to the Commander in Chief, and inform him that if he is in want of specie for secret services, he may draw for any sum or sums to the amount of two thousand guineas on the treasurer, who will pay the same.¹

Adjourned to 10 oClock to Morrow.

FRIDAY, APRIL 30, 1779

The order of the day being read for proceeding to the consideration of the report of the committee on foreign affairs; and the question under debate being stated, shall Arthur Lee, Esq. commissioner of the United States at the court of Madrid, be recalled?

¹ This appeal is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 42, II, folio 384. Elderkin was owner of the boat True Blue; the name of the captured sloop is not given.

Mr. [William] Paca arose, and informed the House, that he had important information on the subject of the said report, which he would communicate agreeable to the order of the House: he then proceeded to lay on the table a paper signed by himself and Mr. W[illiam] H[enry] Drayton, containing intelligence respecting Arthur Lee, Esq. which was read.

APRIL 30TH, 1779.

On the 15th day of April Instant, Congress ordered that the members of this House, who may have any papers or evidence in their possession relative to the said report, do lay the same upon the Table.

On the twenty eighth day of April Instant, Congress ordered the report of the Committee of Foreign Affairs to be considered. On this day just as the House were about to proceed to the consideration of the said report, the Hon^{ble} W^m Paca informed the House, that he had important information on the subject of the said report which he would communicate agreeable to the order of the House. He then proceeded to lay a paper signed by himself and the Hon^{ble} W. D[H] D[rayton] containing intelligence respecting Arthur Lee Esq^r upon the Table, where it having been read by the Secretary, Mr Paca moved and was seconded by Mr Drayton "that the said paper be entered on the journals."

An objection was made by Mr S. Adams to the said motion, as being out of order; and the President being of opinion that the motion was in order, an appeal was made to the House.¹

Motion of Mr Paca, seconded by Mr Burke

Whereas by Intelligence communicated to Congress by the Minister Plenipotentiary from France there is reason to think that a negotiation for peace will shortly commence at the court of Madrid through the mediation of the said Court; and whereas information has been given to Congress that Mr Arthur Lee, Commissioner to the said Court for these States, has not the confidence of either the Courts of Versailles or Madrid, from which information if true there is reason to think that the appointment of the said Mr Arthur Lee, Plenipotentiary at the Court of Madrid, to negotiate peace for the States would be highly disgusting to both the said courts; and whereas, Congress are informed that the Sieur Gérard, Minister Plenipotentiary from France can give full and complete satisfaction on this subject, and as Congress can not doubt, but what the said Sieur Gérard, from his regard to the interests of these States and the alliance concluded between them and his court, will give such information as he is possessed of, if called upon.

Resolved, That the Sieur Gérard be requested to inform Congress, whether Mr A. Lee possesses the confidence of the court of Versailles or Madrid in such degree, as that they can and will fully and freely consult with and entrust him with all matters and things which relate to the welfare and happiness of these States, and the common interest of the alliance between these States and the Court of France.

April 28. 1779.¹

The undersigned Members of the Congress of the United States of North America have the honor to inform the said Congress,

That upon good grounds, having been led to believe that the conduct of Arthur Lee, Esq., late one of the Commissioners representing these United States at the Court of Versailles, and now sole Commissioner to represent the said States at the Court of Madrid, was disgusting to those Courts, unconciliatory to their subjects, and prejudicial to the honor and interests of the said States.

They were astonished to hear an assertion made in Congress on the 15th. inst. by an Hon. Member from Massachusetts Bay, as from the highest authority in America, that the said Commissioner is possessed of the confidence of the Court of Versailles; and since, another assertion, by another Hon. Member from the same State, that the said Commissioner is the most proper person to represent the said States at the Court of Madrid, assertions which, being made in the debates upon foreign affairs, were made to influence Congress to continue the said Arthur Lee, Esq. as the public minister of the said United States to the Court of Madrid, at the expected negotiations for a general pacification under the mediation of that Court.

That the undersigned, impressed with a conviction that in such an important conjuncture, the Minister to represent the said States at the Court of Madrid, ought not to be disagreeable to that Court, nor to the Court of Versailles, in faithful alliance with these States; and that the interest of the said States demanded that it should be precisely ascertained, whether or not the said Commissioner was disagreeable to the said Court; for certain information upon the point, they have, from the necessity of the case, been compelled to apply to the Minister Plenipotentiary of France, residing near Congress, as the highest source of information in America.

That in consequence of such application, the Minister Plenipotentiary produced to the under-signed an original letter to him from the Count de Vergennes, Minister for foreign affairs at the Court of Versailles, dated the 29th of October, 1778, in which after having stated the intelligence which has been communicated to Congress, by the Minister Plenipotentiary, in February last, and after having assigned some reasons for not having communicated that intelligence to the American Commissioners in Paris, the Count de Vergennes concludes in these terms, "Je vous avouerai d'ailleurs que je crains M. Lee et ses entours"—"Besides, I confess to you that I fear Mr. Lee and those about him"

That the Minister Plenipotentiary added that this consideration induced the Court of Versailles to keep secret from the said Commissioner the intended sailing of the Count d'Estaing for America, until his fleet was ready to put to sea; that the said Commissioner, by his conduct on several occasions, created the highest disgust in the Court of Versailles against him. That the Court of Madrid, in the closest connection with that of Versailles, entertained the same sentiments respecting the said Commissioner, not only on account of his conduct on those occasions, but because of his imprudent conduct in Spain; and, in a word, the Minister Plenipotentiary expressly declared, that he has every reason to think, that neither of those Courts have that confidence in the said Commissioner, which is necessary to give success to the negotiations of a foreign minister.

The undersigned having received such decisive information from the Minister of France, with liberty to communicate it to Congress, think it is their indispensable duty to the United States and to themselves, to lay the same explicitly before this the Supreme Council of America; to the end that they may not be misled to continue the said Commissioner, as the representative of these United States, at a Court in the highest manner disgusted at his conduct, and at which, of consequence, his negotiations must be unsuccessful. But if, unfortunately, it shall be disregarded, they will have the consolation to reflect, that in giving this information, they discharged their duty to the United States; and that having given it, they cannot justly be held responsible for the consequences of a measure but too likely to prove unconciliatory abroad, ruinous to the public finances at home, and an impediment to the speedy and honorable pacification, securing the Independence of the United States of North America.

Finding every avenue to the motion referred to barricadoed by reports of the boards of treasury and war, and orders of the day, which their utmost efforts have not been able to remove, that if they must wait for its decision untill the reports of those boards and orders of the day already made and received, and others which are constantly increasing the Pile, shall be decided, they may wait until the intire destruction of their State shall have rendered all application to congress, in its behalf, altogether unnecessary: Finding too, that it is out of their power to demonstrate to their constituents the assiduity they have used to procure a speedy determination of said motion, the house having voted it to be disorderly to connect with motions for postponing the reasons therefor, the Undersigned are compelled to this mode of Application, which they have observed hath generally proved successful.

The Undersigned forbear to take notice of the uncommon obstructions which have been thrown in the way of the request of the State which they have the honour to represent, whenever it hath had the good fortune to come under the Consideration of Congress.

The Undersigned trust that Congress will never give to any one of the United States just occasion to tax them with partiality, sincerely wish that their Union may be perpetual, and are with the greatest Respect, Your Excellency's most obedt hble Servts.,

That there is due to the estate of William Baxter, deceased, his pay as colonel of a battalion of the Pennsylvania flying camp, from October 23d, to November 16, 1776, inclusive, fifty dollars, to be paid to Joseph Hart, Esq., and by him transmitted to the widow, Elizabeth Baxter.¹

Ordered, That the said accounts be paid.

A report of the commissioners of accounts was read, representing that they have discovered a mistake in the account of Steiner and Cist, for which a warrant issued on the 5th of April last, and have therefore stopped and returned the said warrant:

Ordered, That the said report be referred to a committee of three:

The members chosen, Mr. G[ouverneur] Morris, Mr. [William Henry] Drayton, and Mr. S[amuel] Adams.

The Committee on the Treasury, to whom were referred the letters from Jonathan Trumbull, Jun. administrator of the late Commissary General Joseph Trumbull, respecting the manner of settling the said account, report,

That during the life time of the said late Commissary General Trumbull, the commissioners of accounts for the middle department of accounts had orders from the Board of Treasury to settle all the accounts of the said late commissary:

¹ This report, dated April 28, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 136, III, folio 283.

That it was represented by the commissioners that the said accounts were not collected and ready for settlement:

That the commissary general's death put an end to the prospect of such settlement, and the said commissioners of accounts have been directed to repair to the Board of Treasury:

That there has been no want of care or attention in the Board of Treasury to get the said accounts settled, as appears by an official report of the commissioners' accounts for the middle department of accounts, a copy of which is annexed:¹

That the committee are of opinion, that under the present circumstances it will be advisable to grant full power to Jonathan Trumbull, Jun. Esq. to settle and adjust, at the public expence, all the accounts of the several deputy commissaries and purchasers employed by or under the late Commissary Trumbull: Whereupon, Congress came to the following resolutions:

Whereas the accounts of the deputy purchasing and issuing commissaries, under the late Commissary General Joseph Trumbull, deceased, were unsettled at the time of his death, and still remain to be adjusted, and it is necessary that those accounts should be closed without delay:

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of John Biddle, Isaac Howell, Peter Thomson, Isaac Snowden and Nathaniel Faulkner, inspectors of the press, for the sum of five thousand dollars, to be advanced them on their accounts, and for which they are to be accountable.

~~to discharge a bill from Barge and Syng for sum given~~ to defray sundry contingent expences attending the emissions of bills of credit.¹

That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of Joseph Carleton, for eight hundred dollars, in full of his account as paymaster to the Board of War and Ordnance.

Resolved, That the claims of Colonel Johnson, for purchasing arms and cloathing, ought to be settled agreeable to a resolution of Congress of 4th September last, and if no allowance has been made in the adjustment of his account with the auditors of the main army for expences on business not incidental to his office, that they be directed to ascertain the time in which he was so employed, and make him an allowance accordingly: that no charges for expences and services in recruiting his regiment other than what are authorized by resolutions of Congress, nor the difference in value between gold advanced in the year 1776 and bills of credit received for the same in the year 1778, as set forth in his petition to the hon^{ble} council of Pennsylvania, can be admitted or allowed.

Resolved, That for the speedy supply of the money for exchanging the emissions of May 20, 1777, and April 11, 1778, bills of 70 and 80 dollars be struck in lieu of the denominations of 7 and 8 dollars, ordered by a resolution of Congress of January 14, 1779: that for this purpose, instead of 116,280 bills of the denominations of 20, 8, 7, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1, respectively, there shall be emitted, 31,427 bills, each of the denominations of 80, 70, 20, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1, which will reduce the sum ordered to be struck by the resolution aforesaid five dollars.

The commissioners report,

That they have examined the account of Major General R. Howe, for his travelling expences, with that of his suite, from Charleston, South Carolina, to Philadelphia, and find it amounts to 6063 60/90 dollars, and that he has received of Benjamin Harrison, deputy pay master general in Virginia, 1000 dollars, which leaves a balance of 5063 60/90 dollars, due to the said Major General R. Howe.

That there is due to Captain William Bratton, for pay &c. of his company of the 6th, now 7th Pennsylvania regiment, commanded by Colonel William Irwin, a ballance of one thousand and sixty one dollars and 69/90ths.¹

Ordered, That the said accounts be paid.

The committee, to whom was referred the letter from the lieutenant governor of South Carolina, brought in a report; whereupon,

Resolved, It is the opinion of this Committee that the southern army, now acting in defence of South Carolina and Georgia, ought to be reinforced without delay.

¹ This report, dated May 5, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 136, III, folio 291.

Resolved, That the recruits lately raised and raising in Virginia, to compleat the said State's quota of troops for the continental army, be ordered with all possible expedition to join the southern army in South Carolina [and Georgia]¹:

That Bland's and Baylor's regiments of light Dragoons be ordered on the same service, and that the colonels of those regiments be authorized and enabled to engage as many men as they have horses and accoutrements to equip.²

That Colonel Bland's regiment of light dragoons be ordered to join the southern army as expeditiously as possible:

That the commanding officer of Colonel Baylor's regiment of light dragoons, be directed to order as many of the dismounted men of the said regiment as Colonel Bland has spare horses for, to join Colonel Bland without delay:

That the said commanding officer be directed to detach all the mounted and equipped men of the said regiment, under officers proportioned to the number of men, to join Colonel Bland's regiment, and proceed therewith to reinforce the southern army:

That Mr. President write a letter to the governor of Virginia, requesting, in the name of Congress, that the new levies in Virginia may be furnished with the cloaths promised them by law, as speedily as possible, and if this cannot be immediately done, that the State use its influence to induce the men to proceed, with satisfactory assurances that the cloathing shall follow as soon as possible.

Resolved, That as the State of North Carolina hath but two regiments of its quota now with the main army, it will be expedient that the said State supply the rest of its quota for defence of the more southern states.³

Resolved, That the state of North Carolina be earnestly requested to complete its quota of troops in the most expe-

TREASURY OFFICE May 7th 1779.

The Committee on the Treasury beg leave to report:

That the Commissary General of purchases, having appropriated the sum of 4,200,000 dollars, advanced him the 25th March last, applies for a further supply of four million five hundred thousand; and that the Quarter Master General, in addition to the sum of 5,000,000 dollars advanced him the 5th April last, applies this day for five million more, "which sum" (M^r Pettit in his letter to the Committee says) he "Imagines will be necessary in the course of this month." That the expences of the Commissary and Quarter Master General's departments, now at the rate of 120 million dollars a year, increase (as they ever have) with much greater rapidity than the quantity of money. That in the year 1776 the expence of both those departments was 5,399,219 dollars; in the year 1777, 9,272,534; in the year 1778, 37,202,421; and from the increasing demands this year there is reason to apprehend, if the money should continue to be current, it will be at least 200,000,000, unless measures are speedily taken to put the Finances of the United States on a better footing. The Committee beg leave further to represent that by the best calculations they are able to make the Continental currency at this time in circulation, including so much of the emissions of May 20th, 1777, and April 11th, 1778, as have not been loaned to the public, does not amount to a greater sum than 120,000,000 dollars, and admitting 20 millions to be sufficient for a circulating medium instead of 30 millions (which is generally supposed to be necessary), the depreciation according to the quantity should be but six times greater than it was in the year 1776, and 32,035,214 should be the expence of those departments this year. But if, in consequence of the war, a large allowance be made for the rise of labour and produce, and it is supposed that the expence of these departments should now be six times as much as it was in the year 1777, the amount would then be but 55,635,204 dollars, instead of 200,000,000.

Your Committee beg leave once more to represent the distress they feel on the public account from these great and growing evils.

They have stated their opinion in a report on finance now before Congress, and sincerely wish that some measures may be speedily adopted for preventing a further depreciation of the currency, which threatens a total dissolution of the public credit.¹

A letter, of 5th, from General Washington, was read:²

Ordered, That it be referred to the committee appointed to prepare an address to the several states.

That two members be added to that committee.

The members chosen, Mr. S[amuel] Adams, and Mr. [Thomas] Burke.

“Friends and Fellow Citizens:

“The great military exertions, and the insidious negotiations carried on by the King of Great Britain against these United States, have hitherto in a great measure been rendered vain, under the favor of Heaven by your United efforts. Our duty to God, to mankind to posterity and to ourselves, calls upon us to continue those efforts to the utmost of our abilities in order that by vigorous exertions we may make such effectual impressions on the enemy as will at length compel them to abandon their iniquitous design of conquest, and to yield to reasonable terms of peace.

“The arduous contest with Great Britain in its commencement was sustained under almost every possible disadvantage, and it has been conducted with such success as manifests to us the peculiar favor of Divine Providence. We have happily formed very powerful alliances, and the war is now in such a situation that the ultimate objects of these United States may speedily be established on foundations so firm as not hereafter to be shaken by the power or policy of our enemies, Provided such exertions shall be made as are in our power, and which the favorable conjuncture demands.

“Wherefore, we your Representatives in Congress do announce to you that the present campaign will afford an opportunity to bring the war to a happy conclusion; but that the most vigorous efforts of these states will be necessary. Such efforts will be called for, according to the nature of the intended operations. And it is hereby in the most earnest manner recommended to the legislatures of the States respectively to invest their respective executive powers with ample authority to call forth and direct their force against the common enemy; to each executive power to make with all possible expedition such arrangements as may effect the most decisive movements, and to our generous fellow citizens to act with the vigor becoming men contending for every thing which can secure the dignity and happiness of themselves and their posterity, and which is necessary for the establishing of the honor and independence of our country."¹

According to the order of the day, Congress proceeded to consider the memorial of the Minister Plenipotentiary of France read yesterday, and the report of the committee on former communications of the said minister, &c. and some time being spent thereon,

According to order, Congress resumed the consideration of the report of the committee of the whole; and the proposition under debate when the subject was last before Congress being read, to wit:

"That the right of fishing on the coasts and banks
"of North America be reserved to the United States
"as fully as they enjoyed the same when subject to the "king of Great Britain, excepting always what shall "have been excepted by the treaty of Paris between "France and the United States, the whole to be explained by the treaties of Utrecht and of Paris with "Great Britain, and of Paris with the United States of
"North America."

A substitute was moved by Mr. [Gouverneur] Morris, seconded by Mr. [Thomas] Burke, in the words following:

Whereas this Congress did on the fourth day of July, 1776, declare the several colonies by them represented to be free and independent states, that they were absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connexion between them and the state of Great Britain was and ought to be totally dissolved; and that, as free and independent states, they had full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and do all other acts and things which independent states might of right do; and for the support of that declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence, did mutually pledge to each other their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honour.

And whereas this Congress did resolve on the 22d day of April, 1778, That the said states could not with propriety hold any conference or treaty with any commissioners on the part of Great Britain, unless they should as a preliminary thereto, either withdraw their fleets and armies, or else in positive and express terms acknowledge the independence of the said states.

And whereas this Congress, in a letter of the 17th day of June, 1778, from their President to the British commissioners, signed by their unanimous consent, did declare themselves inclined to peace, and that they would be ready to enter upon the consideration of a treaty of peace and commerce not inconsistent with treaties already subsisting, when the King of Great Britain should demonstrate a sincere disposition for that purpose: And whereas it is agreed in the treaty of alliance between the Most Christian King and the United States, that neither of the parties should conclude either truce or peace with Great Britain without the formal consent of the other first obtained; and it is mutually engaged that the said parties should not lay down their arms until the independence of the United States should have been formally or tacitly assured by the treaty or treaties that should terminate the war.

And whereas his Most Christian Majesty therein guaranties on his part, to the United States, their liberty, sovereignty and independence, absolute and unlimited, as well in matters of government as of commerce.

And whereas from information lately received, it is probable that a treaty of peace may soon be set on foot on the preliminary acknowledgment of the independence of the said states: And whereas, considering the exhausted situation of the said states, the derangement of their finances, and the defect of their resources, it is highly expedient to put a stop to the present destructive war: Therefore,

Resolved, That this Congress will agree to a treaty of peace with Great Britain, provided the absolute and unlimited liberty, sovereignty and independence of these United States, as well in matters of government as of commerce, shall be thereby acknowledged and assured; and provided, that no terms or articles shall be therein contained which are inconsistent with, or repugnant to, the treaties already subsisting between the Most Christian King and these United States.¹

Engineers, but were informed that a general regulation as to all Officers on Command was about to be made by Congress, and it was thought best, to avoid comparisons and jealousies, that the Engineers should partake of the same regulation, and if at any time extra allowances were necessary, it would be better to make them in every particular case, than to establish a rule for the Engineers only. The Board not conceiving themselves authorized to settle the pay under the power given them to make regulations have agreed to report to Congress:

Resolved, That the pay and subsistence of the engineers and of the officers and men of the companies of sappers and miners, shall be the same with those of officers of the like ranks and of the men in the artillery of these states:

It having been represented that from the advanced price of the necessaries of life the pay of the Officers in the Department of the Commissary General of Issues has become totally inadequate for their support, by which many have already resigned, and others alledge they will be obliged to leave the Department unless some additional provision is made for them. Therefore agreed to report to Congress.

Resolved, That the pay of 200 dollars per month be allowed to the deputy commissary general of issues, to commence from the 1st day of January last:

AT A BOARD OF WAR, 23rd April, 1779.

Present, Col Pickering and Mr Peters

The Board taking into consideration General Green's letter of the 15th inst, referred from Congress, and conceiving that the reasons therein offered for an augmentation of pay to several of the Officers employed in the Quarter Master Generals Department, are deserving of attention, and that some alterations in the system of his department are requisite: beg leave to Report to Congress.

¹ This report, dated April 15, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 147, III, folio 209. It is endorsed "Bro't in, 19th April."

Resolved, That all deputy quarter masters general who transact business upon commissions, shall not be entitled either to pay or rations; but where they act without receiving such commissions, whether stationed at a post or with the army, they shall be allowed 200 dollars per month, two rations per day, and 40 dollars per month subsistence:

That the pay of a deputy waggon master general be 100 dollars per month, and one ration [per day], and 20 dollars per month subsistence; and that a waggon master be allowed 80 dollars per month, one ration per day, and 10 dollars per month subsistence:

That a deputy commissary general of forage attending the main army, or attached to an army in a separate department, be allowed the same pay and rations as a deputy quarter master general acting without commissions:

That the assistant commissaries of forage either attending the army to collect forage on a march, or those employed in purchasing under the principal purchasers in districts, shall have the same allowance as the assistant deputy quarter masters general: and the forage masters who attend the receipt and issues of forage at posts or magazines, and one with each brigade of the army, be allowed the same pay and rations as waggon masters:

That all staff officers who serve with the army shall be allowed cloathing on the same conditions as officers in the line, provided they engage for a year or longer.¹

The committee appointed to inquire into the state of the Pennsylvania troops, and to report whether an additional brigadier is wanting for the troops of that State, and to whom was referred a letter from Mr. President Reed to the delegates of the State of Pennsylvania, which was laid before Congress 26 January last, brought in a report, and the same being read:

That Benedict Arnold was promoted to the Rank of Brigadier General in the Army of the United States on the 10th of January, 1776.

That Arthur St. Clair was promoted to the same Rank on the 9th of August in the same year, and to the rank of Major General on the 19th of February in the year 1777.

That on the 12th of November, 1777. Congress adopted a principle for settling the relative Rank of the officers in the Army of the United States viz.

“According to that standing they held in the Army immediately before their present Commissions, except where persons are promoted upon a principle of merit only.”

Your Committee are of opinion that agreeably to this principle General St. Clair cannot take rank of General Arnold.

With respect to the State of the Pennsylvania Troops your Committee Report:

That the said State has Eleven Battalions in the Continental Service.

That the Soldiers in the same are for the most part (as set forth in the Resolutions of the Council of the said State) enlisted during the war.

That a German Battalion in the Service of the United States is supplied by the said State and Maryland in conjunction.

That the proportion of General officers for the said quota, agreeably to the arrangements of the Continental Army, is as follows viz:

Two Major Generals, four Brigadier Generals.

That the said officers ought to be inhabitants of the State of Pennsylvania at the time of promotion, agreeably to the principle, that every State should have officers in proportion to the Soldiers furnished from her Citizens.

That the general officers hereafter named, and none others now in the Continental Service, were inhabitants of the State of Pennsylvania at the time of promotion to wit:

Major General St. Clair, Brigadiers Thompson, Wayne, and Hand.

That one addition[al] Major General ought to be promoted from among the Brigadiers who are now Citizens of the State of Pennsylvania.

That after such promotion two Brigadiers only will remain who were Inhabitants of the said State at the time of promotion. Therefore the two Colonels from the line of the said State ought to be promoted to the rank of Brigadier.

That Brigadier General Thompson, and Colonel McGaw, who are first in their respective ranks in the said line, are now Prisoners with the Enemy, and therefore cannot be promoted; but so soon as their promotion shall take place, their relative rank, will be regulated by the Resolution of 12th November.

That Brigadier General Anthony Wayne, is the next Senior Brigadier, and Colonel William Irvin is the next Senior Colonel in the line of the said State.

That the relative rank of the said officers in case of promotion will be regulated and preserved by the Resolution aforesaid.¹

January 10th, 1776, Benedict Arnold was promoted to the Rank of Brigadier General in the Army of the United States.

March 1st of the same year, John Armstrong and several other officers were promoted to the same rank.

August 9th of the same year, Arthur St. Clair was promoted from the rank of Colonel to that of Brigadier.

February 19th, 1777, Brigadier St. Clair was promoted to the rank of Major General.

May 2d of the same year, Brigadier Arnold was promoted to the same rank.

On the 12 of November following, Congress by a Resolution confirmed a principle recommended by a board of General Officers for settling the relative rank of Officers in the Continental Line, according to that standing they held in the army immediately before their present Commissions, except where persons are promoted on a principle of merit only.

In the report made by the said General Officers is the following passage: "We have had retrospect no farther than to the rank they held before their last promotion." From this State, it appears that General Arnold had rank as brigadier General of Generals Armstrong and St. Clair immediately before their last promotion, and therefore that the supposed Grievance to Pennsylvania in this particular, is a mistake.

General Armstrong resigned his commission as brigadier, April the 4th, 1777, which being prior to the promotion of General Arnold to the rank of Major General could not be occasioned thereby; this suggestion is without foundation.

Your Committee further report that the State of Pennsylvania having 11 Battalions in Service, and one half a German Battalion, in Company with the State of Maryland, two Major Generals, and four Brigadier Generals, Inhabitants of the said State of Pennsylvania, ought to be in Commission in the Continental Service, on the Principle that every State ought to have Military Officers from her own Citizens in proportion to the Number of her Citizens that are in the ranks.

That at present the State of Pennsylvania has only one of her Citizens in the rank of Major General, to wit Major General St. Clair, and only three in the rank of Brigadiers, to wit, Brigadiers Thompson, Wayne and Hand.

That it will be proper to promote one of the said Brigadiers to the rank of Major General; in Consequence whereof, only two will remain; and two Colonels, Citizens of Pennsylvania, ought to be promoted to the rank of Brigadiers.

That Brigadier General Thompson, and Colonel Robert McGaw each of whom is Senior in his respective rank in the Pennsylvania Line, are now Prisoners of War, and therefore cannot be at present promoted.

That whenever the said officers, or any others shall be promoted, they will take rank, agreeable to the Principle laid down in the resolution of November the 12th, 1777.

Your Committee also report, that by the fourth resolution of the Council of Pennsylvania, relative to General Hand, a mistaken principle of promotion is held up. No State is supposed to have an Exclusive right to the Nomination of Officers for promotion, nor is any Delegate in Congress excluded from Nominating from States which he does not represent. In the Election, but not in Nomination, the Congress has regard to the Quotas of the States, and Seniority of rank, and the Principle that always governs with respect to the Quota is that above Suggested, namely, that the Troops of each State should have a proportional Number and rank of Officers to the Numbers supplied. In this View General Hand, being an Inhabitant of Pennsylvania, however Nominated, must be considered as part of the Quota of Pennsylvania. And as no one State can make or reject General officers, so this resolution of the Council of Pennsylvania cannot be adopted. Neither can the first resolution, relative to the apportionment of General Officers, being founded on a Principle and practice not known to, or admitted by Congress.

That as to the admission of the field Officers of the Troops of North Carolina, such Admission, if it did happen, can avail nothing, officers in the Army not being competent to admit or reject officers of any rank, much less of the rank of Generals. But as they could not know the circumstance of a Nomination in Congress, so it may be presumed this is a mistake; as is the Suggestion that the same was admitted by the Delegates from that State at the time when the Committee of Arrangements made report, there being no delegates from that State present in Congress.¹

Resolved, That an additional brigadier be appointed for the Pennsylvania troops, and that to-morrow be assigned for the appointment.

Colonel W. Irwine [was] nominated by the committee.

Resolved, That the farther consideration of the report be postponed.

Ordered, That the committee appointed to prepare an answer to the letter lately received by Congress from his Most Christian Majesty, do also report the draft of a representation to the King of France, stating the difficulties to which these States are exposed in obtaining arms, military and naval stores, and clothing for the American army and navy, requesting his Majesty to order them to be furnished with the necessary supplies, and pledging to him the faith of these States for the repayment of such sums, with interest, as may be advanced on their account, as soon as the restoration of peace shall enable them to make the necessary remittances.

That the said representation contain strong assurances of the confidence of Congress in the friendship of his Majesty, and of their determination to evince the sense they entertain of it by a uniform adherence to the principles of the alliance.

And in case such acknowledgment shall be refused, and our allies can be prevailed on to assist in the prosecution of the war, no peace be agreed to on the part of these United States. But in case our allies shall not agree to assist in prosecuting the war, the said ministers be instructed to consent to a peace without such acknowledgment; provided, that the claim of these states to such right of fishing shall, in no event, be given up."

After some debate, another substitute, in lieu of the whole, was moved by Mr. [Gouverneur] Morris, seconded by Mr. [Meriwether] Smith, in the words following:

"That if the court of Great Britain shall immediately acknowledge the independence of the United States of America, then, that an equal share of the fisheries with Great Britain, as far as the same can be obtained consistently with the treaty of Paris between France and the United States, be required and insisted on; but that, if Great Britain shall continue to prosecute the present iniquitous and destructive war, then, that eventual engagements be taken to exclude her from the fisheries, and divide the same equally between France, Spain, and America."

A motion was made by Mr. [Richard Henry] Lee, seconded by Mr. [Roger] Sherman, to strike out the words, "that if the court of Great Britain shall immediately acknowledge the independence of the United States of America, then."

The question, Shall those words stand, passed in the negative; and the words were struck out.

Another amendment was moved by Mr. R[ichard] H[enry] Lee, seconded by Mr. [Elbridge] Gerry, to strike out the words "as far as the same can be obtained."¹

Mons^r De Guijon, a Lieutenant of Dragoons in the service of France, was sent from York Town with General M^cIntosh to be employed as he thought proper. He acted as a Lieutenant in a Regiment at Fort Pitt. General M^cIntosh represents his conduct in a favorable point of view. He now applies for farther employment; but on being told he cannot have it, he agrees to return to France, if furnished with some means to get there. The Board being of opinion that it is better to grant him a sum of money to enable him to embark than to retain him here at expence of the United States, beg leave to report:

That the sum of dollars be paid to Mon^r De Guijon to enable him to prosecute his voyage to France, it being impracticable to employ him in the service of these States consistent with the present arrangement of the Army.¹

On the question to agree to the report,

Passed in the negative.

A letter from Major [John Skey] Eustace was read:

Ordered, To lie on the table.

A letter, of April 23, from W. Finnie, deputy Q. M. G., was read:²

Ordered, That it be referred to the Board of War.

On the recommendation of the Board of Treasury,

Resolved, That Hampton Round and Cornelius Comegys be appointed signers of bills of credit of the United States.³

The Board of War report,

"That they have taken into consideration the reference from Congress relative to the promotion of Brigadier Moultrie,⁴ and are of opinion, that it would be inexpedient to promote Brigadier Moultrie, unless a more general promotion took place, as some other states think themselves entitled to a promotion of their general officers; but as it may excite uneasiness and difficulties unless a continental officer commands the army in the southern district, it will be best to make a special appointment of Brigadier Moultrie, to be commandant of the southern army;" Whereupon,

Resolved, That Brigadier General Moultrie be commander, in the absence of Major General Lincoln, of the southern army, during its continuance to the southward of North Carolina, with the allowance of major general on a separate command, until the further order of Congress.¹

Resolved, That to morrow immediately after reading the journal, Congress proceed in the consideration of the report of the Board of Treasury relative to finance.

That Saturday next be assigned for the appointment of a cloathier general.

Congress proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee on the communications of the Minister, &c.

The subject resumed, and on motion of Mr. [Meriwether] Smith, seconded by Mr. [Roger] Sherman,

Resolved, That the words "can be obtained" be struck out; and in their room the word "is" inserted; and that the word "consistently" be changed into "consistent."

The substitute being amended to read, "that an equal share of the fisheries with Great Britain, as far as the same is consistent with the treaty of Paris between France and the United States, be required and insisted on, but that if," &c. to the end.

A motion was made by Mr. [Elbridge] Gerry, seconded by Mr. [Richard Henry] Lee, to amend the first part as far as the words "insisted on," by substituting in lieu thereof the words following:

¹ This report, dated April 23 (present, Pickering, Spencer, and Peters), is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 147, III, folio 235. The last paragraph was "reconsidered" and "agreed."

"That a common right with Great Britain to the fisheries on the coasts and banks of North America be required and insisted on, preserving inviolate the treaty of Paris between France and these United States."

To which it was moved by Mr. [James] Duane, seconded by Mr. [William Henry] Drayton, to add, "provided our allies can be prevailed on to prosecute the war; but in no event shall the right or claim of these states to the said fisheries be yielded up or impaired."

A question being taken, Is this addition in order,
Resolved in the affirmative.

An amendment to the proviso was moved by Mr. Dickinson, seconded by Mr. [John] Penn, instead of the words "can be prevailed on to prosecute the war," to insert, "shall be in circumstances to prosecute the war with effect."

A question being taken, Is this amendment in order,
Resolved in the affirmative.

FRIDAY, MAY 14, 1779

After reading the journal, Mr. M[eriwether] Smith arose, and in his place informed the House, that he saw printed in a newspaper, entitled Royal Gazette, published in New York by James Rivington, a letter written by Henry Laurens, and directed to Governor Houston, of Georgia, which contained matter derogatory to the honor of Congress, injurious to the interest of these United States, and tending to destroy that confidence which the states should repose in that body; and therefore he moved as a matter of privilege, that the said letter be read, and that Mr. Laurens be called on to declare whether he wrote that letter:

Objections were made to the said motion, as out of order, being contrary to the order of yesterday, "that after reading the journal this morning, the report on finance should be considered;" but Mr. [Meriwether] Smith insisting on his motion as a matter of privilege, the debate was proceeding on the question of order, when intelligence was communicated to the House in the words following:

Extract of a letter from his Excellency Thomas Johnson, Esq. dated Annapolis, 12 May, 1779, to Colonel Henry Hollingsworth.

SIR: Last night Captain Hanson, with whom Captain Plunket was agoing as a supercargo, put back to this place; they inform they saw a frigate, a brig of about 14 or 16 guns, a small armed vessel or two, and two prizes in the bay. Hanson narrowly escaped being taken: Captain Jack Nicholson was drove ashore on or near Gwin's Island. Yesterday near the mouth of Patuxent they met with one Mr. Robinson in a boat belonging to Choptank bound down the bay. Robinson told them that on Monday morning he spoke a schooner in the mouth of Puankatank bound to sea, and chased in by a fleet of between 20 and 30 sail, among them several large ships: that she made this fleet off the Horse-shoe on Saturday morning, but it being hazy, they could not make out the exact number: that there were several sloops and schooners amongst them: we have yet heard nothing farther. I am, sir, your obedient servant,

THOMAS JOHNSON.¹

Whereupon, a motion was made by Mr. R[ichard] H[enry] Lee, seconded by Mr. S[amuel] Adams, that the consideration of the question of order be postponed, until order be taken on the intelligence aforesaid.

SATURDAY, MAY 15, 1779

After reading the journal, Mr. [Henry] Laurens arose, and with the leave of the House read in his place a paper which he delivered in, and which being read at the table, was ordered to be entered on the journal, and is as follows:

"Mr. President, the motion which was made yesterday by one of the honorable delegates from Virginia, for reading a presumed copy of a letter said to have been written by me, and printed in the garrison of the enemy on New York island, and for calling upon me to declare whether I had written such a letter, appeared to me to be irregular, unprecedented, and full of dangerous consequences, derogatory to the honor and dignity of Congress, and alarming to the free and independent citizens of these United States: thence arose those cautions and admonitions which a sense of duty prompted me to offer to the House while the subject was under debate, and I rejoice in that wisdom which was displayed by the House in overruling the attempt.

"Sir, had the gentleman who made the motion called on me, and in proper terms enquired whether the printed letter was a copy of an original address from me to Governor

Houston, I would have given him all the satisfaction that could have been desired by any man of true honor.

"And now, sir, as, if I have been guilty of aught criminal, or have inadvertently expressed any thing amiss in my correspondence as a private citizen with Mr. Houston, I would rather receive a censure or a reproof from Congress than be charged with a want of candour, or commit my conduct to the whispers of malice, I take the liberty of informing Congress that I did, on the 27 August, write a private letter to Governor Houston.

"If the House shall judge it proper to determine by a vote that they may of right demand a copy of that private letter, and shall in consequence of such vote call on me, or if Congress shall be pleased by a vote to direct their President in writing to request me to lay before them a copy of that letter, I will, in either case, produce a genuine and true copy, reserving to myself in the mean time the privilege of voting, as I certainly should vote if I were not a party concerned.

"I confide in the candor of the House to order this address to be entered on the journal, and if the House shall be pleased to call for, or request a copy of my letter, I shall expect that will also be entered on the journal. 15 May, 1779."

So it was resolved in the affirmative.

Mr. [Meriwether] Smith then moved, seconded by Mr. [John] Penn,

That the sense of the House be expressed, whether the motion he made yesterday was an attempt "irregular, unprecedented, and full of dangerous consequences, derogatory to the honor and dignity of Congress, and alarming to the free and independent citizens of these United States."

A motion was made by Mr. [Thomas] Burke, seconded by Mr. [Cyrus] Griffin, as a substitute to the foregoing, in the words following:

"That, by the vote for entering on the journal the paper delivered in by Mr. [Henry] Laurens, Congress did not mean to give any opinion on the suggestion therein contained, that the motion made by Mr. [Meriwether] Smith was unprecedented and full of dangerous consequences, derogatory to the honor and dignity of Congress, and alarming to the free and independent citizens of these United States."

That the allowance made to Captain McLane in the settlement of his accounts by the auditors of the army, being agreeable to the resolutions of Congress for recruiting and subsisting the Continental battalions, your committee are restrained from increasing the allowance according to the prayer of his petition.¹

Agreed

The Committee on the Treasury having reported,

That in obedience to the order of Congress they have referred the accounts of General Count Pulaski's legion to the auditors of accounts for the main army: that for want of regularity in keeping those accounts and of proper vouchers, agreeable to the directions of Congress and the Board of Treasury, Auditor Johnston has reported to them that it is impracticable to settle the said accounts, as appears from his report and remarks accompanying their report:

Resolved, That the commanding officer of the detachment of the army serving in South Carolina and Georgia, be authorized to appoint a pay master for the said legion; and that Captain Baldesqui, the present pay master, be detained until he shall have produced competent vouchers, and settled the accounts of the said legion.²

The Committee on the Treasury report,

"That Congress did, on the 1st day of August, 1777, appropriate one million of dollars for the service of Georgia; That several sums of money were from time to time drawn out of the treasury in favour of the said State, and in part of the said grant; That a warrant was drawn by the President of Congress on John Gibson, auditor general, dated the 1st day of September, 1777, in favour of the delegates of Georgia, for nineteen thousand dollars advanced to enable them to discharge two bills drawn on them by the Governor of that State, for the purpose of recruiting the 3rd Georgia battalion; one of them for fourteen thousand dollars, in favour of Captain Thomas Scott, and the other in favour of Captain Clement Nash for five thousand dollars. That on the same day Mr. Nathan Brownson, one of the delegates of the said State, did draw an order on the said Auditor General, for the payment of the said 14,000 dollars, to Captain Scott, part of the said warrant, which was accordingly done as appears by a receipt on the back of the said order; That Mr. Joseph Wood, another of the delegates of the State of Georgia, did afterwards receive of the said Auditor General the full amount of the aforesaid warrant, without discounting the sum which had been paid in the order of the said N. Brownson, as appears by two receipts, endorsed on the said warrant, under the hand of the said Joseph Wood; one of them, dated 23rd December, 1777, for six thousand dollars; and the other by a warrant on the treasurer, for which the said Auditor General is accountable, dated 11 February, 1778, for the sum of thirteen thousand dollars, granted expressly to enable him to discharge the residue of the said warrant of 1st September last, in favour of the delegates of Georgia; which two receipts amount to 19,000 dollars, the sum mentioned in the said warrant, from all which, it appears that the said Auditor General has advanced for the said State of Georgia, fourteen thousand dollars beyond the warrant of Congress, for which he ought to have a voucher; And that the last mentioned sum of 14,000 dollars fully compleats the said grant of one million of dollars for the service of Georgia." Whereupon,

Resolved, That a warrant issue on the treasurer in favour of John Gibson, auditor general, for fourteen thousand dollars, being the sum he so paid to the said Scott, on the order of the said Nathan Brownson, on the 1 September, 1777, on account of the State of Georgia, and for which the said State is to be accountable.¹

The Board of War having reported on sundry matters referred to them:

AT A BOARD OF WAR, May 15, 1779.

Present, General Spencer, Colonel Atlee, Colonel Pickering and Mr. Peters.

The Board having considered the letter from General Washington, of the 3d instant, with its enclosures, and that from General Schuyler, of the 25th ulto. on the subject of Indian Affairs, beg leave to report to Congress:

That General Washington be directed to give every information he shall deem expedient to the Commissioners of Indian Affairs in the Northern Department of any intended military operations against the hostile tribes of Indians, that no measures inconsistent therewith may be taken at any treaty or conference with the savages. That General Washington be also directed to give every necessary assistance and advice to the Commissioners, that a proper plan may be formed to establish Peace with such of the tribes or nations as the Commissioners shall, on receiving the necessary information, deem proper, and that they may give every assistance to any intended operations proposed to be carried on for the chastisement of the hostile tribes.

That the said Commissioners of Indian Affairs be authorized to take such measures after receiving the opinion and advice of the Commander in Chief, as they shall think best adapted to circumstances, and most consistent with the interest and safety of the United States so far as concerns their department.¹

Resolved, That the commissioners for Indian affairs in the northern department be directed to consult General Washington upon all treaties with the Indians, and to govern themselves by such instructions as he shall give them relative to any partial or general treaty of peace to be concluded with them.

Resolved, That the adjutant general of the army of the United States, be allowed the same rations as a brigadier general:

That he be permitted to engage two assistants and one clerk, the assistants to be taken from the line, and both they and the clerk to be approved of by the Commander in Chief:

That each assistant be allowed such an addition to his appointments as an officer in the line, as shall make the same equal to those of a lieutenant colonel:

That the clerk be taken from the subalterns or volunteers in the army, and allowed pay and subsistence equal in the whole to those of a captain.¹

WAR OFFICE, May 12, 1779.

The Board are informed by Lieutenant Colonel Bayard, of Colonel Broadhead's regiment, the 8th Pennsylvania, that the time of service of that regiment will expire next August: and by Lieutenant Colonel Campbell, of the 13th Virginia regiment, that the time of service of the men of that regiment will expire next autumn, by November at farthest; that if money were supplied them, they could probably reenlist the greater part of their respective regiments: That no money could be obtained from the Treasury of Pennsylvania; and Colonel Campbell who is present, unless furnished here must be obliged to proceed to Williamsburg, where perhaps he may be disappointed: That these two regiments form almost the whole force in the Western Department, and unless the Men are re-enlisted immediately, it is probable few will enlist at all.

The Board therefore considering these two regiments as essential for the defence of the Western Frontiers, and that if they are discharged at the times above mentioned it will be exceedingly difficult, if not impracticable, to supply their places with other troops, beg leave to report:

Resolved, That sixty thousand dollars be granted for the purpose of reinlisting the non commissioned officers and privates of the 8 Pennsylvania regiment, and forty thousand dollars for the purpose of reinlisting the non commissioned officers and privates of the 13th Virginia regiment, upon the terms proposed in the resolution of Congress of 23rd day of January, and 9th March last, that these sums be paid into Ordered, That the report of the Board of War on the barrack master's representation be re-committed.

That Saturday next be assigned for taking into consideration the report of the Board of War on the department of military stores.

WAR AND ORDNANCE OFFICE, May 1, 1779.

The Board have endeavoured to keep in good temper the persons employed in the Ordnance Department, and prevailed upon them to wait for a long time, in hopes of some fortunate event or measures which might recover the value of our money, and of some general regulation, which including the Officers and Men of the Artillery Artificers under Colonel Flower, and the Commissaries, Clerks, and Conductors, in the civil branches of the Ordnance, would ease the minds of these useful and indispensably necessary people, and stimulate them to perform the tasks assigned to them with greater comfort to themselves, and of course with more benefit to the public. But their difficulties daily increase: and we are now called upon, by our regard to the public interest, to inform Congress, that this department is on the eve of dissolution, as the Officers, already deeply distressed, will not continue in the service to their certain ruin; nor will a Man reenlist, or recruits engage in the Corps, on the present terms held out to them.

We are well aware that objections lie against the business, about which the Artificers are employed, being done by Soldiers, who having no increase of emolument in view by an increase of labour, are too often idle and inattentive to their duty; and were our Country in the situation of those in Europe, where contracts can be made with certainty and justice to both parties, owing to the fixed value of their Money; and where workmen are so plenty and dependent that they seek for employment, instead of being courted to work, the objections would have their full force: But from a long attention to the subject, we can with confidence pronounce, that the carrying on the Ordnance business by enlisted workmen, is the only way the present circumstances of this Country will admit, so as to have any degree of certainty, in regard to the supplies. Besides it is proposed that the pay of the Artificers should be greater or less in proportion to their industry and the goodness of their work, which will doubtless produce very beneficial effects. The Artificers employed on daily wages are transient, clamorous, ungovernable and extortionate. We were asked four hundred dollars a month by a person we stood in need of to superintend an Armoury, and the wages of hired common workmen, such as Smiths, Carpenters, &c. are ten dollars a day and rations; without any certainty of their continuance even at this sum.

The Officers in the regiment, who do the double duty of Superintending their own Men and those hired to assist them, complain that they see themselves and families reduced to want, while the mere journeyman has at least a sufficiency for his maintainance, and that of his family. The enlisted Artificers draw very grating comparisons between their own and the situation of hired Men, who have ten times their pay.

The condition of these people is peculiar, as most of them have families with whom they connected themselves either previous to their enlistment or since their engaging in the Corps, which being stationary induces them to enter into Matrimonial engagements more than the Men in Marching regiments. The families of such Men are distressed, and themselves discontented: whence the public service must inevitably suffer. Their pay, from the depreciation of the currency, is trifling, compared with that of a British Artificer in the Army, who receives a Spanish dollar per day and rations.

The Officers of the regiment of Artillery Artificers could, by resigning, resume their several employments to great advantage, as most of them, before they entered into the public service, were Master workmen, and possessed of considerable property. Yet they would be satisfied with allowances far short of the emoluments of private business: altho' being taken out of the line of the Army, and rising and Commanding only in their own Corps, they have no Military glory in view, and can expect nothing from the public but pecuniary satisfaction. The other Officers in the Department of Military Stores are much in the same situation. All of them would be contented with a mere support, altho many of them would enrich themselves by leaving the Service: and they say they shall be Obligated to resign for want of subsistence, unless speedily relieved. But if they do, all the Ordnance supplies must Stop, as we know of none who will fill their places.

The Board reluctantly recommend the raising of pay; but in this, as well as the other civil departments of the Army, we do not see how it can be avoided. We know that many of our Officers complain that their pay is not equal to that of a Common Artificer; but they do not advert to the difference of their situations. The Military Officer has promotion and glory for his objects: but the Artificer has only his wages to invite him to his duty. It is the case in all Armies, that workmen receive more pay than many of the Officers; and in the British Service the pay of a Carpenter exceeds that of a Lieutenant.

For these reasons we think that no bad precedent will be established by raising the pay of the Artificers: at the same time it is evidently a matter of indispensable necessity; unless other means can be found that will yield them equal relief. We therefore beg leave to report:

That such of the Officers abovementioned as are allowed provisions and forage by virtue of the Resolution of Congress of the 11th of February, 1778, be still entitled to the same.

That all the Officers and clerks who have served in this Department for one year previous to this date, do now belong to it, and agree to continue therein, shall be entitled to draw out of the Clothier Generals store one suit of clothes, to be paid for at the same rate that Officers in the line are charged for the same: and that they continue to do the same annually, until Congress shall order otherwise.

We beg leave to add, that large as the pay here proposed appears, it is in no case more than four times as much as the pay established in February, 1778, except for the Commissary General, altho' the necessities of life do now generally cost ten times as much as they did then: that the Commissary General, besides superintending the Department, and finally examining all the accounts, and attending to the government, musters, pay and clothing of the corps of Artillery Artificers, is charged with a variety of purchases, to the amount of at least three fourths of the whole expenditures of the Department, that the Board sensible of the weighty objections to the Departments or Commission, preferred the proposition for increasing the monthly pay of the persons employed in the Department of Military Stores: and the Officers therein when representing their present distress, have asked only for a bare maintainance. But for this, less than the sums above mentioned will not be sufficient, in the present depreciated State of the currency; nor even then, without a retrospect to the commencement of the present year, since which time, and indeed for months before, they have unavoidably expended more than their pay; which has obliged some to part with their private fortunes and others to run in debt. We are hence, and from our observation in other cases, led to remark, that in Officers who have been long employed in the public service there appears to be an attachment to it which induces them to continue in it upon terms vastly more moderate than would be insisted on by new Men, who having for some time past attended only to their private Affairs, have contracted more avaricious inclinations, and would therefore refuse employments that would yield them only a descent subsistence. Hence we are led to despair of organizing the department of Military Stores with suitable Officers, if the present set are compelled by their necessities to resign.¹

TUESDAY, 18TH MAY, 1779.

Mr. PRESIDENT,

It gives me real Concern to find that Mr. Laurens a Delegate from the State of South Carolina, considers the Motion I made on Friday last as an Attempt "irregular, unprecedented and full of dangerous Consequences, derogatory to the Honor and Dignity of Congress, and alarming to the free and independent citizens of these united States."

I conceive it to be the Duty of every Member of Congress to receive Information, and to communicate it to Congress, of the Venality, Peculation and Fraud of any of its Members, or of other Persons employed in the public Service. If the Information leads to the Investigation of Truth, it is worthy of Notice and should be attended to. The Contents of the Letter alluded to in the Information I gave, the Manner in which it was published and the Probability that a letter directed to the Governor of Georgia might have fallen into the Hands of the Enemy, in Georgia, did, in my opinion, require the Attention of Congress and of all the free and independent Citizens of these united States, since the Honor of the one and the Interest of the other demanded the an Inquiry concerning the Truth of the Contents. The Publisher in this Instance could not be called upon to justify the Publication, either by Congress or Mr. Laurens, because he was not within the Line of their Power: But Mr. Laurens might have refuted the Publication by a bare Denial of the Authenticity of the Letter; which Justice to Congress and his own Honor required if the Letter published was not genuine. In my Opinion, therefore, there was no Impropriety in the Motion for demanding of Mr. Laurens whether he had written the Letter of which that Publication was said to be a Copy. I am sure the demanding of a Person whether he was the Author of a Letter published in a Newspaper was not unprecedented even in this House. But Mr. Laurens could not be compelled to give Evidence against himself, or even to answer the Question. A Regard to Truth and his own Honor were the only Consideration which could oblige him to answer any Question. The Motion, therefore, could not be "full of dangerous Consequences," nor could it be "alarming to the free and independent Citizens of these united States", unless Mr. Laurens and the free and independent Citizens of these united States should be of Opinion that Truth and Honor ought not to influence the Conduct of Men. If Mr. Laurens has discovered those scenes of Venality, Peculation, and Fraud, which are mentioned in the Letter alluded to, or if he was warranted to say what is therein expressed, he ought indeed to have rejoiced that an Opportunity was given him to unfold them, and thereby to have been instrumental in bringing to punishment the Authors of such Mischiefs to the Public. But, Mr. Laurens has charged me openly in Congress, with having attempted what was "irregular, unprecedented and full of dangerous Consequences, derogatory to the Honor and Dignity of Congress, and alarming to the free and independent Citizens of these united States." And he has said that he rejoices "at the Wisdom displayed by Congress in overruling the Attempt." This Charge is contained in a written Paper, which he read in his Place and desired might be entered upon the Journals of Congress. It hath been received, and is entered upon the Journal, by order of Congress. Without calling upon Congress for that Protection against personal Insult to which every Member is intitled, whilst he is performing his Duty in this House, and a consequent Reparation of the Breach of Privilege; I demanded of Congress the Justice due to my Honor, that the sense of Congress might be expressed whether the Motion I had made was of such a Nature as Mr. Laurens had declared; and I thought myself intitled to satisfaction on this Point; as Congress had received the implied Thanks of Mr. Laurens for the Wisdom displayed in over-ruling the Attempt. Congress has not been pleased to answer the Question; but hath adopted a Resolution, which, in my Opinion, countenances the Charge; as it apologizes for having admitted the Declaration to Record, and leaves it in full Force against me—a Mode of Proceeding, which, if it shall be conclusive in this case, I fear, will impeach the Candor if not the Justice of Congress. I therefore, as well out of Regard to the Dignity of Congress as to my own Honor, repeat my Request that Congress will explicitly declare whether it be their Opinion that the Motion which I made on Friday last was "full of dangerous Consequences, derogatory to the Honor and Dignity of Congress and alarming to the free and independent Citizens of these united States." And having indulged Mr. Laurens with entering his Address upon the Journals of Congress, I hope Congress will allow me equal Justice, and allow me the same Indulgence, by entering this Address upon the Journal of Congress.

In pursuance of the above powers and instructions, the said delegates moved in the words following:

"Whereas it is of the greatest importance to the safety, honor and interest of the United States, that the confederation be closed as soon as may be, and rendered forever binding on the states acceding thereto:

"Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended to each of the states named as parties to the confederation, that they authorize their delegates in Congress to ratify the same on or before the day of next, in conjunction with the delegates of so many other of the said states as shall be willing; to the end, that the same may be thenceforward forever binding on the states so ratifying, notwithstanding that a part of those named shall decline to ratify the same."²

Ordered, That the consideration of the said motion be postponed to Tuesday next.

The delegates of Virginia then delivered in a paper signed by them in the words following:

"In consequence of the foregoing instructions and powers to us given, we do hereby declare, that we are ready and willing to ratify the confederation with any one or more states named therein, so that the same shall be forever binding upon the State of Virginia.

Signed, MERIWETHER SMITH,
CYRUS GRIFFIN.

WILLIAM FLEMING."

Thomson states that the "original was taken back by the delegates, because it contained other and further instructions which they did not think proper at that time to lay before Congress." Congress proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee of thirteen on foreign affairs:

After debate, it was agreed by the House, that the question shall be stated, Shall Mr. R. Izard be recalled?

FRIDAY, MAY 21, 1779

Mr. [Samuel] Huntington, a delegate from Connecticut, attended, and took his seat in Congress.

An appeal from the judgment of a court of admiralty for the State of Connecticut, on a libel Edward Conkling, &c. v. Brig Bermuda &c, was lodged with the Secretary, and referred to the Committee on Appeals.

The delegates of Maryland informed Congress, that they have received instructions respecting the articles of confederation, which they are directed to lay before Congress, and to have entered on their journals; the instructions being read are as follows:

Instructions of the general assembly of Maryland, to George Plater, William Paca, William Carmichael, John Henry, James Forbes and Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer, esqrs;

GENTLEMEN, Having conferred upon you a trust of the highest nature, it is evident we place great confidence in your integrity, abilities and zeal to promote the general welfare of the United States, and the particular interest of this state, where the latter is not incompatible with the former; but to add greater¹ weight to your proceedings in Congress, and to take away all suspicion that the opinions you there deliver, and the votes you give, may be the mere opinions of individuals, and not resulting from your knowledge of the sense and deliberate judgment of the state you represent, we think it our duty to instruct you as followeth on the subject of the confederation, a subject in which, unfortunately, a supposed difference of interest has produced an almost equal division of sentiments among the several states composing the union: We say a supposed difference of interests; for, if local attachments and prejudices, and the avarice and ambition of individuals, would give way to the dictates of a sound policy, founded on the principles of justice, (and no other policy but what is founded on those immutable principles deserves to be called sound,) we flatter ourselves this apparent diversity of interests would soon vanish; and all the states would confederate on terms mutually advantageous to all; for they would then perceive that no other confederation than one so formed can be lasting. Although the pressure of immediate calamities, the dread of their continuance from the appearance of disunion, and some other peculiar circumstances, may have induced some states to accede to the present confederation, contrary to their own interests and judgments, it requires no great share of foresight to predict, that when those causes cease to operate, the states which have thus acceded to the confederation will consider it as no longer binding, and will eagerly embrace the first occasion of asserting their just rights and securing their independence. Is it possible that those states, who are ambitiously grasping at territories, to which in our judgment they have not the least shadow of exclusive right, will use with greater moderation the increase of wealth and power derived from those territories, when acquired, than what they have displayed in their endeavours to acquire them? we think not; we are convinced the same spirit which hath prompted them to insist on a claim so extravagant, so repugnant to every principle of justice, so incompatible with the general welfare of all the states, will urge them on to add oppression to injustice. If they should not be incited by a superiority of wealth and strength to oppress by open force their less wealthy and less powerful neighbours, yet the depopulation, and consequently the impoverishment of those states, will necessarily follow, which by an unfair construction of the confederation may be stripped of a common interest in, and the common benefits derivable from, the western country.¹ Suppose, for instance, Virginia indisputably possessed of the extensive and fertile country to which she has set up a claim, what would be the probable consequences to Maryland of such an undisturbed and undisputed possession? they cannot escape the least discerning.

Virginia, by selling on the most moderate terms a small proportion of the lands in question, would draw into her treasury vast sums of money, and in proportion to the sums arising from such sales, would be enabled to lessen her taxes: lands comparatively cheap and taxes comparatively low, with the lands and taxes of an adjacent state, would quickly drain the state thus disadvantageously circumstanced of its most useful inhabitants, its wealth; and its consequence in the scale of the confederated states would sink of course. A claim so injurious to more than one half, if not to the whole of the United States, ought to be supported by the clearest evidence of the right. Yet what evidences of that right have been produced? what arguments alleged in support either of the evidence or the right; none that we have heard of deserving a serious refutation.

It has been said that some of the delegates of a neighbouring state have declared their opinion of the impracticability of governing the extensive dominion claimed by that state: hence also the necessity was admitted of dividing its territory and erecting a new state, under the auspices and direction of the elder, from whom no doubt it would receive its form of government, to whom it would be bound by some alliance or confederacy, and by whose councils it would be influenced: such a measure, if ever attempted, would certainly be opposed by the other states, as inconsistent with the letter and spirit of the proposed confederation. Should it take place, by establishing a sub-confederacy, imperium in imperio, the state possessed of this extensive dominion must then either submit to all the inconveniences of an overgrown and unwieldy government, or suffer the authority of Congress to interpose at a future time, and to lop off a part of its territory to be erected into a new and free state, and admitted into the confederation on such conditions as shall be settled by nine states. If it is necessary for the happiness and tranquillity of a state thus overgrown, that Congress should hereafter interfere and divide its territory; why is the claim to that territory now made and so pertinaciously insisted on? we can suggest to ourselves but two motives; either the declaration of relinquishing at some future period a portion of the country now contended for, was made to lull suspicion asleep, and to cover the designs of a secret ambition, or if the thought was seriously entertained, the lands are now claimed to reap an immediate profit from the sale. We are convinced policy and justice require that a country unsettled at the commencement of this war, claimed by the British crown, and ceded to it by the treaty of Paris, if wrested from the common enemy by the blood and treasure of the thirteen states, should be considered as a common property, subject to be parcelled out by Congress into free, convenient and independent governments, in such manner and at such times as the wisdom of that assembly shall hereafter direct. Thus convinced, we should betray the trust reposed in us by our constituents, were we to authorize you to ratify on their behalf the confederation, unless it be farther explained: we have coolly and dispassionately considered the subject; we have weighed probable inconveniences and hardships against the sacrifice of just and essential rights; and do instruct you not to agree to the confederation, unless an article or articles be added thereto in conformity with our declaration: should we succeed in obtaining such article or articles, then you are hereby fully empowered to accede to the confederation.

That these our sentiments respecting the confederation may be more publicly known and more explicitly and concisely declared, we have drawn up the annexed declaration, which we instruct you to lay before Congress, to have it printed, and to deliver to each of the delegates of the other states in Congress assembled, copies thereof, signed by yourselves or by such of you as may be present at the time of the delivery; to the intent and purpose that the copies aforesaid may be communicated to our brethren of the United States, and the contents of the said declaration taken into their serious and candid consideration.

Also we desire and instruct you to move at a proper time, that these instructions be read to Congress by their secretary, and entered on the journals of Congress.

We have spoken with freedom, as becomes freemen, and we sincerely wish that these our representations may make such an impression on that assembly as to induce them to make such addition to the articles of confederation as may bring about a permanent union.

STATE OF CONNECTICUT, ss:

At a general assembly of the governor and company of the state of Connecticut, in America, holden at Hartford, by special order (L. S:) of the governor of the said state, on Wednesday, the 7th day of April, Anno Domini 1779.

It appearing to this assembly to be essentially necessary for the preservation, safety, independence, and sovereignty of the United States of America, that the articles of confederation and perpetual union be acceded to, ratified and confirmed: and whereas all of the said states, except Maryland, have agreed to and confirmed said articles of confederation, and Maryland hath not acceded to said articles as drawn up, for reasons heretofore published; and whereas the confederation of thirteen states may not be considered as obligatory on twelve states only:

Resolved, That the delegates of this state in Congress be directed and empowered, and full power and authority is hereby given and granted to the said delegates, in the name and behalf of this state, to enter into, ratify and confirm said articles of confederation and perpetual union with the states of New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island, and Providence Plantations, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia, in the most full and ample manner; always provided that the state of Maryland be not thereby excluded from acceding to said confederation at any time hereafter. A letter, of 21, from W. Rogers, chaplain of the brigade late commanded by Brigadier Conway, was read, requesting that the stile of the brigade may be changed to that of "the third Pennsylvania brigade," being the stile by which it is known in the army:¹

Resolved, That his request be granted, and that a new certificate be granted to him, referring to his appointment of 11 June, 1778.

A letter, of 20th, from James Calhoun, was read, enclosing a deposition of Joseph White, respecting the ravages and depredations of the enemy in Virginia.²

The commissioners report, That they have examined the accounts of Samuel Shaw and Richard Marven for expences incurred in defending an action at law brought against them by Esek Hopkins, in the State of Rhode island, and find that there is due to them for sundry expences, including fees to attorney and council for the defendants, the sum of fourteen hundred and eighteen dollars and 7/90, to be paid to Mr. Sam. Adams, agreeable to the request of the claimants:³

That we have considered the account of Captain Francis Proctor, for Superintending the Hospital at the Yellow Spring, from the 23rd of December last to the 15th instant, is one hundred and forty four days at three dollars p^r day, amounting to four hundred and thirty two dollars.

This duty he terms extra service. As charges under that head are generally settled by the Auditors at Camp, and we have never been furnished with any instruction or Resolves, by which to define what are, and what are not Extra services; we own we are doubtfull whether this comes properly under that denomination. There is reason to believe that Officers can live as cheap at an hospital in the country, where there are plenty of good stores, as any where else. Indeed wherever there are public stores, the expense of living to them must be the same. We have it from the best authority that his Excellency General Washington is very cautious in granting warrants for extra services, and that many of these accounts are rejected, not without sufficient reasons.

We are therefore inclined to think that officers ordered on services of this nature should be allowed only for the days they are travelling, to and from the places they are ordered to, at the rate of three dollars every twenty miles; and we humbly conceive this distinction to have been the intention of the Resolution of Congress; If so, Capⁿ Proctor is entitled to nine dollars, but we respectfully submit this to further consideration.

Is it not the duty of an officer to command a guard at an Hospital as well as at Camp or wherever he may be ordered?¹

Ordered, That the same be paid.

Ordered, That so much of the report as relates to the claims of Captain Francis Proctor, for superintending the hospital at the Yellow Spring, be referred to the auditors of accounts at the main army.

Resolved, That the auditors of the army be authorized to increase the pay of such of their clerks as may merit the same, to a sum not exceeding 120 dollars per month, according to their respective abilities.

Resolved, That the general commanding in South Carolina be authorized and directed to draw out of the hands of the said John Lewis Gervais, the balance which may be due from him to the public, and transfer it to the care of the said Joseph Clay, who shall be considered as the sole deputy pay master for the troops serving in South Carolina and Georgia, until the further order of Congress; and that Mr. Gervais adjust and transmit his accounts to the Board of Treasury for settlement:

“Resolved, That none of the said states ought to be, or shall be, divested of any lands or territories over which they respectively exercised jurisdiction at the time aforesaid, unless by judgment of Congress in favor of certain other of the said states claiming the same or any part thereof, and prosecuting that claim in the way prescribed by the articles of confederation.

“Resolved, That no part or district of one or more of the said states shall be permitted to separate therefrom, and become independent thereon, without the express consent and approbation of such state or states respectively.

“Resolved, That it be recommended to the inhabitants of the said pretended State of Vermont, to return peaceably to their former jurisdictions, that is to say, those who have separated from the State of New York, to the State of New York; and those who have separated from the State of New Hampshire, to the State of New Hampshire.

“Resolved, That Congress will readily hear, examine, and interpose, to obtain a redress of any grievances of which the said inhabitants may have cause to complain against their said respective states.

“Resolved, That nothing in the preceding resolutions contained shall be construed to confirm or prejudice the title of the states of New Hampshire, or New York, to the jurisdictions aforesaid, or to exclude or bar any claims which other states may have thereto, or to any part thereof."

A motion was thereupon made by Mr. [Thomas] Burke, seconded by Mr. [Gouverneur] Morris,

The committee to whom was referred the letter from the Minister Plenipotentiary of France, with the note from Don Juan de Mirailles, dated May 18, 1779, brought in a report; Whereupon,

Resolved, That the resolutions of Congress, passed on the sixth day of March last, relative to the controul of Congress by appeal in the last resort over all jurisdictions for deciding the legality of captures on the high seas, be immediately transmitted to the several states; and that they be respectively requested to take effectual measures for conforming therewith.

That the State of Massachusetts Bay, in particular, be requested to take effectual measures to expedite and facilitate an appeal from the decision of their courts on the cases of vessels or cargoes, claimed as Spanish neutral property, if it shall be demanded by either party.

Resolved, That the following letter be written to the Minister Plenipotentiary of France, and signed by the President:

SIR, Congress having taken into consideration your letter of the 19 of this month, I am directed to assure you, that as soon as the matter shall in due course come before them, they will attend very particularly to the cases of the vessels stated in the note from Don Juan de Mirailles to have been sailing under the flag of his Catholic Majesty, and captured by armed vessels under the flag of the United States; and that they will cause the law of nations to be most strictly observed: that if it shall be found, after due trial, that the owners of the captured vessels have suffered damage from the misapprehension or violation of the rights of war and neutrality, Congress will cause reparation to be made in such manner as to do ample justice and vindicate the honor ~~and dignity~~ of the Spanish flag.

That Congress have every possible disposition to cultivate the most liberal perfect harmony with his Catholic majesty, and to encourage the most free liberal and friendly intercourse between his subjects and the citizens of these United States; but they cannot, consistently with the powers entrusted to them and the rights of the states and of individuals, in any case, suspend or interrupt the ordinary course of justice.¹

The Control by appeal, in the last resort, over decisions on captures made on the high seas, which is reserved to Congress, enables them to preserve the Law of Nations inviolate, without the necessity of arbitrary Interpositions in Judicial proceedings, which are by no means tolerable under the free Government of the United States.

¹ The letter was entered in the journal only to this point, the three last paragraphs not being adopted.

This control, so necessary for the preservation of the general peace of the United States, Congress will exercise in all cases where good Government requires it, and they doubt not that they shall meet with ready and cheerful Obedience.

They wish Don Juan to rest assured, that in the particular cases to which he refers, Congress will take every measure which is within their Constitutional powers.¹

On motion of Mr. [James] Duane, seconded by Mr. [Gouverneur] Morris, Congress came to the following resolution:

Whereas, a proposition has been made for exchanging a number of the good citizens of these states, who are in captivity at Niagara and its vicinity, for disaffected citizens who are desirous to join the enemy:

Resolved, That the commissioners of Indian affairs for the northern department, or any two of them, be authorized and directed, with the concurrence of the Commander in Chief and the governor or executive authority of the several states, whose citizens, respectively, shall be the subject of the proposed exchanges, to negotiate and settle such exchange in the manner and on the terms they shall judge reasonable and expedient.

The House proceeded to consider the report of the Committee of thirteen on Foreign Affairs. Upon motion, Ordered, That the absent members be summoned to attend.

A memorial, of this date, from the hon^{ble} Sr. Gérard, Minister plenipotentiary of France, was read; Whereupon,

Resolved, That the further consideration of the report of the said committee, and of the said memorial be postponed, and that the same, together with the report of the committee on the communications from the said Minister, be taken into consideration immediately after reading the journal on Tuesday next.

Adjourned to 10 oClock on Monday.

them, should, after the conclusion of the war, be entitled to receive annually for the term of seven years, if they should live so long, one half of the present pay of such officers, with certain provisoes and limitations: and, whereas, the great sufferings, exemplary fortitude, and unshaken perseverance of the said officers, justly entitle them to the favorable notice of a grateful country, whose liberties they have bravely defended, supported and established: this Congress, therefore, mindful of their present sufferings, and willing to make future provision for the age of those whose youth, and health and ease, have been generously expended in the service of the public, do resolve and promise, that all military officers commissioned by Congress, who are or shall be in the service of the United States, and shall continue therein during the war, shall, after the conclusion thereof, receive annually during their natural lives one half of their present pay.

~~Mr. [Meriwether] Smith moved for leave to substitute a motion, which he read in his place, and leave being granted, the same was read at the table as follows:~~

Mr. Smith having previously obtained the general consent of the House, moved the following resolutions:

Whereas it hath been represented to Congress, that the enemy, at the time of, and since their landing in Virginia, have perpetrated the most unnecessary, wanton, and outrageous barbarities on divers of the citizens of that State, as well as on several of the subjects of his most Christian majesty residing therein; deliberately putting many of them to death in cool blood, after they had surrendered, abusing women, and desolating the country with fire:

Resolved, That the governor of Virginia be requested to cause diligent enquiry to be made into the truth of the above representations, and to transmit to Congress the evidence he may collect on the subject.

Resolved, That Congress will retaliate for cruelties and violations of the laws of nations, committed in these states against the subjects of his most Christian majesty, in like manner and measure as if committed against citizens of the said states; and that the protection of Congress shall be, on all occasions, equally extended to both.

AT A BOARD OF WAR, April 27, 1779.

Present, Col Pickering and Mr Peters.

Colonel Morgan, Agent for Indian Affairs in the Western Department, having represented to the Board,

That Job Chilloway, a faithful Indian of the Delaware Tribe, was at the request of that Nation on his way to them from the Susquehannah, where he resided, in order to act as an Interpreter (for which he was well qualified); and being at Fort Pitt caught the Small Pox of which he died. His Mother also died there of the same disease. His wife (who was at the time of her husband's death lying in) on hearing thereof lost her senses and was sent by Col Morgan to her relations at Coshacking, where She now is entirely out of her reason. The child of which She was then delivered caught the small pox and died.

One Girl of 12 years of age, one Boy of 11, one Boy of 8, one Boy of 6, who are now at Carlisle, totally destitute of all support.

That until the farther order of Congress, Colonel Geo: Morgan, Agent for Indian Affairs in the Western Department, be authorized and directed to take proper measures for the maintainance and education of Job Chilloway's Children. That the Board of War give the necessary orders on the Clothier General for a supply of clothing for those Children, and that Colonel Morgan's accounts of expenditures from time to time for their support and education be settled and paid by the Treasury Board.¹

The House being informed that his excellency the president of Pennsylvania, accompanied by several gentlemen, was at the door, with a petition signed by a number of the inhabitants of Pennsylvania, as well as of other states, ~~relative to the subject of Finance~~ which he desired might be introduced and laid before Congress in the manner most agreeable to them.

Ordered, That his excellency the president and the gentlemen accompanying him be introduced, in order that he may present the petition.

Accordingly, being introduced, the president addressed the House in a short speech, presented the petition, and withdrew:

The petition was then read;

Ordered, That the same be taken into consideration, with the report of the Board of Treasury on finance.

His excellency the president of the State having suggested that some gentlemen had signified a doubt as to the propriety of presenting the said petition:

Resolved, unanimously, That Congress will at all times, cheerfully receive the sentiments of their constituents upon every important matter which may become a subject of their deliberations.

The committee to whom was recommitted the draught of an address to the several states on the present situation of affairs, brought in a new draught, which was read, amended, and unanimously agreed to as follows:

Ordered, That 500 copies be printed.

TO THE INHABITANTS OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

FRIENDS AND COUNTRYMEN,

The present situation of public affairs demands your most serious attention, and particularly the great and increasing depreciation of your currency requires the immediate, strenuous and united efforts of all true friends to their country, for preventing an extension of the mischiefs that have already flowed from that source.

America, without arms, ammunition, discipline, revenue, government or ally, almost totally stripped of commerce, ~~and at an Age of Weakness, like the young Shepherd of Israel,~~ and in the weakness of youth, as it were, with a "staff and a sling" only, dared, "in the name of the Lord of Hosts," to engage a gigantic adversary, prepared at all points, boasting of his power strength, and of whom even mighty warriors "were greatly afraid."

For defraying the expences of this uncommon war, your representatives in Congress were obliged to emit paper money; an expedient that you knew to have been before generally and successfully practised on this continent.

They were very sensible of the inconveniences with which too frequent emissions would be attended, and endeavoured to avoid them. For this purpose, they established loan offices so early as in October, 1776, and have from that time to this, repeatedly and earnestly solicited you to lend them money on the faith of the United States. ~~So little have their applications availed that all~~ The sums received on loan have nevertheless proved quite inadequate to the public exigencies. Our enemies prosecuting the war by sea and land with implacable fury and with some success, taxation at home and borrowing abroad, in the midst of difficulties and dangers, were alike impracticable. Hence the continued necessity of new emissions.

But to this cause alone we do not impute the evil ~~complained of~~ before mentioned. We have too much reason to believe it has been in part owing to the artifices of men who have hastened to enrich themselves by monopolizing the necessaries of life, and to the misconduct of inferior officers employed in the public service. ~~This Opinion is confirmed by our Observation, that the Rise of Articles in price, [extravagant for some months past] extravagantly exceeds a proportion to the Emissions within that Period, or for a considerable time immediately preceding it.~~

The variety and importance of the business entrusted to your delegates, and their constant attendance in Congress, ~~of course necessarily~~ disables them from investigating ~~or remedying~~ disorders of this kind. Justly apprehensive of them, they, by their several resolutions of the 22d of November and 20th of December, 1777, and of the 3d and 9th of February, 1778, recommended to the legislative and executive powers of these states a due attention to these interesting affairs. How far those recommendations have been complied with, we will not undertake to determine: but we hold ourselves bound in duty to you to declare, that we are not convinced there has been as much ~~Industry~~ diligence used in detecting and ~~punishing~~ reforming abuses as there has been in committing or complaining of them.

With regard to monopolizers, ~~of the Produce of these States, you will observe there is some distinction between them, and Dealers in foreign Commodities. These are brought to America at a great risque. The Importers, by selling their Cargoes quickly by wholesale, may be enabled expeditiously, and therefore certainly with less Expence, and perhaps with less Hazard to prosecute their outward bound voyage. However, against the unreasonable Profits of Dealers in these Articles may be applied Frugality in using them and Industry in manufacturing them. It is our opinion, that taxes judiciously laid on such Merchandizes articles as become the objects of engrossers, and those frequently collected, would operate against the pernicious tendency of such practices without discouraging Importation.~~

~~On the other Hand, Monopolizers of produce buy Commodities on the Spot where they are raised, with the known and often avowed Design of selling them at an advanced price to their distress Countrymen. Against this Mischief, as the Articles are absolutely necessary, no Remedy can be applied but wise Laws strictly executed.~~

As to inferior officers employed in the public service, we anxiously desire to call your most vigilant attention to their conduct with respect to every species of misbehaviour, whether proceeding from ignorance, negligence, or fraud, and to the making of laws for inflicting exemplary punishments on all offenders of this kind.

We are sorry to hear that some persons are so slightly informed of their own interests as to suppose that it is advantageous to them to sell the produce of their farms at enormous prices, when a little reflection might convince them that it is injurious to those interests and to the general welfare. If they expect thereby to purchase imported goods cheaper, they will be egregiously disappointed; for the merchants, who know they cannot obtain returns in gold, silver, or bills of exchange, but that their vessels, if loaded here at all, must be loaded with produce, will raise the prices of what they have to sell, in proportion to the prices of what they have to buy; and, consequently, the land holder can purchase no more foreign goods for the same quantity of his produce than he could before.¹

The evil, however, does not stop at this point. The land holder, by acting on this mistaken calculation, is only labouring to accumulate an immense debt by increasing the public expences, for the payment of which his estate is engaged, and to embarrass every measure adopted for vindicating his liberty and securing his prosperity.

~~If practicable, the collecting Taxes, or part of them in kind, or borrowing in produce from the Raisers at fixed prices for public Use, might be advantageous; and we request You to consider, how far some Mode of this kind may be accommodated to the particular Dispositions and Circumstances of your respective States.~~

As the harvests of this year, which, by the divine goodness, promise to be plentiful, will soon be gathered, and some new measures relating to your foreign concerns, with some arrangements relating to your domestic, are now under consideration, from which beneficial effects are expected, we entertain hopes that your affairs will acquire a much greater degree of regularity and energy than they have hitherto had.

But we should be highly criminal if we did not plainly tell you that those hopes are not founded wholly upon our own proceedings. These must be supported by your virtue, your wisdom and your diligence. From the advantage of those seats in the national council with which you have honoured us, we have a pleasing prospect of many blessings approaching this our native land. It is your patriotism must introduce and fix them here.

In vain will it be for your delegates to form plans of œconomy, to strive to stop a continuation of emissions by taxation or loans, if you do not zealously co-operate with them in promoting their designs, and use your utmost industry to prevent the waste of money in the expenditure, which your respective situations in the several places where it is expended, may enable you to do. A discharge of this duty and a compliance with recommendations for ~~raising~~ supplying money, ~~and a proper support of the Loan Offices~~ might enable Congress to give speedy assurances to the public that no more emissions shall take place, ~~after the present year~~, and thereby close that source of depreciation.

Your governments being now ~~regulated~~ established, and your ability to contend with your invaders ascertained, we have, on the most mature deliberation, judged it indispensably necessary to call upon you for 45,000,000 of dollars, in addition to the 15,000,000 required by a resolution of Congress of the 2d of January last, to be paid into the continental treasury before the 1st day of January next, in the same proportion, as to the quotas of the several states, with that for the said fifteen million.

It appeared proper to us to fix the first day of next January for the payment of the whole; but as it is probable that some states, if not all, will raise part of the sums by instalments or otherwise before that time, we recommend, in the strongest manner, the paying as much as can be collected as soon as possible into the continental treasury.

Though it is manifest that moderate taxation in times of peace will recover the credit of your currency, yet the encouragement which your enemies derive from its depreciation, and the present exigencies, demand great and speedy exertions. ~~to counteract them; and that which we have now adopted is from peculiar Circumstances attended with to produce this Consequence [tends from a singularity of Circumstances to indemnify you] for paying large sums, by increasing the Value of what remains in your Hands, as well as to secure those Blessings for yourselves and your posterity, for which you have declared and proved that You deem no price too high.~~

~~We do not doubt but the raising these sums will press heavily on some of our Constituents. Their Case we sincerely deplore. We are persuaded You will use all possible Care to make the advancement [promotion] of the general Weal interfere as little as may be with the Ease and Comfort of individuals. Perhaps it may contribute to this desirable purpose to receive sums in advance from the more wealthy,~~

~~on the abatement of their future Taxes upon equitable Terms. Though when we consider that large Quantities of the Currency have past into the possession of Landholders, Tradesmen, Merchants and Labourers, who constitute the Bulk of the people, we cannot believe, the Pressure will be extensive. On the other Hand, when we feel the obligations urging us to Attempts for appreciating that Currency to your venerable Clergy, the truly helpless Widows and Orphans, your most gallant, generous, meritorious Officers and Soldiers, and supporting the public Faith, and for the Common weal, we cannot withhold our nor be disobedient to the authoritative Sensations.~~

We are persuaded you will use all possible care to make the promotion of the general welfare interfere as little as may be with the ease and comfort of individuals: but tho' the raising these sums should press heavily on some of our constituents, yet the obligations we feel to your venerable clergy, the truly helpless widows and orphans, your most gallant, generous, meritorious officers and soldiers, the public faith and the common weal, so irresistibly urge us to attempt the appreciation of your currency, that we cannot withhold obedience to those authoritative sensations.²

On this subject we will only add, that as the rules of justice are most pleasing to our infinitely good and gracious Creator, and an adherence to them most likely to obtain his favour, so they will ever be found to be the best and safest maxims of human policy.

To our constituents we submit the propriety and purity of our intentions, well knowing they will not forget, that we lay no burthens upon them, but those in which we participate with them; a happy sympathy, that pervades societies formed on the basis of equal liberty. Many cares, many labours, and may we not add, reproaches, are peculiar to us. These are the emoluments of our unsolicited stations; and with these we are content, if you approve our conduct. If you do not, we shall return to our private condition with no other regret, than that which will arise from our not having served you as acceptably and essentially as we wished and strove to do, though as chearfully and faithfully as we could.

Think not we despair of the commonwealth, or endeavour to shrink from opposing difficulties. No. Your cause is too good, your objects too sacred to be relinquished. We tell you truths, because you are freemen who can bear to hear them and may profit by them; and when they reach your enemies, we fear not the consequences, because we are not ignorant of their resources or our own. Let your good sense decide upon the comparison. Let even their prejudiced understandings decide upon it, and you need not be apprehensive of the determination.

Whatever supposed advantages from plans of rapine, projects of blood, or dreams of domination, may heretofore have amused their inflamed fancies, the conduct of one monarch, the friend and protector of the rights of mankind, has turned the scale so much against them, that their visionary schemes vanish as the unwholesome vapours of night before the healthful influences of the sun.

An alliance has been formed between his most Christian majesty and these states, on the basis of the most perfect equality, for the direct end of maintaining effectually their liberty, sovereignty and independence, absolute and unlimited, as well in matters of government as of commerce. The conduct of our good and great ally towards us, in this instance and others, has so fully manifested his sincerity and kindness, as to excite, on our part, correspondent sentiments of confidence and affection.

Observing the interests of his kingdom, to which duty and inclination prompted his attention, to be connected with those of America, and the combination of both clearly to coincide with the beneficent designs of the Author of Nature, who unquestionably intended men to partake of certain rights and portions of happiness, his majesty perceived the attainment of these views to be founded on the single proposition of a separation between America and Great Britain.

The resentment and confusion of your enemies will point out to you the ideas you should entertain of the magnanimity and consummate wisdom of his most Christian majesty ~~in framing this alliance~~ on this occasion.

They perceive, that selecting this grand and just idea from all those specious ones that might have confused or misled inferior judgment or virtue, and satisfied with the advantages which must result from that event alone, he has cemented the harmony between himself and these states, not only by establishing a reciprocity of benefits, but by eradicating every cause of jealousy and suspicion. They also perceive with similar emotions, that the moderation of our ally, in not desiring an acquisition of dominion on this continent, or an exclusion of other nations from a share of its commercial advantages, so useful to them, has given no alarm to those nations, but in fact has interested them in the accomplishment of his generous undertaking, to dissolve the monopoly thereof by Great Britain, which has already contributed to elevate her to her present power and haughtiness, and threatened if continued to raise both to a height insupportable to the rest of Europe.

In short, their own best informed statesmen and writers confess that your cause is exceedingly ~~popular with~~ favoured by courts and people in that quarter of the world, while that of your adversaries is equally reprobated; and from thence draw ominous and well grounded conclusions, that the final event must prove unfortunate to the latter. Indeed, we have the best reason to believe that we shall soon form other alliances, and on principles honourable and ~~favorable~~ beneficial to these states.

Infatuated as your enemies have been from the beginning of this contest, do you imagine they can now flatter themselves with a hope of conquering you, unless you are false to yourselves?

When unprepared, undisciplined, and unsupported, you opposed their fleets and armies in full conjoined force, then, if at any time, was conquest to be apprehended. Yet what progress towards it have their violent and incessant efforts made? Judge from their own conduct. Having devoted you to bondage, and after vainly wasting their blood and treasure in the dishonorable enterprise, they deigned at length to offer terms of accommodation, with respectful addresses, to that once despised body, the Congress, whose humble supplications only for peace, liberty and safety, they had contemptuously rejected, under pretence of its being an unconstitutional assembly. Nay, more; desirous of seducing you into a deviation from the paths of rectitude, from which they had so far and so rashly wandered, they made most specious offers to tempt you into a violation of your faith given to your illustrious ally. Their arts were as unavailing as their arms. Foiled again, and stung with rage, embittered by envy, they had no alternative, but to renounce the inglorious and ruinous controversy, or to resume their former modes of prosecuting it. They chose the latter. Again the savages are stimulated to horrid massacres of women and children, and domestics to the murder of their masters. Again our brave and ~~unfortunate~~ unhappy brethren are doomed to miserable deaths in gaols and prison ships and again are venal princes solicited to hire out their wretched subjects to commit Butcheries in those distant Regions. To complete the sanguinary system, all the "extremities of war" are by authority denounced against you.

Piously endeavor to derive this consolation from their remorseless fury, that the "Father of Mercies" looks down with disapprobation on such audacious defiances of his holy laws; and be further comforted with recollecting, that the arms assumed by you in your righteous defensive cause, have not been sullied by any unjustifiable severities.

Your enemies, despairing, however, as it seems, of the success of their united forces against our main army, have divided them, as if their design was to harass you by predatory, desultory operations. If you are assiduous in improving opportunities, Saratoga may not be the only spot on this continent to give a new denomination to the baffled troops of a nation impiously priding herself in notions of her omnipotence.

Rouse yourselves, therefore, that this campaign may finish the great ~~and good~~ work you have so nobly carried on for several years past. What nation ever engaged in such a contest under such a complication of disadvantages, so soon surmounted many of them, and in so short a period of time had so certain a prospect of a speedy and happy conclusion ~~of their labours~~. We will venture to pronounce that so remarkable an instance exists not in the annals of mankind. We well remember what you ~~thought~~ said at the commencement of this war. You saw the immense difference between your circumstances and those of your enemies, and you knew the quarrel must decide on no less than your lives, liberties, and estates. All these you greatly put to every hazard, ~~generously~~ resolving to die freemen rather than to live slaves; and justice will oblige the impartial world to confess you have uniformly acted on the same generous principle. Consider how much you have done, and how comparatively little remains to be done to crown you with success. Persevere, and you ensure peace, freedom, safety, glory, sovereignty, and felicity, to yourselves, your children, and your children's children.

~~If neither were have judged it be a sight pleasing to them in itself to see a good Man struggling with Misfortunes, more especially if brought upon him by his own Integrity. — no rare Ex[ample] among frail and frequently deceived Mortals so that they may be slightly [] in the [] the End; — how much more delightful must it be for [those] that "are too pure, to behold Iniquity" to view [our own] People bravely breasting the Storms of Adversity raised against them by the Demons of Ambition, Cruelty and Arrogance.~~

ing their continuance, constantly endeavoring to draw them down on your heads by an amendment of your lives, and a conformity to the divine will, humbly confiding in the protection so often and wonderfully experienced, vigorously employ the means placed by Providence in your hands, for compleating your laudable labours.

Fill up your battalions: be prepared in every part to resist repel the incursions of your enemies; place your several quotas in the continental treasury; lend money for public uses; sink the emissions of your respective states; provide effectually for expediting the conveyance of supplies from one place to another for your armies and fleets, and for your allies; prevent the monopolies of produce of the country from being monopolized: effectually superintend the behaviour of public officers; diligently promote piety, virtue, brotherly love, learning, frugality, and moderation; and may you be approved before Almighty God worthy of those blessings we devoutly wish you to enjoy.

Done in Congress, by unanimous consent, this twenty-sixth day of May, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-nine.

JOHN JAY, President.

Attest, CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary.

On motion of Mr. [William] Fleming, seconded by Mr. [Thomas] Burke,

Resolved, That it be referred to the Board of War to consider whether it be expedient that so many horses be forth-bondage; and that it is he who hath made them Independent. A situation in which only, they can be secure against their enemies; and from which mankind can receive those blessings, which, the great father of all, hath designed, they should enjoy from the civilization of this new world.

"The United efforts of these states under the favor of heaven have hitherto rendered vain, the mighty exertions against them by, the King of Great Britain, by arms; and have frustrated the destructive designs of that prince, by negotiations. Happily the United States by experience know, that such efforts are capable of securing them against his power; and that their duty to God, to themselves, to their posterity, and to mankind, impels them to exert those efforts to the utmost of their ability.

"The present season for military operations, furnishes them with an opportunity of discharging this great duty. The smiles of their creator upon their past actions must inspire them with religious confidence in their future exertions; the hardships they have suffered, enable them to encounter new difficulties; and their great ally regarding their Cause as his own, and taking part in the war, must warm their affections, excite their emulation, and invigorate their proceedings.

"The arduous contest with Great Britain, sustained in its commencement, under almost every possible disadvantage, hath been so conducted, and the war is now in such a situation that the ultimate objects of these United States are speedily to be obtained, if they will make those exertions which the favorable conjuncture demands, and which are within their power to perform. Wherefore the Congress do announce to their constituents, that the present campaign will afford them an opportunity to bring the war to a speedy and glorious conclusion, notwithstanding the endeavors of the enemy to prolong it; but that the most vigorous efforts of these states will be necessary, and that such efforts will be called for, according to the nature of the intended operations. And, it is hereby in the strongest manner recommended to the legislatures of the several states, to arm their executive powers in the present important conjuncture, with ample authority to call forth and to direct the public strength, against the common enemy, to the executive powers, to lose no time in making arrangements for the most decisive movements—and to the faithful citizens, to act with that vigor, which is necessary to establish the honor and the Independance of their nation.

WAR OFFICE, May 27, 1779.

Application having lately been made to this Board by the Rev^d Mr. , brigade Chaplain to the light Dragoons, for his pay, the Board were struck with the obvious inutility of such an Officer: because from the almost constantly detached situation of those Corps it is very probable he may be able to perform divine service among them scarcely once a year: The Board therefore beg leave to report:

The Corps of Light Dragoons being generally detached from each other, which renders it impracticable for their brigade Chaplain to perform the duties of his office,

Resolved, That such a Chaplain is not necessary; and that the present brigade Chaplain to the light Dragoons be therefore discharged from the service.²

WAR OFFICE, May 27, 1779.

The Board having considered the petition of Mr Mercer, Aid de Camp to Major General Lee, for the Commission of Major, beg leave to observe:

That in 1778 he was appointed from the line an Aid as aforesaid: that by the establishment of the Army made the 27th of May, 1778, it is resolved: That Aids de Camp before that time appointed from the line should hold the rank they then held, and be admissible into the line again in the same rank they held when taken from the line: That from the information of Colonel Heth, of the 3^d Virginia Regiment, to which Mr Mercer does or did belong, it appears he was last summer, by his own consent, arranged as a Captain in said regiment, to the exclusion of several other Captains of Merit, either of whom would gladly have served; and his name now stands in the arrangement of the Captain of that Regiment. That if Mr Mercer is still in the service, and was appointed an Aid de Camp to General Lee before the 27th of May, 1778, he now holds the brevet rank of Major: That the Board take the Object of his present application to be, the obtaining a full Commission of Major without being attached to any particular Corps: That the giving him such a Commission, especially if he is not now in the service, with a view, (which the Board conceive to be his meaning) to entitle him to occasional command, would be universally disgusting, and not submitted to by any Officer in the line. That it appears in divers resolves, to have been the intention of Congress to grant such Commissions, or brevets, only in cases of very distinguished merit: That the Board tho' they have a good opinion of Mr Mercer's military talents, are not informed of such distinguished merit on his case; and therefore beg Leave to report:

That the petition of Mr Mercer, Aid de Camp to Major General Lee, requesting a Commission of Major in the line, be dismissed.

The consideration of this case led to an examination of the Resolutions of Congress on the subject; and this examination has suggested to the Board the expediency of making some provision to prevent Staff appointments of officers from the line, from rendering their Offices mere Sinecures; tho' we do not hereby advert to any particular instance or person; and therefore we beg leave to report:

That any Officer who shall resign a Commission which he has in any regiment or Corps, and who at that time also enjoys a rank in the Army Superior to his said regimental Commission, shall not be considered as entitled to any rank whatever in the Army, unless Congress shall expressly otherwise order.

That no Officer having a rank in the Army Superior to that of the Commission he bears in any regiment or Corps, shall be exempted from attendance at Camp, or quarters and doing regimental duty according to his rank in the Corps to which he belongs; unless appointed and acting as an Officer on the Staff.¹

According to order, Congress proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee on the communications from the Minister plenipotentiary of France, &c. and some time being spent thereon,

¹ This report is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 147, III, folio 355.

Congress resumed the consideration of the subject under debate on the 12th and 13th instant; and after debating the substitute, as amended on the 13th, it was agreed by unanimous consent, That all substitutes and amendments to the third article, agreed to the 22d of March last, be withdrawn.

On motion of Mr. [Meriwether] Smith, seconded by Mr. [Henry] Laurens,

Resolved, That the said third article be repealed.

On motion of Mr. [Thomas] Burke, seconded by Mr. [William Henry] Drayton,

Resolved, That in no case, by any treaty of peace, the common right of fishery be given up.¹

The members chosen, Mr. [John] Dickinson, Mr. [Roger] Sherman, and Mr. [Nathaniel] Scudder.

On motion of Mr. [Thomas] Burke, seconded by Mr. [Henry] Laurens,

Resolved, That it be referred to the Board of Treasury to consider of, and, if they judge it expedient, report a plan for anticipating the taxes recommended to be raised in the several states by the subscriptions of public spirited individuals, to be repaid when the tax shall be collected.

The Board of Treasury having reported that, in their opinion, it will be impracticable to carry on the war by paper emissions at the present enormous expences of the commissary general's, quarter master general's, and medical departments: that it appears to them that a general opinion prevails, that one cause of the alarming expences in these departments arises from allowing commissions to the numerous persons employed in purchasing for the army, and that a very general dissatisfaction has taken place on that account among the citizens of these United States; and that, in their opinion, it is necessary to put the said departments on a different footing with respect to the expenditure of public money:

Resolved, That the same be referred to a committee of three, and that they be directed to report a plan for the purpose:

The members chosen, Mr. [John] Dickinson, Mr. [Samuel] Huntington, and Mr. [Thomas] Burke.

On motion of Mr. [John] Dickinson, seconded by Mr. [William] Carmichael,

AT A BOARD OF WAR, May 28th, 1779.

Present, Col Pickering and Mr Peters.

Agreed to Report to Congress:

That the supreme executive authorities of the respective States be authorized to allow to persons apprehending deserters, the Sum of thirty dollars for each deserter apprehended and delivered into safe custody in the State, or sent to their respective regiments, and also $\frac{1}{100}$ ths of a dollar for each mile between the place in which they may be taken and to which they may be conveyed; and that the said Supreme Executive Authorities draw on Congress for the amounts of all such advances, informing the Commander in Chief and the Board of War from time to time, of the names and regiments of the deserters so apprehended.

That it be recommended to the Legislatures of the respective States to make effectual provision for the apprehending deserters and having them secured and sent to their regiments, and for the appointment of proper persons in the several States to pay the rewards and mileage due for apprehending such deserters, and that effectual care be taken to prevent the detention of deserters in prisons, after their being apprehended on account of the maintainance or Prison fees.

That all Officers in the service of the United States, who may happen to be in any State with parties or detachments of troops proceeding to the Army wherein the regiments are to which the deserters belong, on the application of the Government of the State, take charge of all deserters put under their care and deliver them to their respective regiments; or if such Officers shall not receive such requisitions from the Government, or shall be at a distance from the seat thereof, that they apply to the nearest justice of the Peace for an order on the keeper of the prison in which deserters shall be confined. That if no such Officers be with parties in the State, the government thereof are requested to collect the deserters at proper places of Rendezvous, send them under proper guards of Militia and duly convey them when released from prison to their respective regiments; or in case their particular regiment shall be detached from the Army or at too great a distance, that the deserter or deserters be delivered to the nearest Corps of the same State to which they belong, there to be punished or serve until an opportunity Offers of their joining their proper regiments or Corps.¹

Ordered, That the report of the committee appointed to confer with the Commander in Chief, dated February 2, 1779, be referred to the said committee.

SATURDAY, JUNE 5, 1779

A letter, of April 21, 1779, from John Allan, agent for Indian affairs, with sundry papers enclosed, was read:

Ordered, That it be referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

A letter of this day, from W. Palfrey, pay master general, was read; ² Whereupon,

Resolved, That the report of the Committee on the Treasury of March 17th, 1779, be re-considered.

The said report being read, Congress came to the following resolution:

² Allan's letter is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 78, I, folio 225; that of Palfrey is in No. 165, folio 502.

Whereas, by a receipt of William Palfrey, pay master general, dated the 1st July, 1777, and other evidence, it appears that Elias Boudinot supplied him with 2000 dollars in bills of credit intended to have been placed in the continental funds; that in consequence of a refusal of Joseph Borden, Esq. commissioner of the continental loan office in New Jersey, to issue certificates in part of a warrant drawn on him by the President of Congress in favour of William Palfrey, Esq. the matter has been suspended:

Resolved, That a warrant issue on the said Joseph Borden, Esq. in favour of the said Elias Boudinot, for 2000 dollars, in loan office certificates, bearing date the 1st July, 1777, in full for a like sum delivered by him to William Palfrey, Esq. pay master general, who is to be accountable.

Congress proceeded to consider another report from the Committee on the Treasury; Whereupon,

Resolved, That the consideration of the allowance to be made to William Palfrey, Esq. paymaster general of the army, for his past and future services, be postponed.¹

Ordered, That a warrant issue on the treasurer, in favour of the said William Palfrey, for three thousand dollars, he to be accountable.

A letter, of this day, from John Morgan was read;² Whereupon,

Resolved, That Saturday next be assigned for considering the report of the committee on the memorial of Doctor J. Morgan.

A letter from Augustin Loizeau was read, inclosing sundry certificates:

Ordered, That the same be referred to the Board of War.

¹ This report, endorsed June 2, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 136, III, folio 357.

² This letter is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 63, folio 125.

A letter, of May 24, 1779, from Captain Stoddard, was read,¹ requesting that Congress would please to order that a bill or draught should be drawn on the commissioner, or other proper person in France, to enable him to receive his wages during his furlough, which he has obtained for the recovery of his health.

On the question to agree to his request,

Passed in the negative.

According to the order of the day, Congress proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee on the memorial of Mr. de Francey, which is as follows:

“The committee to whom Mr. de Francey’s memorial was committed, report,

“That in obedience to the direction of Congress, they have conferred with Mr. de Francey:

“That he has delivered to the committee divers invoices of cargoes shipped in France by Mr. de Beaumarchais, viz. cargo by the Amphitrite, and interest to 31 March, 1779, 782,827 livres; Seine, 687,515; Mercure, 700,594; Amelie, 230,174; Therese, 985,317; Mere Bobie, 66,750; Marie Catharine, 148,075; Flamand, 545,416.—Also, a general account of disbursements by Mons. Carabasse, at Cape François, for purchasing Bermudian boats to take the cargoes of the Ame-lie and Therese, 115,000; demurrage paid Mr. Monthieu, on the Therese, Flamand, and Amphitrite, agreeable to contract with Mr. Beaumarchais, 141,400, and of sums advanced to Silas Deane, esq. and paid by his order, together with interest, 144,525, making 4,547,593 livres: equal to 198,957 [pounds] sterling, or thereabouts; on which no commission is yet charged, nor premium of insurance, if insurance was made. The articles of commission and insurance, as well as Mr. Beaumarchais’s account in general, is committed for adjustment to the commissioners of these states at the court of Versailles.

“In abatement of the abovementioned sum, Mr. de Francey admits about 300,000 livres, or 13,125£. sterling, and 115½ hogsheads of tobacco, exported in the Fier Roderique, the net proceeds of which remain unsettled. Mr. Francey also supposes there are further charges to be brought to the debit of the general account, and intimates that there may be some few errors in the invoices, but requests that the Commercial Committee may be directed to enter on their books the amount of the invoices as they now stand, remarking that errors may be hereafter redressed. Mr. Francey, in a letter to the committee, of the 24 May, 1779, writes—

Mr. de Beaumarchais's claims against Congress amount to about £200,000 sterling, not including the commission and other charges. As these are to be determined between the American commissioners and Mr. Beaumarchais, in France, it is not in my power to fix at this moment the exact amount of the debt, but I am very certain it will exceed £200,000: in order to discharge a part of it directly, I would propose to have bills drawn by Congress upon the plenipotentiary minister of the United States at Paris, to the order of Mr. Beaumarchais, payable at the end of three years, bearing an interest of six per cent. annually for the amount of one hundred thousand pounds sterling, in 50 bills of £2000 each. In the mean while I should wish that produce of this country should be purchased to load without delay some vessels which I expect daily, and by which I will receive all the papers that may be necessary to settle finally this transaction.

“From the several accounts abovementioned, all which the committee beg leave to lay before Congress, it appears that Mr. Beaumarchais has a just claim on these states for a large sum of money, but it is not in their power, with any degree of exactness, to ascertain the amount.

“They beg leave to recommend to Congress,

“1. To give the necessary directions for discovering what articles of merchandise, warlike stores, and other articles, have been received in these states from Mr. Beaumarchais, and Mr. Carabasse, and in what manner the Bermudian boats, said to have been purchased by Mr. Carabasse, have been disposed of:

"Also that Congress will be pleased to direct the Committee for Foreign Affairs to write immediately to the commissioners at the Court of France, and desire them to transmit an account of their proceedings in Mr. Beaumarchais's accounts, pursuant to the order of Congress of the 13th day of April, 1778:

"That in the meanwhile the Committee on the Treasury be directed to prepare proper bills of exchange on the minister plenipotentiary at the court of France, payable to Mr. Beaumarchais's order at the end of three years from the date, with interest to be paid annually at six per cent; the bills to be for different sums, from one thousand to four thousand pounds sterling, or the value thereof in livres, and six bills to each set, and to amount in the whole to one hundred thousand louis d'or or 2,400,000 livres of France:

"That the Committee of Commerce be directed to deliver to Mr. de Francey all the merchantable tobacco belonging to these states, and now in store in Virginia, Maryland, and North Carolina, and to consign the ship Chase and her cargo of tobacco to Mr. de Beaumarchais."

On the question to agree to these several recommendations and directions, reported by the committee, resolved in the affirmative.

The committee having farther reported,

That the said Committee of Commerce be also directed immediately to purchase two thousand hogsheads of tobacco, and order it to be laid up in warehouses in order to be ready for the ships expected by Mr. de Francey.

On the question to agree to this, the yeas and nays being required by Mr. [Nathaniel] Scudder, Ordered, That it be referred to the Board of Treasury.

A letter, of 5, from J. Wadsworth, commissary general of purchases, was read;² Whereupon,

Resolved unanimously, That Congress have full confidence in the integrity and abilities of the quarter master general and commissary general; and although there is reason to believe that abuses have been committed by inferior officers in their respective departments, yet Congress are persuaded that many of them deserve well of their country; and that measures will speedily be taken to distinguish such of them as have been faithful from such as have been otherwise, and thereby cause justice to be done to all:

That Colonel J. Wadsworth be informed that at so critical a season as the opening of a campaign, sudden changes in the appointment of principal officers in his department would be inexpedient and dangerous, and therefore that they cannot accept his resignation; and farther, that Congress expect his deputies and agents will not expose themselves to the resentment of their country, or embarrass the service, by quitting it at so critical a period, but, by exerting their utmost efforts in their several places, manifest their ability and public spirit.

A petition of Archibald McConnel, and a petition from Samuel Hart, and a letter from Brigadier Smallwood, were read, respecting bills of credit of the emissions of May 20, 1777, and April 11, 1778, which by means of unavoidable accidents could not be brought in before the 1st June, 1779; Whereupon,

The Marine Committee, to whom was referred a resolution of the council of Massachusetts Bay, dated 23 February, 1779, respecting the powers of foreign consuls, report,

"That as by the 31 article of the treaty of commerce, it is provided, that the two contracting parties grant mutually the liberty of having each in the ports of the other, consuls, vice-consuls, agents and commissaries, whose functions shall be regulated by a particular agreement, it seems necessary that persons be appointed by Congress to adjust and settle with the Minister Plenipotentiary of France the powers and privileges of consuls in the ports of either nation;" Whereupon,

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed for the purpose aforesaid:

The members chosen, Mr. [Henry] Laurens, Mr. S[amuel] Adams and Mr. [John] Dickinson.

Resolved, That every despatch received by the House, and on which no other order shall be made, shall be of course considered as ordered to lie on the table for farther consideration:

That on every day upon which it has been resolved to proceed on the order of the day after reading the journals and despatches, the House will proceed accordingly; and no other order than is above mentioned shall be made on any

Ordered, That the sum of one thousand dollars be paid to James Stevenson and to Samuel Downes, respectively, two of the said commissioners as a full compensation for their claims.

The Board of Treasury having reported,

That they have considered the memorial of Major James Quarles, of the 2d Virginia State regiment, dated at Philadelphia, June 4, 1779, referred to them, and finding the three dollars per day allowed by a resolution of 4 September last to officers ordered on business not incidental to their office, were not intended as an allowance for their whole expences,

but as an addition to their pay and subsistence whilst on such business, and that all the accounts of the army since the date of that resolution have been settled agreeable thereto, they are of opinion, that the prayer of the said petition cannot be granted:¹

On the question, Resolved, That Congress agree to the said report.

Resolved, That the commissary general of prisoners be authorized, from time to time, to pay to the order of officers and soldiers in captivity, any sums not exceeding the amount of their pay and subsistence, in order to enable them to assist their families; and that he make monthly returns to the pay master general of their accounts respectively.

THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1779

A letter, of the 6th, from General Washington, was read.¹

The Board of War, to whom was referred a memorial of Captain Loizeau, brought in a report; Whereupon,

WAR OFFICE, June 9, 1779.

The Board having considered the Memorial of Captain Augustin Loizeau, late of Colonel James Livingston's regiment, referred to them by Congress, beg leave to report:

That it appears that the Memorialist very early joined the American Army in Canada; that he distinguished himself by his zeal, activity and bravery in the cause; that for his meritorious services he was appointed a Captain in the above mentioned regiment; that during the time the regiment served in the Northern Department his character does not appear to have been impeached; that from the testimony of Mr [John] Welles there is reason to believe that occasions have been sought for and Artifices used to rid the regiment at any rate of all Canadian Officers; that it does not appear that Captain Loizeau is addicted to drink to excess. That an Officer being drunk is not by the Articles of War a crime for which he is to be cashiered, unless it be when he is on duty; that a single instance of being drunk and a consequent quarrel with his Lieutenant before some soldiers, appear to be the only crimes alledged against him, and for which he was dismissed the service. That this sentence and the confirmation of it, appear to the Board to be rigorous and severe beyond example.

¹ This letter is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 152, VII, folio 411. It is printed in Writings of Washington (Ford), VII, 465.

That Captain Loizeau's early attachment to the cause, his unremitted zeal and faithful services, his wretched situation if abandoned by this Country after being for our sakes banished from his own, would, if his crimes were much more aggravated, have some claims to compassion and forgiveness: That it be therefore Ordered, That Major General Gates be directed to enquire into the case of Augustin Loizeau, a Canadian, late a captain in Colonel James Livingston's regiment, and dismissed from the service pursuant to the sentence of a court martial, held in January last in the State of Rhode Island, and report to Congress the result of such enquiry, and his opinion whether, from a consideration of all circumstances, Captain Loizeau merits forgiveness and to be restored to his rank in said regiment or not.¹

The Board of War having further reported,

That Mons. Garanger and his brother were engaged under the contract with Mons. du Coudray, in October, 1776, in the ranks, the memorialist of a captain, and his brother of a lieutenant of bombardiers: that both the memorialist and his brother were made prisoners by the enemy, and detained at New York for twelve months, until they were exchanged, a few months ago, as French prisoners: that it appears both these gentlemen are entitled to pay under the contract, and as Mons. Garanger produces ample certificates of his knowledge in his profession, and of his good character, it seems to the Board proper,

That Mons. Garanger receive the further sum of fifteen hundred dollars on account, and that the Board of War be directed to order the same to be paid to him. That he proceed to the grand army, there to exhibit such proofs of his talents and merit as may be deemed necessary to enable the Commander in Chief to certify to Congress the propriety or inexpediency of retaining him in the service of the United

A motion was made by Mr. [Thomas] Burke, seconded by Mr. [Henry] Laurens,

That the further consideration of the said report be postponed until order be taken on the letter of 22 May last from Mr. Deane, and a decision made on the resolution moved thereon by a member from North Carolina, seconded by a member from South Carolina:

Congress took into consideration the report of the committee to whom was referred the memorial of Doctor John Morgan, late director general and physician in chief in the general hospitals of the United States, and thereupon came to the following resolution:

Whereas by the report of the Medical Committee, confirmed by Congress on the 9th of August, 1777, it appeared that Dr. John Morgan, late director general and chief physician of the general hospitals of the United States, had been removed from office on the 9th of January, 1777, by reason of the general complaint of persons of all ranks in the army, and the critical state of affairs at that time; and that the said Dr. John Morgan requesting an inquiry into his conduct, it was thought proper that a committee of Congress should be appointed for that purpose: and, whereas, on the 18th day of September last, such a committee was appointed, before whom the said Dr. John Morgan hath in the most satisfactory manner vindicated his conduct in every respect as director general and physician in chief, upon the testimony of the Commander in Chief, general officers, officers in the general hospital department, and other officers in the army, shewing that the said director general did conduct himself ably and faithfully in the discharge of the duties of his office: therefore,

Resolved, That Congress are satisfied with the conduct of Dr. John Morgan while acting as director general and physician in chief in the general hospitals of the United States; and that this resolution be published.³

FINANCE.²

That for the encouragement of the Lenders immediately to fill up said Loan, they be assured that it is the intention of Congress to discontinue the emission of new bills as soon as supplies adequate to the current expences can be obtained. That the several States will be relied on for furnishing from time to time all further supplies that may be necessary. In consequence of which it may be expected that the currency will gradually appreciate until the time limited for its redemption, when the possessors will be entitled to receive the amount expressed in each bill in gold or silver.

That each lender shall be at liberty to receive the principal at the expiration of three years from the date of the loan, or continue it in the funds on interest, until the whole amount of continental bills outstanding is diminished by the sinking fund one part below what it was at the time of Lending.³

¹ These paragraphs, in the writings of John Dickinson, are in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 29, folio 163.

² The subject of finance was before Congress until June 29, and the following undated papers were considered, but no reference made in the Journals.

³ A paper in the writing of Roger Sherman, in No. 29, folio 165.

Resolved, that the Legislatures of the several States be requested forthwith to lay their taxes for raising their respective quotas of the forty five million of dollars, called for by the Resolution of Congress of the 21st of May last, that such persons as are able and willing may have opportunity immediately to pay their ratable parts thereof, and that they direct their respective treasurers to make monthly returns to the Continental Board of Treasury of the sums they shall receive of such taxes, and to pay out the same agreeable to the orders of Congress.

That the Legislatures of the several States be informed that it is highly inexpedient to increase the quantity of paper currency by further emissions. And that Congress must rely wholly on the States to furnish their respective quotas of all the supplies that may from time to time be hereafter necessary to be raised by taxes or loans, or in any other way that may be practicable, and most convenient to each State.¹

That the interest on all sums borrowed on the said Loan of 20 millions shall be increased in the proportion as the quantity of Continental money emitted before the said first day of October to the quantity which shall have been emitted before the time when the said Interest shall be payable. And in order to ascertain the same that the Treasury board transmit an account of every new emission to every loan officer in the United States.²

That in case a greater quantity of Continental paper money shall be outstanding at the time the interest on the several sums borrowed for completing the said loan of 20 millions shall be payable, than at the time of Lending, the Interest shall be increased in proportion.³

7. That interest on all sums which shall be paid into the Loan office before the said first day of October, or which shall be subscribed and paid agreeably to the terms of the 5th Resolution aforesaid, shall be payable annually at the continental loan office of the State in which the money was originally subscribed.

8. That the securities to be given for all sums so borrowed shall be made payable to the lender or to his special attorney, executor or administrator.

9. That the loan officers shall transmit to the board of Treasury monthly returns of all sums subscribed and received in their respective offices.

³ A paragraph in the writing of Thomas Burke, on folio 166.

10. That as Congress are bound by every motive of policy and of public and private justice to maintain the credit of the paper money emitted by their authority on the faith of the United States, so it is their intention not only to avoid further emissions, but to diminish the quantity in circulation; provided that the respective States by correspondent and vigorous exertions shall put it in their power to raise the necessary supplies.

In addition to the foregoing the Committee having reported as follows:

But that if contrary to expectation it should happen that at the time the interest on the said Loan shall become due, a greater quantity of Continental paper money should be outstanding than at the time of lending the same, in such case the interest shall be raised in proportion.

GREAT, FAITHFUL, AND BELOVED FRIEND AND ALLY,

The repeated proofs we have received of your majesty's regard for these United States will lead their citizens to rejoice in every event that may conduce to your happiness or glory. It affords us particular pleasure to hear that Providence has been pleased to bless your nuptials with the birth of a princess; and we pray God that the virtues and honours of your illustrious family may be perpetuated in a race of descendants worthy of so great and so good an ancestor.

We receive with great satisfaction and sensibility your majesty's assurances of esteem and constant regard; and we entreat you to be persuaded that the permanence and stability of our friendship will be equal to the magnanimity of that conduct, and the importance of those good offices, by which it was created.

Permit us to request the favour of your majesty to oblige us with portraits of yourself and royal consort, that, by being placed in our council chamber, the representatives of these states may daily have before their eyes the first royal friends and patrons of their cause.

We beseech the Supreme Disposer of events to keep you both in his holy protection, and long to continue to France the blessings resulting from the administration of a prince who nobly asserts the rights of mankind.

Done at Philadelphia, the fifteenth day of June, 1779. By the Congress of the United States of America. Your faithful friends and allies.

Ordered, That copies thereof be made out, signed by the President, and transmitted.

The said committee having prepared a representation and request to his most christian majesty, the same was agreed to as follows:

The representation and request of the Congress of the United States of America, to their great, faithful, and beloved friend and ally, Lewis the sixteenth, king of France and Navarre.

The full confidence we repose in your majesty's constant attention to the great objects of the treaties subsisting between us, and our earnest desire vigorously to co-operate in the attainment of them, induce us to submit the following facts and proposals to your consideration:

At the commencement of the present war, we were in a great degree destitute of arms, ammunition and clothing for our armies; and supplies have since been irregular, fortuitous and scanty. Our husbandmen have been so much interrupted by frequent calls to arms, that even the productions of our fertile country have been considerably diminished; and other natural effects of war have rendered our usual commodities for exportation less abundant than formerly.

Our coasts have long been, and still are, so infested by the enemy's cruisers, that our commerce has been greatly injured, and both exports and imports become very hazardous. For want of naval stores, our marine exertions have been less extensive than they otherwise would have been. And while commodities proper for remittances remain scarce, and the transportation of them precarious, we have little reason to expect ample supplies from private contracts and commercial projects.

We are impressed with the strongest conviction of your majesty's friendly disposition towards us; and we are persuaded that the same magnanimity which induced your majesty to unite with us in frustrating the cruel designs of a nation whose power and lust of dominion had become dangerous to their neighbours, and oppressive to us, will continue to influence your majesty to exertions glorious to France and advantageous to your allies. We therefore take the liberty of requesting your majesty to furnish us with these necessary supplies, an estimate of which we have ordered our minister to lay before you; and we pledge the faith of these states for the repayment with interest of whatever sums may be advanced for that purpose, as soon as the restoration of peace shall have enabled us. Be assured that they shall be vigorously used against the common enemy, with whom we shall neither conclude peace nor truce without your concurrence; and that it is our sincere desire, that the alliance between us may be as beneficial to France, as it has been liberal and salutary to these United States.

On the 10th July, the board of war having laid before Congress an estimate of sundry articles proper to be sent for, amounting to five hundred and five thousand seven hundred and ninety-two pounds five shillings and six pence sterling; and the marine committee having laid before Congress an estimate of articles in their department, necessary to be sent for, amounting to sixty thousand three hundred and fifty-six pounds eleven shillings two farthings sterling.

Ordered, That copies of the said invoices be made out by the board of war and marine committee respectively, and delivered to the President, to be by him transmitted, with the representation, to his most Christian Majesty.¹

Ordered, That the estimate of articles necessary in the department of the Board of War and Ordnance reported by the Board of War be referred to a committee of three:²

The members chosen, Mr. [Meriwether] Smith, Mr. [Henry] Marchant, and Mr. [William] Whipple.³

The members chosen, Mr. [Elbridge] Gerry, Mr. [John] Armstrong, and Mr. [Henry] Laurens.

The Committee to whom was referred a letter from General Washington of the 11th of this month, beg leave to report the following resolution:

Whereas the enemy availing themselves of the delays that have happened in filling up the Continental Battalions, have taken post on each side of the North River, and are fortifying the same; and whereas it is represented to Congress by General Washington, that the advantages of their holding the said posts will be important to the enemy, and the inconveniences on our side great; that it is a step to further their operations against the defences of the river; that our communication by King's ferry is at an end; that the extent and difficulty of land transportation is considerably increased; that a new resort and sanctuary is afforded to the disaffected in that part of the country, and that a new door is opened to draw supplies, and distress and corrupt the inhabitants.

Resolved, therefore, that it be earnestly recommended to the several States, by the most decisive and vigorous efforts, forthwith to fill up their respective Battalions agreeable to a resolution of Congress of , that the present favorable opportunity may be improved for annoying and dislodging the enemy.¹

A letter, of 11, from General Washington, was read; Whereupon,

Resolved, That the Board of Treasury be empowered to borrow the sum of five hundred guineas, assuring the lenders the payment of principal and interest in hard money, as soon as the treasury shall be supplied with a sufficient sum.²

A letter, of 15, from the Board of War, was read, enclosing one, of 11, from J. Carleton.³

¹ This report, in the writing of Elbridge Gerry, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 19, VI, folio 269.

Ordered, That the same be referred to the Board of Treasury.

The committee, to whom was referred the letter, of the 7th of June, from Governor Clinton, brought in a report; Whereupon,

Resolved unanimously, That the officers acting under the State of New York, who were lately restrained of their liberty by certain persons of a district called the New Hampshire Grants, ought to be immediately liberated.

That it would be attended with consequences fatal to the good Government of the United States to suffer any officer or officers in their pay, to oppose or interrupt the legal authority of any of the United States, or to disturb the peace and tranquillity of any of their subjects.

Resolved unanimously, That the committee appointed to repair to the inhabitants of a certain district known by the name of the New Hampshire Grants, be directed to enquire into the ~~conduct of Colonel Ethan Allen, now in the pay of the United States, concerning the charge exhibited against him by Governor Clinton~~ matters and things contained in the letters of Governor Clinton, of 27 May, and of the 7th inst. and that copies of the said letters be transmitted to the said committee, and that they be directed to report specially to Congress.

That it was not the intention of Congress by the last resolution referred to by Governor Clinton, "to hold up a principle which may be considered by the Legislature as subversive of the internal Polity of the State;" nor is such construction warranted by the said resolution. And if it were, the measure was adopted by Congress at the instance of the delegates from the State of New York.

Resolved unanimously, That it was not the intention of Congress, by their resolutions of the first instant nor ought the same, or any other part thereof, to be construed to hold up principles subversive of, or unfavorable to, the internal polity of any or either of the United States:¹

¹ This paragraph was a substitute for that in the original report, and is on folio 355, in the writing of John Witherspoon.

That as Congress expect very salutary effects from the appointment of the said committee, therefore all further proceeding on Governor Clinton's letter be postponed until they report.¹

The Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom were referred a letter from General Schuyler of the 30th of May, and a letter from James Deane of the 20th of May, beg leave to report the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Commissioners for Indian Affairs for the Northern Department, in concurrence with the Commander in Chief, be authorised to exchange, or release, the Onondaga and the other Indian Prisoners of the Six Nations, on such terms as they shall judge for the advantage of the United States: And whereas, after repeated acts of unprovoked Hostility and depredation upon the Frontiers of these United States, the Six Nations were assured at several Treaties held by the Commissioners of Congress at Albany, Johnstown and the German Flatts that ample satisfaction should be exacted for future offences; and several of the said Tribes having nevertheless in violation of these solemn Treaties and engagements, joined our enemies and destroyed a number of our citizens and plundered their substance and particularly laid waste the Settlements of Cherry Valley, Cattes Kill the German Flatts, Hendersonton and Springfield in the state of New York and obliged the militia of the said State to undergo constant military duty to protect their remaining frontiers:

And whereas some of the said Tribes have sued for peace and forgiveness, and it is probable from the present operations that the rest may be induced to the same temper: and experience having shewn that a further security than verbal engagements is necessary to hold the said nations to their Treaties, and restrain them from wanton bloodshed and devastation:

Resolved, therefore, that the Commissioners of Indian Affairs for the Northern Department, in concurrence with the Commander in Chief, and the executive authority of the State of New York, be directed and authorized on a pacification with the Six Nations, or any one of them, to insist upon and obtain such satisfaction for past and such security against future injuries and depredations as they shall judge reasonable and expedient.¹

² Based upon an order of the Council of the State of Massachusetts of May 3, 1779.

The Committee on the Treasury, having arranged the several resolutions for borrowing twenty million dollars, reported the same for publication, as follows:

As Congress are bound by every motive of policy, and of public and private justice, to maintain the credit of the paper money emitted by their authority on the faith of the United States, so it is their intention, not only to avoid further emissions, but to diminish the quantity in circulation, provided that the respective states, by correspondent and vigorous exertions, shall put it in their power to raise the necessary supplies.

Resolved, therefore, That twenty million dollars, or such a part thereof as shall be brought into the continental loan offices on or before the first day of October next, be borrowed on the faith of the United States, at an interest of six per cent. per annum.

For facilitating the said loan,

Resolved, 1. That the loan officers in every State do immediately open subscriptions for the said loan:

¹ This report, dated June 29, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 136, III, folio 433. Downe's resignation because of ill health is in No. 42, II, folio 289. It is without date.

2. That the executive authorities of the several states be requested immediately to appoint persons of character and influence in every county, town or district, to receive subscriptions and transmit the same to the loan officer or officers in the states respectively.

3. That no subscription be received for less than five hundred dollars:

4. That all subscriptions under ten thousand dollars shall be paid into the loan office where the same shall be subscribed, or into the hands of the person obtaining the subscription, within fourteen days after the subscription shall be made:

5. That any person subscribing ten thousand dollars, or upwards, shall be allowed to pay the same at two periods, to wit, one half within fourteen days after the subscription, the residue on or before the first day of October next: the whole to bear interest from the time of the first payment, provided the other payment shall be punctually made.

6. That each lender shall have his election either to receive the principal at the expiration of three years from the date of the loan, or to continue it in the funds on interest until the whole amount of continental bills in circulation shall not exceed the sum in circulation at the time of the loan.

7. That interest on all sums which shall be paid into the loan office before the said first day of October, or which shall be subscribed and paid agreeably to the terms of the 5th resolution aforesaid, shall be payable annually at the continental loan office of the State in which the money was originally subscribed.

8. That when the interest on monies which have been or may be placed in the several loan offices on or after the first day of March, 1778, shall become due and be paid, the same, until some more accurate standard of value can be devised, shall be increased in proportion to the increase of the sum of continental paper money which may be in circulation after the date of such loans respectively.

Ordered, That the loan officers transmit to the Board of Treasury monthly returns of all sums subscribed and received in their respective offices.

Ordered, That so much of the report of the Committee on the Treasury as relates to the memorial of the 9th instant, from Silas Deane, Esq. be re-committed.

The committee, to whom was referred the report of the Board of War of the 1 May last, relating to the department of military stores, report as their opinion,

That it is not expedient to raise salaries at present, when Congress are adopting measures to restore the credit of the currency; but that in consideration of the particular circumstances of that department, such temporary allowances, not exceeding three hundred dollars per month to the commissary general, one hundred and fifty dollars per month to the deputy commissary general, and to the other officers and men in the same proportion to their former pay with that of the deputy commissary general, should be made by the Board of War to the said officers and men, as will enable them to continue in the service until the further orders of Congress.

Resolved, That Congress agree to the said report.¹

AT A BOARD OF WAR, June 30th, 1779.

Present, Col. Pickering and Mr Peters.

The Board having considered the Memorial of Major Burkhart of the German regiment, beg leave to report:

That the regiment is one of the largest in the Army, and has no other Field Officer capable of duty in it but the Major. That the terms of enlistment of many of the men will expire this summer, and some of whom may perhaps if near the enemy be prevailed on, if not to re-enlist at least to stay some time beyond their enlistments, if they perceive their officers remain with them. That the regiment is now on its march with General Sullivan on a service not the most agreeable to many of the officers, who would probably rather quit than stay in the service if encouragement was given them by forming a precedent of an acceptance of a resignation of an officer in similar circumstances. That in consideration of Major Burkhart's private affairs, the Board during the last winter would not have objected to his resignation, as no immediate service then demanded his continuance in Office, and the arrangement being then on the Carpet, the regiment might easily have been provided with another Field Officer. For the like reason they would readily recommend an acceptance of his resignation at the close of the present Campaign: but in the present state of the matter are of Opinion,

Resolved, That it is inexpedient at this time to accept Major Burkhart's resignation.¹

The committee to whom was referred the report of the Board of War on the construction of the resolution of March 15th, 1779, brought in a report, which was read:

The Committee, to whom was referred a report of the Board of War, on the construction of a resolution of Congress of the 15th of March last, report as their opinion:

That for removing all doubts concerning the construction of the resolution of the 15th of March last, respecting the corps of Light Dragoons, Artillery &c, being credited to the States to which they belong as parts of their Quotas, it be

Resolved, That for the present, no greater number of men be required of any of the States for the Continental Army, than a number equal to their respective Quotas of the eighty Battalions of Infantry, as apportioned by a resolution of the 9th of March last; and that the Men serving in the additional battalions of Infantry, corps of Light Dragoons and Artillery, and Artillery Artificers, belonging to the respective States be considered as part of the Quotas of the 80 Battalions.

That if each State's Quota of Men were completed agreeable to the foregoing resolution, the deficiencies in the other corps might be supplied by drafts from the Infantry, without reducing any regiment of Infantry to a less number than five hundred Men, exclusive of Commissioned Officers.

That the Officers and men serving in the other Corps aforesaid ought to be considered by the States, to which they belong, equally under their care, as those belonging to their battalions of Infantry, in every provision they make for their troops.

That a proper compensation shall be made to such States, as shall have furnished more than their respective Quotas of the whole number of men kept up in the Continental Army, for any extra expences necessarily incurred thereby.

And whereas the keeping up and recruiting battalions of Infantry not under the immediate care of any of the States, is attended with many difficulties and inconveniencies,

Resolved, that the Commander in chief by and with the concurrence and assistance of the authority of the respective States, be authorized to incorporate said additional battalions, except (Col. Hazen's) with the battalions of the States to which the Officers and Men respectively belong, without increasing the number of battalions already assigned to any State; that the officers of the said additional Battalions, have an equal chance with the Officers of the Battalions with which they shall be incorporated (according to their rank and Merit) of being retained in the service. But those who shall be discharged as Supernumeraries, shall have the same allowance as is provided by the resolution of the 24th of November, 1778.¹

Ordered, That the consideration thereof be postponed.

Congress proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee on the letters from A. Lee, Esq. and the communications of the Minister Plenipotentiary of France, and some time being spent thereon, Congress proceeded to the consideration of the second proposition moved by Mr. [Elbridge] Gerry.

The Committee on the Treasury, to whom was re-committed their report of the 25th of June, for allowing farther time to bring in the emissions called out of circulation, reported the following resolutions:

Whereas the legislature of the State of North Carolina have represented, that from the difficulties of communicating intelligence in that State, and the remote situation of many of its inhabitants, it was impossible that they should receive seasonable notice to carry the money of the emissions of May 20, 1777, and April 11, 1778, to the proper office by the time limited by Congress, and have therefore requested Congress to grant such further time for that purpose, that the inhabitants of the said State may not be injured; and whereas it is also represented to Congress, that many persons in the different states have been prevented by unforeseen causes from complying with the said resolution: and whereas it was not the intention of Congress that individuals possessed of the said bills should sustain any further inconvenience than such as arose from the necessary cautions against counterfeits:

Resolved therefore, That all bills of the said emissions which shall be brought into the continental loan offices, before the first day of January next, shall, at the election of the owners, be received either on loan or to be exchanged for other bills; and that the same rules and precautions as are provided for registering, certifying and defacing the bills of the said emissions received by the respective commissioners of the loan offices before the first day of June last, be observed in respect to all bills of the said emissions which shall be brought in by virtue of this resolution. Provided that each holder of such bills shall previously take the following oath or affirmation, and cause to be delivered to the respective commissioners of the continental loan offices a certificate thereof, signed by the magistrate administering the same:

I do swear (or solemnly affirm) that dollars, of the emissions of May 20, 1777, and April 11, 1778, of the following numbers and denominations, viz. were my property or in my possession on the first of June, 1779, or at the time of my being informed of the resolution of Congress of the 2d January, 1779, for taking the said emissions out of circulation, and were not obtained directly or indirectly at a discount.

That the commissioners of the continental loan offices be authorized to pay off the indented certificates which they shall have issued for exchanging bills of the emissions of May 20, 1777, and April 11, 1778, to any persons to whom such certificates may be endorsed, provided that each endorsement shall be witnessed by a magistrate:

That the commissioners of the several continental loan offices make returns to the Board of Treasury immediately after the 1st day of January next, of the amount of the bills received in their respective offices after the said first day of June to be exchanged as aforesaid; and that for this purpose proper bills be lodged at the said offices within 60 days from and after the first day of January aforesaid.¹

Ordered, That it be referred to the committee on the letter of 24th June, from Major General Greene.

¹ The Moultrie letter is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 158, folio 473.

The Committee, to whom were referred the letter of General Greene, Quartermaster General, dated the 24th of June last, and the Memorial of Colonel John Cox and Charles Pettit, Esquires, Assistant Quarter Masters General of the Army, beg leave to report:

That the letter of the said General Greene is conceived in terms too disrespectful of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey to receive countenance from Congress.

That your Committee have perused and maturely considered the Memorial of Mess^{rs} Cox and Pettit, and the Act of Assembly of New Jersey referred to therein, whereby these officers are liable to be taxed for all their real and personal estates in New Jersey in common with other citizens, and also a specific sum on account of the offices which they hold under the United States.

That tho' the Legislature of New Jersey have an undoubted right to make laws for the raising supplies on the Citizens of the said states in the manner they shall think most equal and just, and to tax all property therein however or wherever acquired; yet your Committee apprehend it will be inconvenient and prejudicial to the service and interest of the United States, if their officers are taxed not only to the full value of their estates, but also for the salaries or pay allowed them by Congress; as the sum assessed upon the office will be so much taken from the whole States for the benefit of a particular state, and the allowance by Congress will be so far reduced below what was intended and engaged.

That therefore it be recommended to the Legislature of New Jersey to revise the Act of Assembly aforesaid, and to repeal so much thereof as imposes an additional tax upon the officers of the United States on account of their office, and if any such tax shall be collected before the said repeal can be effected, that they will be pleased to cause restitution thereof to be made.¹

And this additional resolve to follow immediately after the said 7th Resolve—

"Resolved, that Congress having good reason to expect that the Commodities, aforesaid may in a short time be purchased at prices much below the said rates, the Q. M. G. and C. The Board of War, to whom was referred the letter from Major General Gates, in recommendation of Captain Bancke, brought in a report; Whereupon,

AT A BOARD OF WAR, July 10, 1779.

Present, Col Pickering and M^r Peters.

The Board having taken into consideration the case of Captain Bancke, recommended by General Gates in his letter of the twenty sixth day of June last, referred to them by Congress, beg leave to report:

That Captain Bancke appears to be a man of character and experience in his profession, and has the merit of early embarking in our cause, having left Europe in 1776 with a view of entering into the service of the United States, but being captivated by the enemy (in company with the Marquis de Britigni) lost his baggage and effects, and suffered a long and severe imprisonment.

That altho' Captain Bancke merits our warmest acknowledgements for his zeal and attachment to the interests of these States, we find it impracticable under our present circumstances to employ him in the Army. We therefore take the liberty of recommending,

Resolved, That Captain Bancke be informed that although Congress have a high sense of his merit and are obliged by his offers to serve in the army of these States, yet they find it impracticable to employ him suitably to his wishes.

Mr. [Henry] Laurens, from the committee of the whole House, appointed to confer with the Minister Plenipotentiary of France, reports:

That in obedience to the order of Congress, the committee of the whole have conferred with the Minister Plenipotentiary of France, who introduced the conference by saying, that he had received some despatches from his Court, which he was ordered to communicate to Congress; but that he expected no answer: that, though it was not the usual practice to offer communications of this nature in writing, yet as it had been intimated to him by the President, that this mode would be most agreeable to Congress, he had committed the heads of them to paper, not as a memorial, but merely for the assistance of the memory, in a form to which the term "ad statum legendi" is appropriated by the usage of the courts of Europe: That in reading the said paper, he would take the liberty of making some explanations and reflections.

He then proceeded to read the paper herewith delivered, marked No 1, divided into seven articles; and at the close of each separate article, he added explanations and reflections, the substance of which the committee have endeavoured to recollect, and committed to writing in the paper marked No. 2.

~~contained in the Paper herewith also delivered, marked No. 2, and therein respectively referred to the 7 Articles of the first paper, by the figures, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7.~~

~~After reading the first paper and making the explanations and reflections contained in the second, he delivered the first Paper into the hands of the chairman.~~

~~Your committee then observed to the Minister, that at a former Conference he intimated an Expectation, that the British Court would send over new Commissioners to negotiate with these States and to attempt seducing them into a separate Treaty; and as he had in the present Conference taken no notice of any such Design, desired to know, whether his silence on that subject proceeded from a persuasion in his Court, that the British Court had relinquished that Design. To which, the Minister replied, that his Court, having been silent on that Head, he concluded that the new Commissioners would not be sent, but that any Negotiations for a pacification would be carried on under the Mediation of Spain.~~

The committee then taking notice of what the Minister had said concerning a tacit assurance of the independence of these states, and the reluctance of the king of Great Britain to make an express acknowledgment thereof, requested to know his sense concerning the manner in which such tacit assurance could be given.

To which he, premising that what he should now say ought to be considered only as his private sentiments, replied, That the British Court would probably endeavour to avoid an express acknowledgment by imitating precedents that had occurred in Europe on similar occasions, instancing the cases of the Swiss cantons, and of the United Provinces of Holland; that the mode adopted in the latter case had been for the archdukes, to whom the king of Spain had transferred his right of sovereignty, to treat with them "as with free and independent states." And that with respect to the said cantons, France had not been able to obtain more for them in the treaty of Münster than "a declaration that they should be in possession as of full liberty and exemption from the empire, and be, in no manner, subject to the jurisdiction thereof." ~~that it appeared probable to him that a Declaration more full and explicit than this might be obtained for these States~~ [But that, in his opinion, the circumstances of these states, and the manner in which they had conducted their opposition, would justify their expecting a more full declaration.]¹

No. I. AD STATUM LEGENDI

1. The king has approved all the overtures which were made by his Minister Plenipotentiary to the honourable Congress respecting the affairs of M. de Beaumarchais: Therefore a line ought to be drawn between the stores which this gentleman has been permitted to take out of the royal magazine, for which he has constituted himself debtor to the Department of the War, and between those articles which the same gentleman has bought in the way of common trade for the use of the United States.

2. A hint having been given to the Minister Plenipotentiary, that Congress desire to recruit their ships in France from the English prisoners there, the court in consequence of his representation is willing to facilitate this mode of recruiting seamen.

¹ This report, in the writing of John Dickinson, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 25, I, folio 115. The words in brackets were inserted by Thomson.

3. The King and Ministry were extremely pleased with the resolution Congress has taken to maintain only one Minister Plenipotentiary at this court, as well as with the exclusive appointment of so steady and honest a man, and so firm and so tried a patriot as Dr Franklin.

4. The Congress has given a very great satisfaction to the Court of France by the convenient and spirited step which was taken to disavow a certain ill-grounded and pernicious doctrine relating to the mutual obligation of the Allies to conclude no truce or peace without the knowledge and consent of each other. The Court of France is of opinion, that this doctrine could only be maintained by those men whose aim would be to seek, by any means, to weaken the ties of the alliance, and to create a disgust and diffidence between the Allies.

5. This Court has received with some surprise the intelligence, that Congress has published the treaties concluded with her, without the previous knowledge and consent of the interested party. It is not to be denied that such a proceeding is but little consistent with reason, and with the general practice of courts and nations. Nevertheless, this observation involves not any kind of reproach; but the King thinks, that so noble and so generous a system of politicks could but produce desirable effects by its publication.

6. The intelligence, that in the first month of last winter there were no adequate preparations made in America towards a vigorous and successful campaign, was received at Versailles with all the concern which the dangers of the United States, and the prolongation of the present contest, can create in the most friendly mind. The Court of France is fully of opinion, that the exertions of the United States are necessary to bring the common enemy to a proper sense of all the disappointments which he shall meet with.

7. This Court being very desirous to acquaint exactly Congress with the state of the affairs relating to the common cause, would not delay to inform this honourable body, that the Court of London showing on one side dispositions to a reconciliation with France, rejects on the other side the very idea of a formal and explicit acknowledgment of the independence of the United States, which his most Christian Majesty perseveres to hold up as a preliminary and essential condition. The behaviour of the common enemy in this respect rendered a great deal more probable the conjecture which was communicated to Congress some time ago, that the point of honour and the pride of the King of England will be the greatest obstacle to the conclusion of the peace upon those explicit terms. And perhaps the manner of overcoming this difficulty will of course become the most decisive object of the deliberation of Congress, when this honourable body shall determine to make peace. It is presupposed whatever mezzo termine may be hit upon, that England shall treat with the United States as with a free people, and evacuate immediately all the territories belonging to them.

PHILADELPHIA, July 12, 1779.

No. II. [The substance of what the Minister said at the conference in explanation of the several articles in the foregoing paper, marked "ad statum legendi," as reported by the Committee.]

Art. 1. From the bills and accounts with which Congress have been furnished by M. de Beaumarchais, Congress would be enabled to distinguish those articles which were drawn from the royal magazines, and those which he supplied in the way of trade. For those last, Congress would, without doubt, make remittances to M. de Beaumarchais in their own way, to enable him to perform the contracts he had entered into as a merchant. That for the former articles, the King his master, taking upon himself to be creditor to the United States, would wait till Congress should find it convenient to make compensation.

Art. 2. Though his Court had not resolved to retaliate upon the prisoners in their hands for injuries done to prisoners taken by the common enemy, yet considering the difficulty consequent with in-manning their ships, owing partly to the measures pursued by that enemy in forcing American seamen to enter into the enemies service for the reasons assigned, the King his master had assented to the proposal. But in carrying this matter into execution, it would be proper to take such precautions, and to give such orders to the captains, or other persons employed in this business, ~~that his Court would not be brought into any difficulties by granting this indulgence,~~ that it might be managed with prudence.¹

Art. 3. There is every reason to believe that Congress will receive, very soon, proofs of the confidence which his Court was always willing to show to the servants of these states. The personal character of Dr. Franklin will enable the Court to act with a frankness becoming the alliance; and they will have no occasion to withhold any more the secrets which may interest the United States and the alliance.

Art. 4. The King his master, after this explicit step, relies, with the highest confidence, upon the candour and faithfulness of Congress in understanding as well as in executing the treaty, and in rejecting every arbitrary and unilateral interpretation, or construction, which false, subtile, or designing men could contrive.

Congress, by their own feelings, must be sensible, that such interpretations and constructions are always hurtful, against common decency and dignity, and may oftentimes endanger the mutual confidence, and, of course, the very existence of a treaty. But the sense Congress has manifested in this particular affair gives to his Court the greatest hopes that there shall be no further motive of remembering the painful reflections which that affair did give rise to.

Art. 5. He begs leave to add, that this publication interfered with the situation of affairs in Europe, and was in a certain degree disadvantageous to the common cause, because it gave the common enemy a full knowledge of our system, and our mutual engagements, without procuring us any reason to guess at their views and resolutions. Happily these inconveniences have not been felt, and ample compensation has been operated by convincing the people of America, not only that the treaty was just and equal, but that the heavy task which France has taken upon her, was magnanimous, gratuitous, and without reward. The whole world was at the same time convinced, that war, conquest and ambition, were not the objects of the alliance, nor of any of the allies, but only the peaceable enjoyment of the sovereignty, liberty, security and independency of these States; and this conviction gave much honour, credit and consideration to the alliance.

Art. 6. On this he observed, that he endeavoured, since the last fall, by order of his Court, to impress upon every mind, that England will never evacuate New York willingly, and could only be brought, by proper exertions on the part of America, to think seriously of granting the independence. He believed Congress had adopted a system so conformable to their engagements, and to the situation of affairs. His Court was better informed than he was; but without reflecting on past events, the King hopes that his amicable apprehensions will be overcome by the success of the campaign; that henceforth the United States will follow the example given to them by his Majesty, and that they will exert themselves in their proper cause, as his Majesty does exert himself for their sake and in their cause which he has adopted.

Art. 7. He said that he was authorized to tell Congress, in confidence, that this reflection is the result of the observations which the Court of Spain made upon the conduct of England throughout her negotiation of mediation. That the British ministry seems to be solicitous to be reconciled with France, and to hold up this negotiation; that from thence probable hopes of their internal disposition to peace may be entertained; but at the same time, they reject with haughtiness the formal acknowledgment of the independence insisted upon by France and Spain. New orders have been given to the Spanish ambassador at London to ascertain, as nearly as possible, those dispositions. In these circumstances the King his master ordered him to communicate this intelligence to the United States, that they may, if they think proper, take under consideration, if it would not be expedient to give to their Plenipotentiary instructions and full powers founded upon the necessity of the conjunctures and upon the treaty of alliance, the express and formal terms of which are, that peace shall not be made without an express or tacit acknowledgment of the sovereignty, and consequently and a fortiori, of the rights inherent to sovereignty as well as of the independence of the United States, in matters of government and of commerce.

This substantial alternative in an engagement which is a mere gratuitous gift without any compensation, or stipulation, ought indeed never to be forgotten in a negotiation for peace. France foresaw the extreme difficulties a formal and nominal acknowledgment should meet with. She knew by her own experience in similar contests in which she has been deeply concerned, respecting the republics of Holland, Genoa, and the Swiss cantons, how tenacious and repugnant monarchs are to pronounce the humiliating formula. It was only obtained for Holland tacitly, after a war of thirty years; and explicitly, after a resistance of seventy. To this day Genoa and the Swiss have obtained no renunciation, nor acknowledgment, either tacit, or formal, from their former sovereigns. But they enjoy their sovereignty and independence only under the guarantee of France. His Court thought it important to avoid, that difficulties of this nature, which reside merely in words, should delay or prevent America from enjoying the thing itself. From these considerations the very important and explicit stipulation in the treaty of alliance, which he related just now, arose, and hath received the sanction of the United States. The circumstances seem already such as call forth the application of this alternative, of tacit or explicit acknowledgment. Therefore all those considerations are delivered, that Congress may, if they think proper, consider if the literal execution of the treaty in this point is not become necessary, and if the safety and the happiness of the American people, as well as the essential principles of the alliance, are not intimately connected with the resolutions which may be taken on this matter. And it remains by the prudence of Congress to examine if instructions upon some particular conditions may not frustrate the salutary purposes of the treaty of alliance relating to a tacit acknowledgment which the situation of affairs may require. In executing thus, the orders he has received, he cannot omit observing, that these orders were given with the full presumption, that the business which he laid before Congress in February last would have been long ago settled when those despatches should come to his hands. However sensibly his Court will be disappointed in her expectations, he shall add nothing to the information and observations which with the warmest zeal for the mutual interest and honour [of both countries,] and by the duties of his office and his instructions, he found himself bound to deliver from time to time to Congress, in the course of this business. The apprehension of giving new matter to those who endeavour to inculcate Congress, is a new motive for him to remain silent. He begs only leave to remind this honourable body of the aforesaid information and reflections, and particularly of those which he had the honour to deliver to an assembly similar to the present. He shall only insist on a single point, which he established then and since in one of his memorials. It is, the manifest and striking necessity to enable Spain, by the determination of just and moderate terms, to press upon England with her good offices, and to bring her mediation to an issue, in order that we may know if we shall expect either war or peace. This step is looked upon in Europe as immediately necessary. It was the proper object of the message which he delivered in February last. He established then the strong reasons which may require, that at the same time and without delay, proper terms should be offered to his Catholick Majesty, in order to reconcile him perfectly with the American interest. He concealed not, that it was to be feared, that any condition inconsistent with the established system of the alliance, which is the binding and only law of the allies, and contrary to the line of conduct which Spain pursued in the course of her mediation, would lead her to drop the mediation, and prevent his Catholick Majesty, by motives of honour and of faithfulness, from joining in our common cause, and from completing the intended triumph. No loss, no unhappy event could be so heavy upon the alliance as this. Indeed although the British forces are already kept in check by the combined efforts of France and America, it is nevertheless evident that the accession of Spain only can give to the alliance a decided superiority adequate to our purposes, and free us from this fatal chance that a single unlucky event may overthrow the balance.¹

FRIDAY, JULY 16, 1779

A letter, of 11, from Christopher Hele, was read:

Ordered, That it be referred to the Committee on former letters from the same.

A letter, of 14, from J. G. Duarti, was read:¹

Ordered, That the report of the committee on the memorial from J. Codman and J. G. Duarti be taken into consideration on Monday next, immediately after reading the public dispatches.

The Committee, to whom was referred the Memorial of Mr John Codman, Junior, Agent for Captain John Garcia Duarte, of the Snow, Nostra Senhora de Carmo e Santo Antonio, the Memorial of the said Captain, and other papers respecting the capture of the said Snow and her cargo by Captain Joseph Cunningham, Commander of the private vessel of War, called the Phenix, report:

That they find Mr Carter Braxton, and Mr Phripp, of the State of Virginia, and Mr Robert Morris of this State, are concerned as owners in the said Privateer Phenix, and they cannot learn with certainty the names of any other owners. That in obedience to the order of the House they Attempted to confer with Mr Morris, by requesting in writing that he would meet them at the State House the 7th instant, at six o'Clock P. M, to which Mr Morris replied "that it was impossible for him to appear on behalf of the owners of the Privateer Phenix; that he was interested one twenty fourth part in that vessel; but was not authorized by the owners; that he did not know who they are, except Carter Braxton, Esquire, of Virginia; that Mr Braxton, and another gentleman in Virginia are authorized to act for the whole; that it would be improper for him to interfere, especially in a transaction that never had his approbation; that whatever charges should fall to his share he would readily comply with, and that he had pressed Mr Braxton to come up on the occasion."

Your Committee cannot but express their surprize at the reasons offered by Mr Morris for not interfering in this transaction at the present period, since it is apparent that he interfered "on behalf of ¹ Hele's letter is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 78, XI, folio 439; that of Duarti, in No. 44, folio 87.

M^r Braxton and others, the owners of the Privateer Phenix" by his Memorial and Petition to Congress of the 6th March, 1778; and it is in consequence of the resolution of Congress of May 11th following passed conformably to the prayer of the said Memorial and Petition, that application is now made by Captain Duarti and his agent M^r Codman; And your Committee apprehend that M^r Morris, and each owner of the Phenix, is answerable for the consequences arising from orders given by any one or more of them under the authority and instructions of the whole.

The Committee have seen a certified copy of M^r Braxton's orders to Captain Cunningham dated the 16th December, 1776, in which the following words are contained:

"Or should you hear that the Portuguese are actually taking our vessels, in that case you may seize any of theirs."

And in the same orders M^r Braxton writes:

"The company to whom the Privateer Phenix belongs, have instructed M^r Phripp and myself to give such direction as appear to us necessary."

And your Committee find a letter of Instructions to the Prize-master [John] Wardwell, in which Captain Cunningham declares, that in seizing Captain Duarte's vessel he acted in obedience to his orders.

Your Committee are of opinion that the orders given by M^r Braxton were illegal and highly injurious to the good faith and honor of these United States, and that the original owners of the Portuguese Snow ought to obtain justice and reparation for all the losses and damages which they have sustained in consequence of such illegal orders.

They have conferred with Captain Duarte and M^r Codman, and find that by the aforesaid seizure, Captain Duarti, and the owners of the Snow have suffered considerable damages, amounting in gross to 4000 half Johannes, equal to £7100 Sterling, as appears by the account herewith delivered, and the Committee are well assured and believe that the several articles in the said account are very moderately rated.

Capt. Duarte and M^r Codman have informed the Committee that there remains in the Custody of the Board of War at Boston, 470½ half Johannes, and divers small pieces of Gold and Silver, the whole value according to the nearest computation amounting to £865 Sterling—And also one silver cup, and one plate and three surplices set apart for church service which are not included in the Estimate of damages.

Your Committee recommend that the Board of War at Boston be directed to deliver to Captain Duarte or his order the above mentioned articles of half Johannes, small pieces of Gold and silver, and also the church furniture.

When the last mentioned sum of £865 Sterling is deducted from the first sum of £7100 Sterling, there will remain £6235, which is computed to be the real damage sustained by the Captain and owners of the Captured Snow.

Your Committee are of opinion, although by the Law of Nations Congress are not bound to make pecuniary satisfaction for acts committed in contrary to and in direct violation of their commissions by the Commander of any vessel of war belonging to any of these states, yet as from the present circumstances of the states it is difficult for injured Foreigners to obtain ample redress by the ordinary course of law in such instances as the present, your Committee for the manifestation of the good faith, honor, and justice of Congress, and from the peculiar circumstances attending the case beg leave to recommend:

That immediate satisfaction, be made to Captain Duarte and the owners of his Snow by granting to the said Captain bills of exchange for the amount of £6235 Sterling or an equivalent in livres tournois.

That the Board of Treasury be directed to prepare one or more setts of bills as Captain Duarte shall request for the said sum of £6235 on the Minister Plenipotentiary, at the Court of Versailles, payable in Paris eighteen months after date, with interest from the date at the rate of 6. per cent. per annum, granting four bills to each set, and that such bills be signed by the President of Congress.

The Committee further recommend that the most effectual measures be taken, in order to compel the owners of the Privateer Phenix to repay the said sum of £6235 Sterling, or to make provision for paying in due time the bills so to be drawn, together with the full interest and charges thereon. And for this purpose the following resolutions are submitted to the consideration of Congress.

Resolved, That the order given by Carter Braxton, Esq. of Virginia to Capt. Cunningham authorizing him to seize Portuguese Vessels, was illegal, contrary to, and in direct violation of, the commissions granted by Congress to Vessels of War, and highly injurious to the good faith, honor and interests of the United States of America.

Resolved, That each and every of the owners of the Privateer Phenix under whose authority or instruction such order was given is, and ought to be answerable for the consequences of carrying the order into execution.

Resolved, That it is necessary Captain Duarte should vest Congress or some person or persons to be nominated by them with full powers for recovering from the owners of the Privateer Ship of War Phenix, all the damages sustained by the capture of his Snow, and also that he should deliver to Congress every paper and document relative thereunto which are in his hands or in the hands of his Agent.

Resolved, That a clear and full state of the case of the Snow, Nostra Senhora de Carmo è Santo Antonio, and copies of all necessary vouchers be transmitted to his Excellency Thomas Jefferson, Esq. Governor of Virginia, and that he be requested in the name of the United States of America, to take the most speedy and effectual measures consistent with the laws and constitution of that State, for compelling Carter Braxton, Esq. Agent for the owners of the Privateer Phenix, and sole subscriber of the orders given Captain Cunningham, to repay the said sum of £6235 Sterling in good bills of exchange, or in gold or silver, or to give good and sufficient security to make provision for discharging in due time the bill or bills to be drawn for the said sum, together with the interest and charges thereon or for indemnifying these states, against all damages which may arise from a failure on his part.

The Committee find that there rests in the hands of the Board of War at Boston £15,246.13.9 lawful money of the State of Massachusetts, being the nett proceeds of the sale of the Portuguese Snow, and of so much of her cargo and effects as were sold in Boston, which sum ought to have been put into the Loan Office, agreeable to a resolution of Congress of the 11th of May, 1778, and they recommend that the said sum of £15,246.13.9 be delivered to M^r Braxton or his order, for the benefit of the Owners of the Privateer Phenix, immediately after he shall have paid the sum of £6235 Sterling or shall have given good and sufficient security for the payment thereof as abovementioned.

Lastly. The Committee recommend that copies of all the papers recommended to be sent to the Governor of Virginia, be transmitted to the President and Council of the State of Pennsylvania and that they be requested to call on Robert Morris, Esq in like manner as the Governor of Virginia is requested to call on Carter Braxton, Esq. in case full satisfaction shall not be obtained from M^r Braxton within three months from the present date, of which due notice will be given by Congress.¹

A petition of Evan Evans, Robert Allison and James Worrell, was read,² representing that by virtue of a resolution of the supreme executive council of Pennsylvania, of 27 August, 1777, which was passed in pursuance of a recommendation of Congress, they took down the leaden spouts of sundry persons and delivered the same to Captain Joseph Watkins, commissary of ordnance and military stores; that the owners of the houses are demanding their money of the petitioners, and therefore praying Congress to appoint some persons to value the said lead and give orders for payment:

Ordered, That the same be referred to the Board of War.

The Board of War report,

That they have attended to the letter of Colonel John Brown, relative to Colonel James Easton, referred to them, and upon examining into the case of Colonel Easton, they find that a charge had been exhibited against him and Colonel Brown, then Major Brown, by General Arnold, for plundering the effects of prisoners taken at Sorel: that on the 26 April, 1776, Congress resolved that the commissioners from Congress in Canada, should be instructed to cause enquiry to be made by a court martial, or otherwise, into the said charge, so far as it respected Colonel Easton: that on the first of August, 1776, Congress resolved that Colonel John Brown should be allowed the rank and pay of lieutenant colonel in the continental army from the 20 day of November, 1775, to that time:

That James Easton was entitled to the rank of colonel in the continental army from the 1st day of July, 1775, and to the pay of a colonel from that day until he should be discharged, which it was declared ought to be done as soon as a court of enquiry should report in his favour, or a court martial should determine upon his conduct, and their sentence be carried into execution: that it seems no such enquiry or court martial has ever been, and at this late period, probably never will be held: that it was the duty of Colonel Easton long since to have procured such court to sit, or if that had been found impracticable, to have informed Congress thereof: that it does not appear he has done or attempted to do either, but has contentedly drawn his pay to this time; Whereupon,

Resolved, That Colonel James Easton be dismissed from the service of the United States.¹

A letter, of the 14, from the Board of War, was read,² enclosing a letter of 26 June from Samuel Safford, lieutenant colonel, informing, that William Sherman, pay master of Colonel Warner's regiment, had offered to resign, which, as he has not settled the accounts of the regiment since raised, and has in his hands a considerable sum of money which is its due, the said lieutenant colonel thinks ought not to be admitted until his accounts are settled.

An address from A. Lee, Esq. to his excellency, the President of the hon^{ble} the Congress of the United States of America, dated Paris, February 10, 1779, was read, containing an answer "to a letter under the signature of Silas Deane, to the citizens of America", and accompanied with copies of letters and papers referred to therein as vouchers.

Resolved, That the Letters and vouchers transmitted by Arthur Lee, Esquire, relative to his vindication against charges, suggestions or representations of Silas Deane, Esquire, be sealed up and carefully preserved, until Congress shall determine to procede to hear and determine concerning the conduct of the said parties, which Congress will do as soon as they shall have gone through the Business of Finance,

Resolved, That it be recommended to the legislatures of the respective states, to make effectual provision by laws for the preservation of the buildings belonging to the United States within their respective jurisdictions, and for the punishment of those who shall seize upon or injure the same: and that in cases where there are considerable buildings which cannot be removed with convenience to the public, the proprietors of the ground be obliged to suffer the buildings to remain thereon, at least during the war, receiving therefor such compensation as shall be¹ allowed by indifferent and proper persons duly appointed and authorized to appraise and value the same: that all grounds or places occupied for the purposes of defence, although the property of individuals, shall remain during the war appropriated (if not before that time abandoned by orders of the proper authority,) for the military purposes intended by their being possessed by the troops: and that no encroachments shall be made on the said grounds or places; but the officer commanding at the post shall remove all such encroachments on the dependencies of the garrison, the forts or any out-works thereof, so that such extent of ground shall remain unoccupied for any private purpose round the forts or garrisons, as the defence of the same posts may require; [and that compensation be made to the

Resolved, That all such commodities as shall be levied in manner aforesaid be brought to convenient landings on navigable waters, or to such convenient mills and places within each county, town or district, as the legislature shall appoint, at the expence of the state or the inhabitants supplying the same, which-ever to the state shall appear most expedient and equitable: that thence the same be conveyed at the expence of the United States. And for the expediting of the conveyance of such supplies to the places where they may be required, that the commissioners of each state, hereafter mentioned, be authorised and directed by the legislature thereof, whenever a passage through the same may be expedient, to receive on due notice the supplies from the commissioners of any other state, and to convey the same towards the place where they will be necessary for the public service, in the same manner as if they had been at first provided therein, which commissioners are to give receipts to those delivering such supplies, mentioning the sorts, number or quantity and quality of the articles received.

Resolved, That such articles as will be required for the use of the armies or fleets of these United States, or of their allies, shall be placed by the said commissioners under the direction of the board of war, in such stores or magazines that they may be in the quickest, easiest, cheapest and most effectual manner applied to such uses; and that the said commissioners shall take effectual care that every barrel of flour shall be plainly branded on one head, so as to shew the miller's name, the quality of the flour, whether superfine, common or ship stuff, the net weight contained in each barrel, and the initial letters of the commissioners names; and that each barrel of beef or pork be branded in like manner, to shew the said initials, and the net weight of the meat contained therein.

Resolved, That such articles as shall not be required for the uses aforesaid, or from local circumstances cannot be applied to them, and are not of a perishable nature, shall be placed in such stores and magazines that they may be in the best manner secured, and most conveniently conveyed to market, to be disposed of for the benefit of these states.

Resolved, That such articles as shall not be required for the uses aforesaid, and are of a perishable nature, shall be sold or exchanged with the approbation of the board of war, or of the supreme magistrate of the state, if the board be too remote to be consulted in due time, for such articles as are immediately necessary for the said uses, if local circumstances will permit their being applied to the same in proper time, otherwise they shall be sold or exchanged for such enumerated commodities as are not perishable, which are to be secured in stores or magazines as aforesaid.

Resolved, That all such articles, not of a perishable nature, which shall be levied as aforesaid, or which shall be obtained by sale or exchange, as is mentioned in the next foregoing resolution, and not required for the uses aforesaid, shall be appropriated to the purpose of raising a fund for discharging all contracts for gold or silver which have been or hereafter shall be made on account of these states.

Resolved, That the said commissioners shall every month render to the board of treasury an account, whereof a duplicate shall at the same time be delivered to the chief magistrate of the state, by which they are appointed, of all their proceedings relative to the articles mentioned in the next preceding resolution, and regular returns of all such articles, exactly specifying the sorts, quantity or number and quality thereof then in the public stores or magazines, and the situation of such stores or magazines; and shall pay obedience to all such directions as they shall from time to time receive from the said board concerning the management and disposal of the articles so appropriated.

Resolved, That the said commissioners be also authorised and directed, upon requisition from the board of war, to contract for and purchase such farther supplies of the commodities, in the first and fourth resolutions enumerated, as may be necessary for the uses before mentioned; and that if Congress shall at any time judge proper to recommend an embargo on produce, then it shall be also recommended to every state to pass laws for confiscating all articles imported into the same contrary to the laws of the state from which they are imported; and that if any state be permitted, notwithstanding such embargo, to procure the produce of another state, all purchases of such produce be made by the same commissioners.

Resolved, That for ascertaining the duties of such commissioners, the quartermaster general and commissary general shall, in the month of October annually, transmit information to the board of war of all the particular articles of the supplies, specifying the sorts, quantity or number and quality, which will be necessary in their several departments for the ensuing campaign; and the said board shall issue orders to such and so many of the commissioners as shall by them be deemed expedient, for putting themselves in condition, by sale, exchange or purchase of commodities, to furnish the supplies so required: and the quartermaster and commissary general shall from time to time issue requisitions to such of the commissioners, as by the returns shall appear to be in condition to comply with the same, for all the necessary supplies for the army, directing the transportation of the same to such magazines and places as the exigencies of the service shall render necessary; and the commissioners respectively shall pay obedience to such requisitions and directions.

Resolved, That the said commissioners shall every month make returns, whereof duplicates shall at the same time be delivered to the chief magistrate of the state by which they are appointed, to the board of war of all supplies received by them and then in the stores or magazines, specifying the sorts, quantity or number and quality, and the situation of such stores or magazines, except such as are mentioned in the resolution preceding, and all which have been issued during the month, mentioning when and to whom they have been delivered, and all articles purchased, sold or obtained by exchange under any of the foregoing resolutions, the time when such purchase, sale or exchange was made, the names of the persons dealt with therein, their places of abode, the sorts, quantity or number and quality of the articles, and the prices or terms of the bargain; and also an account of all the vessels, boats and carriages employed by them, the names of the owners and their places of abode, the time they were employed, and the prices given; that they also make monthly returns to the quartermaster general and commissary general of the supplies then in the stores or magazines, specifying them as aforesaid, and the situation of such stores or magazines.

Resolved, That the several states do require security by bond and oath from the commissioners by them respectively appointed for the due and faithful discharge of their duties, and that no commissioner shall keep, own, or in any manner whatsoever directly or indirectly be interested in any boat, shallop, vessel, waggon or cart, or in any waggon, horse or cart horse, or the hire thereof, in any manner employed in the removal or transportation of public supplies of any kind.

Resolved, That the commissioners shall be allowed per cent. on the rated value of all the commodities to be levied as aforesaid, and of all the supplies which they shall purchase; such allowance not to exceed what it would amount to at the rates aforesaid, and not to be less than the same, notwithstanding they the said commissioners may have procured them at a lower rate: that an allowance of per cent. upon all savings that shall be made by procuring supplies under the rated prices, be given to the commissioners respectively who shall make the same, and the said commissioners shall receive at their election respectively, all the said allowances either in bills of credit as the same shall become due or in Spanish milled dollars, or in gold or other silver of equal value, at the same periods as when the balances due to and from the states for the year in which their respective services shall be performed become payable, with interest on the same at the rate aforesaid.

Resolved, That the said commissioners account with such persons as shall be by Congress authorised for that purpose, who shall report thereon to the board of treasury for re-examination; and on thus accounting the said commissioners shall produce receipts for all sums paid and for all articles delivered by them.

On the question to agree to the resolution as amended,
Resolved in the affirmative.

Congress proceeded to the consideration of the reports of the Board of Treasury relative to finance; and thereupon agreed to the following

Ordinance for establishing a Board of Treasury, and the proper officers for managing the finances of these United States

The principal officers of the Board shall consist of three commissioners, not members of Congress, and two members of Congress, any three of whom to form a Board for the despatch of business. The commissioners shall be annually appointed by Congress, and continue in office until a new election: No member of Congress shall continue to serve as a member of the said Board longer than six months by virtue of one appointment, nor shall there be more than one member of the said Board at any one time belonging to the same State. The Board to have a seal of office, a secretary, a clerk and messenger; the secretary to be annually appointed by Congress, the clerk and messenger by the Board.

That there be the following offices: the auditor general's, the treasurer's, two chambers of accounts, and six auditors for settling claims and accounts arising in the army.

That in the auditor's office there be an auditor general, and assistant annually appointed by Congress, and two clerks appointed by the auditor general.

That in the treasurer's office there be one treasurer annually appointed by Congress, and one clerk appointed by the treasurer.

That each chamber of accounts shall consist of three commissioners and two clerks.

That the Board of Treasury be authorized to discharge the auditors of the army or any of them whenever they shall find it expedient.

That the commissioners and clerks of the chamber of accounts, and auditors for the army, be annually elected by Congress; and that the auditor general, treasurer and auditors for the army, be respectively accountable for the conduct of their clerks.

That apartments be provided for the accommodation of the several offices of the treasury, in the city or place where Congress shall hold their sessions.

That the duties of the several offices be as follows:

THE COMMISSIONERS OR BOARD OF TREASURY

The commissioners or Board of Treasury to have the general superintendence of the finances of the United States, and of all officers entrusted with the receipt and expenditure or application of the public money, bills of exchange or loan office certificates: to inspect the treasury: to lay before Congress estimates of the public expences, and necessary supplies: and to call on public officers for information: to carry into effect all acts and resolutions of Congress for emitting bills of credit and of exchange, loan office certificates or other securities, and establishing lotteries: to deposit in the proper offices, such bills, certificates and securities when emitted; and all monies arising from loans, taxes and lotteries: to see that the public accounts are regularly stated in the auditor's office, and all public debtors brought to account, frauds detected, and defaulters punished: to sue and prosecute for all debts, wrongs and injuries touching the finances or property vested in Congress: to instruct in their duty all officers concerned in the finances or accounts, and to suspend any of them for negligence or misdemeanor, till the pleasure of Congress can be known: to register and preserve all contracts and securities appertaining to the United States: to grant under their seal of office "a quietus" to accountants on a final settlement: where objections are discovered against the report of the commissioners or auditors, to rectify their respective errors and instruct them where they are in doubt: to determine on appeals by an accountant from the decision of any of the auditors or commissioners on any charge or voucher which they may respectively reject: to examine into the merits of all requisitions for the advance of money for public services, and report thereon to Congress: to grant warrants under their seal on the treasurer for balances of accounts and partial payments.

On the question to agree to this clause, as far as "payments," the yeas and nays being required by Mr. [Elbridge] Gerry, who objected to the words "for balances of accounts and partial payments,"

So it was resolved in the affirmative.

And for such advances as Congress shall direct to be made for the public service: which being entered in the auditors office, and certified to be passed by him, shall be paid. And generally to perform all such duties as shall be assigned them by Congress.

THE AUDITOR GENERAL

All accounts and claims against the United States (except such as are proper to be adjusted in the field by the auditors of the army) shall be exhibited to him, and the nature or title and the amount of the claim or account being registered, the same shall be referred by him to one of the chambers of accounts for settlement; and being accordingly there adjusted, shall be reported to him: he is then with his assistant to examine the nature of the charges and vouchers, and to reject such as appear to him to be improper, allowing an appeal from his determination to the Board of Treasury, when demanded by the accountant. After examination and previous to their being entered in the books of the treasury, he is to present the accounts to the Board of Treasury for their final determination; he shall direct the method, not only of stating the public books of accounts of the treasury (which are to exhibit a comprehensive view of the finances and expenditures of the United States) but of all other books of accounts of public offices connected with the treasury, and the manner of their respective returns and reports: and through him all orders and instructions to the chambers of accounts and auditors of the army are to be communicated. All warrants on the treasury or loan offices for issuing public money, are to be entered in the auditor's office, and certified to be passed by him before they shall be paid, and he is forthwith to charge the amount of such warrants to the department or person who is accountable. In case of his absence by sickness or with leave of the Treasury Board, all the duties hereby assigned to him shall be executed by the assistant auditor general, who shall also be the principal accountant in keeping and stating the public books at the treasury.

THE TREASURER

The treasurer is to receive and keep the monies of the United States, and issue them on bills drawn by the President of Congress or Board of Treasury. On receiving money, he shall give a receipt, and on every payment take one to serve as his voucher: he is to render his accounts quarterly to the auditor general, for examination by one of the chambers of accounts, and being reported to and approved by the auditor, and presented by him to the Board of Treasury, and no objections appearing to them, a copy shall be transmitted to Congress. All loan officers shall make monthly returns to him as well as to the Board of Treasury, of the monies in their hands arising from loans, taxes or other means; on which returns he shall charge such officers in his books: when a warrant is drawn on him and he finds it convenient that it should be paid out of the money in any loan office, he shall endorse on the warrant an order to the loan officer, requiring him to discharge it accordingly; but before it is transmitted he shall produce the endorsements to the auditor general, who shall register and certify it to have been passed by him, and the loan officer is authorized and directed to pay it; and both the auditor general and the treasurer are to credit the loan officer with the sum which he is required to pay by such warrant and order.

THE CHAMBERS OF ACCOUNTS

The chambers of accounts, on the reference of the auditor general, shall carefully examine claims and accounts against the United States; compare the charges with the allowance by Congress, and the vouchers to support them; reduce such articles as are overcharged, and reject such as are groundless or unjust, as well as the vouchers which shall appear to them incompetent; they shall have power to examine witnesses, being first sworn or affirmed by them, or one of them, and to call for any books or papers in the public offices, or in the custody of any public officer. When they reduce or reject a charge, or set aside a voucher, they shall allow the accountant or claimant an appeal to the auditor general if demanded.

THE AUDITORS OF THE ARMY

The auditors of the army shall respectively reside in the main army or detachment of the army, for which they shall be appointed by the Board of Treasury, and not be absent without leave of the Commander in Chief or commanding officer. It shall be his duty to call to account all regimental officers indebted to the public: to receive the pay rolls and abstracts of the army from the pay master general or his deputies, who shall previously examine and certify the sum due; to settle all other accounts of the army, excepting those in the departments of the quarter master, pay master, directors, clothier, barrack master, or commissaries of provisions, prisoners, or military stores; but when any articles in any of those departments are mixed with charges within the immediate duty of the auditor, he shall settle the whole account notwithstanding. He shall also adjust all other accounts which he shall be instructed by the Board of Treasury to do. He shall present the accounts settled by him, and the abstracts, with certificates of what is due, to the Commander in Chief or commander of a detachment, having a military chest, who shall thereupon, unless he have reasons to the contrary, issue warrants on the pay master, or deputy pay master general, in discharge thereof. He shall make report of all his settlements and transactions to the auditor general, at such times and in such forms as shall be directed by the auditor general. In all other respects he shall execute his duty as prescribed by act of Congress, dated the 6th day of February, 1778, and such instructions as he shall, from time to time, receive from the Board of Treasury.

Resolved, That Friday next be assigned for nominating officers for the Board of Treasury, and the Friday following for electing them.

Congress proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee instructed to consider of a farther allowance to be made to the officers of the army; and, on reading the first paragraph and amendment thereof, for extending the half pay of the officers of the army during life, a motion was made by Mr. [Henry] Laurens, seconded by Mr. [William Churchill] Houston,

To postpone the farther consideration of the first paragraph of the report and amendment proposed, until the House shall have considered and determined on those parts of the report which recommend an augmentation of the monthly subsistence of officers of the army.

² These letters are in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 57, folios 353, 367.

That they have considered the several papers referred to them and agreeably to the authority given, held a conference thereon, with the president and supreme executive council of Pennsylvania and the Minister Plenipotentiary of France; that it would consume much time to prepare and report a full state of facts, and procrastinate the determinations of Congress, which the exigency of affairs will not properly admit of; they, therefore, pray the indulgence of the House to confine themselves to those things only which are of more immediate importance, and they report,

1st That they are fully convinced the charges made against the consul of France in the Pennsylvania Packet, of the 24th of July, 1779, are unjust and ill founded:

2^d That the president and supreme executive council of Pennsylvania have already taken measures to obtain and restore the flour taken from the said consul, and mentioned in the said publication:

3^d That the said president and council have assured the committee of their solicitude to do every thing in their power to redress the matters contained in the said memorial:

4^{thly} That the persons who have been guilty of the violences and insults complained of are not known ~~as any body corporate or politick,~~ to the laws and constitution of Pennsylvania as having any legal authority:

5^{thly} That by the said laws, are punishable as well, violences and insults against the laws of nations as those against the laws of property and personal freedom:

6^{thly} That ~~evil-disposed persons~~ individuals in the several states may be led to question not only the authority, but even the office of foreign consuls from the defect of a due notification thereof to the executive powers of the said states respectively:

And 7^{thly}, That it appears ~~necessary, in order to allay the disquietude and just apprehensions of the Minister,~~

~~signified in his Memorial.~~ proper to give to the Minister of France full and explicit assurances of protection for the servants of his most Christian Majesty.¹

Resolved, That the Minister of France be assured that Congress will at all times afford every countenance and protection to the consuls and other servants of his most Christian Majesty within the powers and authorities to them delegated by their constituents:

That the several appointments of consuls made, and which may hereafter be made and approved by Congress, be duly registered in the Secretary's office and properly notified by the President to the executive authorities of the respective states in whose ports such consuls may reside:

That the measures taken by Mr. Holker to procure flour for the fleet of his most Christian Majesty in the way of commerce, have from time to time been made known unto, and been fully approved by Congress; that the several proceedings and publications complained of by the Minister on that subject are very injurious to the servants of his said Majesty, and that Congress do highly disapprove of the same:

That the president and supreme executive council of Pennsylvania be informed that any prosecutions which it may be expedient to direct, for such matters and things in the said publications or transactions as may be against the laws of nations, shall be carried on at the expence of the United States:

~~That it be recommended to the Executive Powers of the several states to give every necessary and proper countenance and protection to the public Ministers and Servants of his Most Christian Majesty and other Powers, in alliance with these United States.~~

That the Minister of France be informed that the president and supreme executive council of Pennsylvania, have taken

Your Committee to whom was referred General Washington's letter of the 13th July, 1779, with the enclosures, Beg leave to report, the following draft of a letter from the President to the minister plenipotentiary of the United States at the Court of Versailles:

SIR,

The burning of ~~Portsmouth~~ and Suffolk in Virginia, Fairfield, East Haven, Green's Farms and Norwalk in Connecticut, together with the ravages committed in Georgia and South Carolina, form a cruel commentary upon the proclamation of the British Commissioners. This proclamation was defended in their Parliament as meaning no more than that in future the war was to be carried on against America as against other nations. It becomes therefore a common cause of all nations to punish a people who so daringly violate the rights of humanity, and it is particularly incumbent upon the United States as well to check their present barbarities, as to conform to the Manifesto published in answer to the Proclamation above mentioned, and to deter all others by striking examples from a breach of those laws which are held sacred among civilized nations. I am therefore to instruct you that you employ Incendiaries to set fire to the Capital of the British Dominions, particularly the royal Palace, and to such other Towns in Great Britain as may be most expedient, and that as soon as some great object of this sort can be accomplished, you do in a proper Manifesto avow the same as having been done by the order of Congress, and declare that they are determined at all times to meet their enemies in whatever kind of war they shall chuse to carry on, whether it be of civilized or of savage nations, and call upon all the Powers of Europe, who may have formerly suffered by the Pride and Cruelty of Great Britain, or who feel a just indignation against her present conduct to join their efforts in vindicating the insulted laws of humanity.

I am, etc.¹

45 degree of north latitude, thence in that latitude to the river St. Lawrence, thence to the south end of lake Nipissing, and thence to the source of the Mississippi; West, by a line drawn along the middle of the river Mississippi from its source to that part of the said river which lies in latitude 31 degrees north from the equator; thence south, by a line drawn due east to the river Apalachicola or Catahouche, thence to the junction thereof with the Flint river, thence in a straight line to the head of St. Mary's, and thence by a line along the middle of St. Mary's river to the Atlantic ocean; East, by a line drawn along the middle of St. John's from its mouth to its source, or by a line to be settled and adjusted between that part of the state of Massachusetts bay, formerly called the province of Maine, and the colony of Nova Scotia, agreeably to their respective rights, comprehending all islands within twenty leagues of any part of the shores of the United States, between lines drawn due east from the points where their boundary lines between Nova Scotia on the one part and Florida on the other part shall touch the Atlantic Ocean; provided, that if the line to be drawn from lake Nipissing to the head of the Mississippi cannot be obtained without continuing the war for that purpose, then, that a line or lines may be drawn more southerly so as not to be southward of a line in latitude 45 north.

2. Every post and place within the United States, and every island, harbour and road to them, or any of them belonging, be absolutely evacuated by the land and sea forces of his Britannic Majesty, and yielded to the powers of the States to which they respectively belong.

3. That in no case by any treaty of peace, the common right of fishing be given up.

Resolved, That an explanatory article be prepared and sent to our minister plenipotentiary at the court of Versailles, to be by him presented to his most Christian Majesty, whereby the said common right to the fisheries shall be more explicitly guaranteed to the inhabitants of these States than it already is by the treaties aforesaid.

Resolved, That the faith of Congress be pledged to the several states that without their unanimous consent, no treaty of commerce shall be entered into, nor any trade or commerce whatsoever carried on with Great Britain, without an explicit stipulation on her part not to molest or disturb the inhabitants of the United States of America in taking fish on the banks of Newfoundland and other fisheries in the American seas any where, excepting within the distance of three leagues of the shores of the territories remaining to Great Britain at the close of the war, if a nearer distance cannot be obtained by negotiation.

Resolved, That if after a treaty of peace with Great Britain, she shall molest the citizens or inhabitants of any of the United States in taking fish on the banks and places described in the last foregoing resolution, such molestation being, in the opinion of Congress, a direct violation and breach of the peace, shall be a common cause of the said States, and the force of the union be exerted to obtain redress for the parties injured.

So it was Resolved, that the Hon. Silas Deane, Esq. late one of the commissioners at the court of Versailles and political and commercial agent, be discharged from any further attendance on Congress.

The committee, to whom was referred the memorial from J. Cox and C. Pettit, assistant quarter masters general, brought in a report, which was read:

The Committee to whom was referred a Memorial from John Cox and Charles Pettit, Esq^r, Assistant Quarter Masters General, dated the 7th day of July last, and other papers on the subject-matter of the said Memorial, have according to order taken the same into Consideration. and Report:

That your Committee have been attended by the memorialists, with the Act. of the Lagislature of the State of New Jersey passed in their late session, entitled "An act to raise the sum of one million of "Pounds in the State of New Jersey," of which the said memorialists complain.

That your Committee also received from the memorialists a further Representation of the Hardships to which they will officially as continental Officers be exposed, by the operation of the said act: Declaring that as thay engaged in their Office on a Contract fairly made and which thay have faithfully fulfilled: so they confide that while Congress demand a continuance on their part, they will not permit them to suffer by aney Infringement from a Power which thay cannot lawfully resist.

That on a careful examination of the said Act, your Committee find the suggestion of the Memorialists to be well founded, (to wit), that besides their rateable Taxes, in respect of Property in common with the rest of their Fellow Citizens, thay are subjected to a further specific Tax expressly as assistant Quarter Masters General, of not more than £10,000, nor less than £1000, to be laid at the discretion of the assessors and chosen Freeholders.

That according to the Plan on which the Quarter Master Generals' Office is executed, it is the Duty of M^r Pettit to attend to the supplies of money and keeping the accounts of Expenditures; for which purpose he holds a public Office in the City of Philadelphia where he stately resides. That Colonel Cox has the General direction of the Military supplies for the Field, and is consequently called to the different States according to the positions and wants of the army.

That all the Deputy Quarter Masters General in the State of New Jersey are made liable by the said Act, to the same additional Tax on account and by the Description of their Office; and all of them are also liable to attend the army in the different States where it may from time to time be posted.

That altho' the Legislature of New Jersey have an undoubted Right to make Laws for the raising supplies on the Citizens of the said State, in the manner they shall think equal and just, and to Tax all property therein however or wherever acquired; Yet your Committee are of opinion that the prejudice which must arise to the Public service from the exercise of a power to Tax the Staff Officers in the Continental service, merely as such, by any particular State; did not occur to the Legislature of New Jersey at the time of Passing the Law under Consideration.

That it appears to your Committee, that if such a system of Taxation shall obtain, the Officers in Question might be taxed on account of their Offices in more States than one, with equal propriety.

That the Tax assessed on the Office will be so much taken from the United States for the benefit of one or more States assessing the Tax: and the Salary or allowance by Congress, will be so far reduced below what was originally engaged, and a Foundation laid to have it made good out of the public Treasury.

That should such an indemnity be denied it could not be expected that men of responsible worth and property would serve the United States in Offices which would render their Fortunes precarious, expose them to odious Distinctions, and deprive them of the security enjoyed by their fellow citizens.

That your Committee relying on the wisdom and justice of the Legislature of New Jersey cannot doubt but that they will upon reviewing the said Act be persuaded of its Inconveniences and be disposed to remedy them.

Wherefore your Committee submit the following Resolutions:

Resolved, That Copies of the petition and Representation of the said assistant Quarter Master General be transmitted to the Governor of New Jersey, and that he be requested to lay the same before the Legislature of the said State at their approaching Session. That it be earnestly recommended to the said Legislature to revise the said Law, and remedy the particular evils which must arise to the Service of the United States, by assessing the assistant and Deputy Quarter Masters General by the description and merely on account of their Offices: Congress having reason to believe that while a discrimination, so much to the disadvantage of the public Service takes place, it will be difficult if not impracticable to engage men of worth and ability to exercise such Offices.

Resolved, That, as it has already been determined that it will be hazardous to the public service to suffer a sudden Change in the principal Officers of the said department in the midst of an active campaign: that therefore the resignations of the Memorialists cannot be accepted; and they are enjoined to proceed in the Execution of their Duty until their successors shall be appointed. And if in the mean time, they shall be compelled to pay a Tax in virtue of the said act of the Legislature of New Jersey, merely on account and by the description of the Offices they hold under the United States, Congress will indemnify them respectively against the same: relying on the Justice of the Legislature of New Jersey to refund any sum which may be chargeable against the United States by means of such indemnity.¹

Resolved, That his resignation be accepted.

A letter, of 6, from Lieutenant Colonel Simms, of the 2d Virginia regiment, was read, requesting leave of absence from the army for some time on account of his private affairs.²

Ordered, That a copy thereof be transmitted to the Commander in Chief, and that he take order thereon.

The Board of War, to whom was referred the letter of 7 July, from Major General Phillips, with sundry papers enclosed, having reported thereon,

AT A BOARD OF WAR, August 5, 1779.

Present, Col Pickering, M^r Peters, Gen^l Spencer and Col Atlee.

The Board taking into consideration Major Gen^l Phillips letter to the President of Congress with its Enclosures on the subject of Lieutenant Governor Hamilton's confinement in Virginia, beg leave to report:

That General Phillips be informed, that Congress will readily attend to any of his representations on the subject of the officers and men of the Convention Troops; but as to the affair of Lieutenant Governor

Hamilton, the conduct thereof lies entirely with the Government of the State of Virginia, and Congress do not therefore now choose to take any measures therein.

N. B. The Board did not report on the affairs of Cap^t Edmonstons and the 2 officers requested by General Phillips to go to Canada, having referred the same to the opinion of General Washington, whose answer we wait; mean time Captain E is sent to Mt Holly in New Jersey on parole.¹

Ordered, That the report of the Board of War and the papers on which it is grounded be referred to a committee of three:

The members chosen, Mr. [Edmund] Randolph, Mr. [Samuel] Huntington, and Mr. [John] Mathews.

A letter, of 2d, from General Washington, with a paper of intelligence enclosed, was read:

Ordered, That it be referred to the standing committee appointed to correspond with the commanding officer in South Carolina.

A memorial from Lieutenant Colonel Knoblauch was read;² Whereupon,

The committee on a former memorial from the said Lieutenant Colonel, brought in a report, which was read:

The Committee, to whom the Report of the Board of War, of the 15th April, 1779, was referred, report:

That it appears Colonel Knaublauch was earnestly persuaded and strongly encouraged by Doctor Franklin and William Lee, Esq. to make a voyage to America, and to offer his service as an officer in the army of these States.

The certificates which Colonel Knaublauch has produced and other testimony evince that he is an experienced, skilful, gallant and brave officer, and equal to a high command in any army, and the Committee are fully persuaded, he is particularly well qualified for the office of Inspector, or for that of Muster Master General; but inasmuch as there are no vacancies in the Army for employing Colonel Knaublauch, either in the Line or staff, in a station equal to his merits, the Committee concur in opinion with the Board of War "that the sum of be paid to him for defraying his expences to Europe, and also to reimburse expences which he has already incurred.

That Colonel Knaublauch receive the thanks of Congress for his zeal in the cause of America, and his willingness to serve in the Armies of the United States, and that he be informed, that although Congress entertain a high opinion of his merit, it is impracticable to employ him in any rank suitable to his expectations.

The Committee have received from Colonel Knaublauch the following estimate of his expences from May, 1777, to the 9th July, 1779:

Journey from Germany to Paris	1400
Expenses while detained in Paris and Nantz, whither I went by direction of Doctor Franklin, waiting for a passage to America	8900
Passage, self and servant, to America	1200
Cash about me at my arrival	3000
	£. 14500 livres
In coin, equal to 604 1/6 french Guineas.
At Charlestown, on my bills of credit of Mr Atkinson	7000 dollars
At Petersburg, in Virginia, on my bills of credit of Mr King	2000 dollars
Sold divers articles for subsistence in Philadelphia	3000
	Continental 12000 Dollars

Colonel Knaublauch has assured the Committee that he had an offer made to him by the British Ministry in London of the command of two battalions in the English-American Army, which he refused to accept from a determination to serve the United States, particularly encouraged thereto by Doctor Franklin.

The Committee beg leave to observe to Congress that the present circumstances of Colonel Knaublauch appear so truly deplorable, he has been obliged to sell his horse and furniture, his gold epaulettes, sword and pistols, gold buttons and part of his wearing apparel, to the amount of £1493, 8 to pay for board and diet and other unavoidable expences; thus reduced and in danger of being stripped of all his clothes, and reduced to the extremest penury, he humbly implores

Congress to take his case under their consideration, without further delay, and to determine according to their wisdom and justice.¹

Ordered, That the same be taken into consideration on Monday.

The Board of War, to whom was referred a letter from Captain Colombe, requesting the rank of major, having reported specially thereon:

AT A BOARD OF WAR, August 6, 1779.

Present, Col. Pickering and M^r Peters.

The Board taking into consideration the application of Mon^r Colombe to be appointed a Major by brevet in the Army of the United States, cannot perceive any thing in his case as an officer which should induce them to be of opinion that he is entitled to such promotion under the exception in the Resolve of the 24th November, 1778, which directs. "That no brevets be for the future granted except to officers in the line or in cases of very eminent services." Upon a comparison of his character with others, who have when rank was too lavishly distributed obtained promotions, we think him entitled to it. But as we have not been lately instrumental in promotions of foreign Officers, because we know such promotions give much Offence to our Officers, we have not thought our selves justified in recommending Mon^r Colombe merely because he is a Foreigner, and we believe one too of a good character. We have however agreed to state Mon^r Colombe's case, that Congress may do therein as they are pleased to think proper.

Mon^r Colombe arrived in South Carolina from Spain, in the service of which he was a Lieutenant, in October, 1777. He went from Charleston to Georgia, where he was by the government of that State appointed a Lieutenant of Dragoons on Continental establishment, and from this rank he succeeded by regular gradation to that of a Captain, in which capacity he was taken prisoner by the British troops under Colonel Campbell, and during his captivity was maltreated by the enemy, insomuch that being reduced to the last extremity (as he alledges, for we have no farther information than his own allegations as to all our accounts of him, tho' we have no reason to disbelieve his assertions) he entered into an engagement with General Prevost not to serve in America under the Standard of the United States during the War. Under this parole as a French Man, he thinks himself justifiable in serving, if his King should give him employment in this Country. But on this subject we are not clear. Nor are we so on the propriety (politically considering it) of a gentleman, holding an American Commission, relinquishing it on account of the enemy's cruelty; however justifiable he might be as a Man on the principle of self preservation. He says in excuse for this that he thought it best to gain a chance of serving us as a French Man, rather than die as an American prisoner. He lost his baggage twice and he will not consent that we report a recompense to be given him by Congress.

Our doubts arise on three points:

1. There is nothing in Mon^r Colombe's case to satisfy the words very eminent services in the Resolve of Congress.

2. Whether it is consistent with our National character to grant promotion to one who has relinquished his Commission, however justifiable in a private view?

3. Whether Mon^r Colombe can consistently with his character receive an American promotion after his agreement not to serve under our standard?

We have however to expedite the business, if Congress should differ with us, drawn the form of a report.

That Mon^r Colombe, in consideration of his sufferings and services in the Army of the United States, be promoted to the rank of Major by brevet.¹

Congress took their report into consideration: and, thereupon,

Resolved, That the request of Captain Colombe be not granted.

Congress proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee on the letters from A. Lee, Esq. and the communications of the Minister Plenipotentiary of France, and some time being spent thereon,

Congress resumed the consideration of the proposition under debate on the 5th; and the same, as amended, being set aside by the previous question, a motion was made by Mr. [Gouverneur] Morris, seconded by Mr. [Thomas] Burke,

That, if contrary to the humane wishes of the United States, Great Britain should obstinately persist in the prosecution of the present unjust war, the Minister of these United States be empowered and directed to solicit a subsidy from his Catholick Majesty, and to consult with the Ministers of the said King, and of his most Christian Majesty, and with them prepare such article or articles of treaty, as the situation and conjuncture of affairs may render necessary; and transmit the same to Congress for their consideration.

After debate, a motion was made by Mr. [Thomas] Burke, seconded by Mr. [Gouverneur] Morris, to strike out the words "and of his most christian majesty, and "with them prepare such article or articles as the situation and conjuncture of affairs may render necessary," and in lieu thereof to insert, "on the consideration which "he may be willing to receive from the United States in "return for such subsidy." And on the question, Shall the words moved to be struck out, stand, the vote passed in the negative.

1st That it appears by the acknowledgement of the Assistant Quarter Master General, the Commissary general of purchases and the C. G. of Issues, that by reason of the remote situation of many places and other circumstances, it is impossible for them to superintend the conduct of inferior officers in their respective departments, so as to be able to investigate their misbehaviour.

4th That none of the said inferior officers has a right to resign, unless it be with permission.

5th That such permission ought not to be granted to any officer whose service may be required in the midst of a campaign, and if the Head of the Department grant such permission, he be held responsible for all consequences.

6th That none of the said Inferior Officers, whose service may be required, presume to resign as he would wish to avoid the just resentment of his Country, and if he shall dare thus to expose her to injuries, that in such case the Head of the Department be held responsible for all consequences.

On motion of Mr. [Henry] Laurens, seconded by Mr. [Henry] Marchant,

Resolved, That these United States will reimburse to the State of South Carolina, such sums of money as that State may advance for importing such military stores as shall be deemed immediately necessary by the commanding officer of the continental troops in the southern department, for the defence of the said department.

Congress took into consideration the report of the committee on a farther provision for the officers of the army,

Your Committee, to whom it was referred to prepare and report a further Provision to be made for the Officers of the Army of the United States, beg leave to submit the following Resolutions: ²

Whereas Congress, on the 15th day of May, 1778, did unanimously resolve that all military officers commissioned by Congress who then were, or thereafter might be in the service of the United States, and should continue therein during the War and not hold any office of Profit under these States, or any of them, should after the Conclusion of the War, be entitled to receive annually for the Term of seven Years, if they should live so long, one half of the present Pay of such Officer, with certain Provisoos and Limitations. And whereas the Services, the Sufferings and unshaken Perseverance of the said Officers call forth the grateful Notice of Congress, therefore, as well for their future comfortable Subsistence as for the Accommodation of their Families, Resolved,

~~That all military commissioned Officers who shall continue commissioned by Congress who are, or shall be in the service of the United States, and shall continue therein during the War, shall after the Conclusion thereof, receive annually during their natural Lives one half of their present Pay.~~

And that the Widows of all such Officers as may die or be killed in the Service shall be entitled to receive one half of the present Pay of their Husbands during their Widowhood.

And, Whereas Congress, on the second Day of June, in the Year 1778, did resolve, that, to the end the Officers might be enabled to live in a Manner becoming their station, a certain Sum of Subsistence Money should be paid to them Monthly; and Whereas the Rise of the Prices of the Necessaries of Life hath rendered the said Subsistence Money inadequate,

Resolved, That untill the further Order of Congress, the said Officers be entitled to receive Monthly for their Subsistence Money, the Sums following, to wit: Every Colonel and Brigade Chaplain, five hundred Dollars, every Lieutenant Colonel, four hundred Dollars; every Major and regimental Surgeon, three hundred Dollars; every Captain, two hundred dollars; and every Lieutenant, Ensign and Surgeon's Mate, one hundred Dollars; And

That, Whenever the Stores of the Commissary General will permit (but not otherwise), the Commander in Chief, or of a separate Department shall be authorized to order Rum, Sugar, and other foreign Produce to be delivered, under such Restrictions and Regulations as he may think proper, to the Officers at Prices to be computed upon the Prime Cost and reasonable Expences of Transportation. That the said Officers shall give their Receipts for the same, and the Commissaries shall transmit to the respective Paymasters from Time to Time an Account of the Articles so delivered, together with the Prices, that the same may be liquidated in the several Pay Accounts:

And, Whereas it hath been very difficult and in many Cases, impracticable to furnish the non-commissioned Officers and Soldiers with ~~many~~ some of the Articles of Food originally intended for them,

Resolved, That untill the further Order of Congress, the Sum of ten Dollars be paid to every non-commissioned Officer and Soldier Monthly for their Subsistence.¹

¹ This report, in the writing of Gouverneur Morris, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 21, folio 141.

Your Committee, to whom it was referred to report a further provision for the army, submit the following Resolution, to wit:

Whereas, by the depreciation of the Continental money and the rapid rise of articles necessary for subsistence, the pay and subsistence money allowed to the Officers and Soldiers hath become inadequate, therefore,

Resolved, That the following subsistence be allowed to every officer and soldier until the further order of Congress

To every Colonel,	_____	Ensign,	_____
Lt. Colonel,	_____	Surgeon,	_____
Major,	_____	Surgeon's mate,	_____
Captain,	_____	Non com ^d officer and private,	_____
Lieut ^t ,	_____

And whereas in some cases it hath happened that public stores of rum have, without the express order of Congress, been delivered out to the Officers at a low rate, whereby the great consumption in one quarter hath produced want in others,

Resolved, That such practises shall not in future be admitted, and that every commanding officer who shall give order therefor shall incur the displeasure of Congress.

And whereas, it will be inconvenient for the Officers to supply themselves with rum, sugar and the like while in camp, therefore resolved that whenever the commissaries stores will admit of it then the Commander in Chief or of a separate department shall be empowered to cause the same to be delivered to the officers at a reasonable price computed upon the prime cost and the necessary expense of transportation and the officers shall give their receipts therefor to the Commissary who shall forthwith file copies thereof with the respective paymasters, that so the same may be liquidated in the several pay accounts.¹

And a part of the report having been struck out, viz.

"That all military officers commissioned by Congress, who are or shall be in the service of the United States, and shall continue therein during the war, shall, after the conclusion thereof, receive annually during their natural lives half of their pay."

¹ This undated report, in the writing of Gouverneur Morris, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 33, folio 313. It is not the report mentioned in the text, but is on the same subject.

A motion was made by Mr. [Thomas] Burke, seconded by Mr. [Thomas] M'Kean,

To amend the report by inserting in the room of the words struck out, as follows:

"That the half pay provided by the resolution of the 15 May, 1778, be extended to continue for life; and that the holding of a civil office under the United States, or any of them, shall be no bar to prevent any officer from receiving the same."¹

Resolved, That a member be appointed for the Committee of Appeals, in the room of Mr. [John] Henry, who is absent:

The member chosen, Mr. [Jesse] Root.

The committee appointed to prepare a letter to the several states, brought in a draught, which was agreed to as follows:

SIR,

Congress have deemed it ~~proper~~ highly necessary to inform you that the enemy ~~determined not to listen to any overtures of Peace~~, have exerted themselves to send out a very considerable reinforcement to their army now in America. Seven thousand were destined hither from Europe and three thousand from the West Indies. The operations in the place last mentioned may perhaps prevent the arrival of those troops; but there is no solid reason to expect that the European reinforcement will not arrive.

It is ~~necessary~~ proper you should be informed that our allies were much concerned to find that preparations were not earlier made for a vigorous campaign. The exertions of America are necessary to obtain the great objects of the alliance, her liberty, sovereignty and independence. The barbarities already exhibited by the enemy and their avowed determinations to give a still greater scope to their ravages, are additional motives to our endeavors. Congress are fully convinced, therefore, that you will comply with their earnest wishes to prepare for the most immediate and most vigorous operations, particularly by filling up your battalions and having the militia of your State ready to march at the shortest warning. It is highly probable that circumstances may soon call them forth to operate offensively; and it is hoped and expected with such energy and effect as to free these states from their hostile invaders.¹

The committee, to whom was referred the resolution of the supreme executive council of Pennsylvania, brought in a report:

Your Committee to whom was referred the Resolution of the Council of Pennsylvania, of the 11th Instant, Report:

essary for the subsistence of the Army and Inhabitants. That if any parts of the United States shall have suffered by the Season so as to want provisions, (which your Committee have not been informed of) an Embargo will rather injure than assist them. That the Trade of the United States will derive considerable advantages from the exporting so valuable a staple. That on the other hand if the Enemy should obtain a decided superiority at Sea, they would make prize of many of our vessels, and thence derive considerable advantages; but if such superiority should be obtained, they will be able to supply themselves from elsewhere. Your Committee beg leave further to observe, that the purchase of flour for the army in places remote from the Common Markets, is attended with great and unnecessary expence to the Continent, and that the Farmers and Millers will not probably prepare the grain for Market so readily if the Embargo continues as if it be taken off. Besides which it may prevent the sowing large fields for the ensuing year. Your Committee therefore report that it be recommended to the several States to take off the Embargoes by them respectively laid on or before the first day of October next.¹

Ordered, That the same be taken into consideration on Tuesday next.

A letter, of 13, from the Board of War, was read; Whereupon,

WAR OFFICE, August 13, 1779.

The enclosures Council desire may be sent back when perused; we therefore beg Congress will enable us to do this by sending them to us when read.

We are of opinion from all circumstances that the public stores should be collected so as to be easily guarded, and a body of Militia Stationed at Sunbury for their security and the protection of the inhabitants. Of what number this body should consist we cannot at present determine, did it lie with us to do. But we beg leave to propose that at least two hundred Militia be called into service and Stationed at Sunbury for guarding the public stores and provisions, preserving the communication with Wyoming and escorting the supplies. We should not have thought of so small a number but in a belief that General Sullivan's forward movement will oblige the enemy to collect their force, and thereby draw off their detachments. Yet light parties may be left to harrass the Frontiers and some provision should be made against their ravages. We therefore beg leave to report:

Resolved, That the honorable the supreme executive council of Pennsylvania, be requested to call into service 200 of the militia of that State properly officered, to be stationed at Sunbury, on the Susquehanna, for guarding the public stores, keeping open the communication by that river, furnishing escorts for stores and provisions, and protecting the frontiers of the said State against the ravages of the enemy during the present appearances of danger, till the further determination of Congress.¹

The Board of Treasury report, that they have appointed Joseph Nourse, Esq. a signer of the bills of credit of the United States.

Some time being spent in the consideration of foreign affairs,

Your Committee to whom were referred the Resolutions of Congress upon the letters of Arthur Lee, Esq. and the communications of the Minister of France, with order to prepare instructions thereon, beg leave to Report:

That having weighed and considered the matters to them referred there appears to be four principal points, viz. 1st the instructions to be given to the Commissioner of peace. 2^d Those to be given to the Commissioners who may be appointed to negotiate a treaty who may be appointed to negotiate a treaty of Commerce with Great Britain. 3^d Those to be given to the Minister of the United States at the Court of Versailles.

¹ This report is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 147, III, folio 571.

And 4^y those to be given to the Minister of the Said States at the Court of Madrid.

Your Committee have prepared the first three sets of instructions agreeably to the materials in their possession, but cannot perform the last until the final determinations of Congress upon that subject, Wherefore they report:

I.

A draft of Instructions to the Commissioner to be appointed to negotiate a treaty of Peace with Great Britain.

SIR:

You will herewith receive a commission giving you full powers to negotiate a treaty of peace with Great Britain, in doing which you will conform to the following Information and Instructions:

1st The United States are sincerely desirous of peace, and wish by every means consistent with their dignity and safety to spare the farther effusion of blood. They have therefore, by your Commission and those instructions, laboured to remove the obstacles to that event before the enemy have evidenced their disposition for it. But as the great object of the present defensive war on the part of the allies is to establish the Independence of the United States, and as any treaty whereby this end cannot be obtained must be only ostensible and illusory, you are therefore to make it a preliminary article to any negotiation that Great Britain shall agree to treat with the United States as Sovereign, free and Independent.

In debating this article, on Friday the 13th, a motion was made by Mr. [Thomas] Burke, seconded by Mr. [Edmund] Randolph, after the words "as sovereign, free and independent," to add, "if an express “acknowledgment of the said independence shall be “absolutely refused by the king of Great Britain.” And

So it passed in the negative.

2^d You shall take especial care also that the Independence of the Said States be effectually assured and confirmed by the Treaty or treaties of peace, according to the form and effect of the Treaty of Alliance with his Most Christian Majesty, and you shall not agree to such treaty or treaties, unless the same be thereby so assured and confirmed.

3^d ~~The clear and indisputable~~ Boundaries of these States ~~and the Territories of Great Britain~~ are as follows, viz. These States are bounded NORTH by a line to be drawn from the Northwest angle of Nova Scotia, along the Highlands which divide those Rivers which empty themselves into the River St. Lawrence from those which fall into the Atlantic Ocean, to the Northwesternmost Head of Connecticut River; thence down along the middle of that River to the forty fifth degree of North latitude; thence due west in the latitude of forty five degrees North from the Equator to the North Westernmost side of the River St. Lawrence or Cadaraqui; Thence straight to the South end of Lake Nipissing, and thence Straight to the Source of the River Mississippi; WEST by a line to be drawn along the middle of the River Mississippi from its source to where the said line shall intersect the 31st degree of North Latitude. SOUTH by a line to be drawn due East from the termination of the line last mentioned in the latitude of 31 Degrees north from the Equator, to the middle of the River Appalachicola or Catahouche; thence along the middle thereof to its junction with the Flint River; thence straight to the Head of St Mary's River and thence down along the middle of St Mary's River to the Atlantic Ocean, and EAST by a line to be drawn along the middle of St John's River from its source to its mouth in the Bay of Fundy. Comprehending all Islands within twenty leagues of any part of the shores of the United States, and lying between lines to be drawn due East from the points where the aforesaid Boundaries between Nova Scotia on the one part and East Florida on the other part shall respectively touch the Bay of Fundy and atlantic ocean. You are therefore strongly contend that the whole of the said Countries and Islands lying within the Boundaries aforesaid, and every citadel, fort, post, place, harbor and Road to them belonging, be absolutely evacuated by the land and sea forces of his Britannic Majesty, and yielded to the powers of the States to which they respectively belong, in such situation as they may be at the termination of the war, ~~and that the same be guaranteed to the United States.~~ But notwithstanding the clear right of these States, and the importance of the object, yet they are so much influenced by the dictates of Religion and Humanity, and so desirous of complying with the earnest requests of their allies, that if the line be drawn from the mouth of Lake Nipissing to the Head of the Mississippi cannot be obtained without continuing the war for that purpose, you are hereby empowered to agree to some other line between that point and the River Mississippi, provided the same shall in no part thereof be to the Southward of ~~the forty sixth~~ latitude 45° North. And in like manner if the Eastern Boundary above described cannot be obtained, you are hereby empowered to agree that the same shall be afterwards adjusted by Commissioners to be duly appointed for that purpose according to such line as shall be by them settled and agreed on as the Boundary between that part of the State of Massachusetts Bay formerly called the Province of Maine and the Colony of Nova Scotia agreeably to their respective rights, and you may also consent that the Enemy shall destroy such fortifications as they may have erected. ~~Neither need you insist upon their guarantee.~~

4th Although it is of the utmost importance to the peace and Commerce of the United States that Canada and Nova Scotia should be ceded, and more particularly that their equal common right to the Fisheries should be guarantied to them, yet a desire of terminating the war hath induced us not to make the acquisition of these objects an ultimatum on the present occasion.

5^{ly} You are empowered to agree to a cessation of Hostilities during the negotiation, provided our ally shall consent to the same, and provided it shall be Stipulated that all the forces of the enemy shall be immediately withdrawn from the United States.

6^{ly} In all matters not above mentioned, you are to govern yourselves by the Alliance between his Most Christian Majesty and these States, by the advice of our allies, by your knowledge of our Interests, and by your own discretion, ~~according to Time and Circumstances,~~ in which we repose the fullest confidence.

Congress likewise agreed to the following draft of instructions to the commissioner to be appointed to negotiate a treaty of commerce with Great Britain:

II.

SIR,

You will herewith receive a Commission giving you full power to negotiate a treaty of Commerce with Great Britain; in doing which you will consider yourself bound by the following information and instructions:

1st You will govern yourself principally by the Treaty of Commerce with his Most Christian Majesty, and as on the one hand you shall grant no privilege to Great Britain not granted by that Treaty to France, so on the other you shall not consent to any peculiar restrictions or limitations whatever in favor of Great Britain.

2^{ly} In order that you may be the better able to act with propriety on this occasion, it is necessary for you to know that we have determined 1st That the common right of fishing shall in no case be given up. 2nd That it is essential to the welfare of all these United States that the Inhabitants thereof at the expiration of the war should continue to enjoy the free and undisturbed exercise of their common right to fish on the Banks of Newfoundland, and the other fishing banks and seas of North America, preserving inviolate the Treaties between France and the Said States. 3^y That application shall be made to his Most Christian Majesty to agree to some article or articles for the better securing to these States a share in the said fisheries. 4^y That if after a treaty of peace with Great Britain she shall molest the Citizens or Inhabitants of any of the United States in taking Fish on the Banks and places herein after described, such molestation, being in our opinion a direct violation and breach of the peace, shall be a common cause of the said States, and the force of the Union be exerted to obtain redress for the parties injured. And 5^y That our faith be pledged to the several States, that without their unanimous consent no treaty of commerce shall be entered into, nor any trade or commerce whatever carried on with Great Britain, without the explicit stipulation herein aftermentioned. You are therefore not to consent to any Treaty of Commerce with Great Britain without an explicit stipulation on her part not to molest or disturb the Inhabitants of the United States of America in taking fish on the Banks of Newfoundland, and other fisheries in the American Seas any where, excepting within the distance of three leagues of the Shores of the Territory remaining to Great Britain at the close of the war, if a nearer distance cannot be obtained by negotiation—and in the negotiation you are to exert your most strenuous endeavors to obtain a nearer distance in the Gulf of St.

Lawrence, and particularly along the shores of Nova Scotia. As to which latter we are desirous, that even the Shores may be occasionally used for the purpose of carrying on the Fisheries by the Inhabitants of these States.

3^d In all other matters you are to govern yourself by your own discretion, as shall be most for the Interest of these States, taking care that the said Treaty be founded on principles of equality and reciprocity, so as to conduce to the mutual advantage of both nations, but not to the exclusion of others.

On the question to agree to the above draft of instructions, the yeas and nays being required by Mr. [Nathaniel] Scudder,

New Hampshire,			Pennsylvania,
Mr. Peabody,	no	} no	Mr. Muhlenberg,	ay	} ay

So it was resolved in the affirmative.

Congress farther agreed to the following draft of instructions to the minister plenipotentiary of the United States at the court of France.

III.

SIR,

Having determined, in order to put a period to the present war conformably to the humane dispositions which sway the Allied Powers, that we would not insist on a direct acknowledgement by Great Britain of our right in the Fisheries, this important matter is liable to an incertitude which may be dangerous to the political and commercial Interests of the United States. We have therefore agreed and resolved that our right should in no case be given up; that we would not form any Treaty of Commerce with Great Britain, nor carry on any trade or Commerce whatsoever with her unless she shall make an express stipulation on that subject, ~~and we have pledged our Faith~~ and that if She shall after a Treaty of peace disturb the Inhabitants of these States in the exercise of it, we will make it a common cause to obtain redress for the parties injured. But notwithstanding these precautions, as Great Britain may again light up the flames of war and use our exercise of the Fisheries as her pretext, and since doubts may arise whether this object is so effectually guarded by the Treaty of Alliance with his Most Christian Majesty that any molestation therein on the part of Great Britain is to be considered as a casus foederis, you are to endeavor to obtain of his Majesty an explanation on that subject upon the principle that, notwithstanding the high confidence reposed in his wisdom and justice, yet considering the uncertainty of human affairs and how doubts may be afterwards raised in the breasts of his Royal Successors, the great importance of the Fisheries renders the Citizens of these States very solicitous to obtain his Majesty's sense with relation to them as the best security against the ambition and rapacity of the British Court. For this purpose you shall propose the following article, in which nevertheless such alterations may be made as the circumstances and situation of affairs shall render convenient and proper. Should the same be agreed to and executed you are immediately to transmit a Copy thereof to our Minister at the Court of Spain.

Whereas, by the Treaty of Alliance between the most Christian King, and the United States of North America, the two parties guarantee mutually from that time and forever against all other powers, to wit: The United States to His Most Christian Majesty the possessions then appertaining to the Crown of France in America, as well as those which it might acquire by the future treaty of Peace; and his Most Christian Majesty guarantees on his part to the United States their liberty, Sovereignty and Independence, absolute and unlimited, as well in matters of Government as commerce, and also their possessions and the additions or conquests that their confederation might obtain during the war according to the Said Treaty. And the said parties did further agree and declare that in case of a rupture between France and England the said reciprocal guarantee should have its full force and effect the moment such war should break out—And whereas doubts may hereafter arise how far the said guarantee extends to this case, to wit: that Great Britain should molest or disturb the subjects and Inhabitants of France or of the said States in taking fish on the Banks of Newfoundland, and other the fishing banks and Seas of North America formerly and usually frequented by the said subjects and Inhabitants respectively. And whereas the said King and the United States have thought proper to determine with precision the true intent and meaning of the said guarantee in this respect, now therefore, as a further demonstration of their mutual good will and affection, it is hereby agreed, concluded and determined as follows, to wit: That if, after the conclusion of the treaty or treaties which shall terminate the present war, Great Britain shall molest or disturb the subjects of the Inhabitants of the said United States in taking fish on the Banks, seas and places formerly used and frequented by them, so as not to encroach on the territorial rights which may remain to her after the termination of the present war as aforesaid, and war should thereupon break out between the said United States and Great Britain; or if Great Britain shall molest or disturb the subjects and Inhabitants of France in taking Fish on the Banks, Seas and places formerly used and frequented by them, so as not to encroach on the territorial rights of Great Britain as aforesaid, and war should thereupon break out between France and Great Britain, ~~or if such war should break out in consequence of any molestation or disturbance by Great Britain to either of the Said Allies with respect to any peculiar right or privilege in the Fisheries formerly secured or which may hereafter be secured to them respectively by the Treaty or Treaties which shall terminate the present war.~~ In either of those cases of war as aforesaid, His Most Christian Majesty and the said United States shall make it a common cause, and aid each other mutually with their good offices their counsels and their forces, according to the exigence of conjunctures as becomes good and faithful allies.¹ Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be taken or understood as contrary to or inconsistent with the true intent and meaning of the treaties already subsisting between his Most Christian Majesty and the Said States; but the same shall be taken and understood as explanatory of and conformable to those treaties.

All which nevertheless is most humbly submitted

GOUV^a MORRIS

Chairman of the Comte.

A letter, of 12, from the Board of War, was read; Whereupon,

AT A BOARD OF WAR, August 12, 1779.

Present, Colonel Pickering and Mr. Peters.

Frequent applications are made, and much uneasiness ensues from a want of regulation, on the subject of arrearages of clothing due the troops; and the valuation of the Articles deficient, as fixed in the resolve of the 6th of September, 1777, is much too low. The Board therefore deem it a piece of justice due the Army that the price to be paid them should be near the real value, especially as it does not comport with the State of our Magazines to deliver the deficiencies in clothing. We beg leave to report the following Resolution, which will ease the minds of the Men and encourage reenlistments, by doing justice where much murmur and complaint have arisen. The Pay Masters are now the regimental clothiers, and the business will be short by going thro' their hands immediately as they know the State of every Man's clothing account. The Commissioner for settling arrearages of clothing due the Army has authority to adjust the Matter for the year 1777, which is the reason it is not included in the term mentioned in the following report. It is better too, to have a permanent plan for payment of deficiencies than to proceed as heretofore upon particular cases. The business will be regularly done and the Soldiers know what they have to depend upon.

Resolved, That the cloathier general estimate the value of the several articles of soldiers' cloathing, at the prices they were respectively worth, at the end of the year 1778, and forthwith transmit such estimates to the pay masters of the several regiments, who shall be furnished out of the military chest with moneys to pay the soldiers for all deficiencies of cloathing, at the estimated prices of every article, as fixed by the cloathier general, who shall henceforward transmit like estimates before the close of every year during the war, so that the soldiers be paid by the regimental pay master, according to such estimates annually, and previous to their discharge when the same happens before the end of the year, for all articles of cloathing allowed them by the resolution of Congress of the 6th of September, 1777, which they have not received, and which are or shall be due to them after the year last mentioned.¹

The committee, to whom was referred the report of the committee on a farther allowance to the officers of the army, together with the amendments, brought in a report, which was read, and some time being spent thereon,

That Captain De Luce has uniformly behaved well since in the service of the United States: but the Board are not ascertained of any extraordinary merit which will bring his case within the exception in the act of Congress on the subject of granting brevets.

We therefore submit the following resolution to Congress.

Resolved, That Congress entertain a very favorable opinion of the merit and services of Captain de Luce, but, in consequence of arrangements lately established, they cannot comply with his request that they would grant him the brevet of major.

Resolved, That the sum of one thousand five hundred dollars be paid to Captain de Luce, to defray the expences of his voyage to France, whither he proposes to return.¹

Congress proceeded to the consideration of the report "of the committee" on a farther provision for the army; and thereupon came to the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the half pay provided by the Resolution of 15th May, 1778, be extended to continue for life.

That the widows of all such Officers as may die or be killed in the Service, shall be entitled to receive one half of the pay of their Husbands during their Widowhood.

That untill the further Order of Congress the said Officers be entitled to receive Monthly for their Subsistence Money the Sums following, to wit; Each Colonel and Brigade Chaplain 500 dollars;

Agreed August 18 every Lieutenant Colonel four hundred Dollars; every Major and Regimental Surgeon three hundred Dollars, every Captain two hundred Dollars, every Lieutenant, Ensign and Surgeon's Mate one hundred Dollars.

¹ This report, dated August 16 (present, Pickering and Peters), is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 147, III, folio 568.

That untill the further Order of Congress the Sum of ten Dollars be paid to every non commissioned Officer and soldier monthly for their subsistence, in lieu of those articles of food originally intended for them and not furnished.

Agreed August 18

That the Persons above described entitled to receive from any State an Allowance for the consideration aforesaid, shall if thereto required by such State, discharge it from all obligations to make the said allowance or any part thereof; or otherwise be precluded from the Provision now made by Congress, which shall thereupon be credited in the account of said State with the United States; And all Accounts duly authenticated of Advances and supplies heretofore made by any State to any of the Persons aforesaid, may be rendered to the Board of Treasury and charged to the United States; but any future advance or allowance which may be made by any State for the Purposes aforesaid, after due notice hereof, without the Express Approbation of Congress, shall not be repaid.¹

Set aside by the previous question

Resolved, That the consideration of that part of the report for extending the half pay be postponed.²

Whereas the army of the United States of America have, by their patriotism, valor, and perseverance, in the defence of the rights and liberties of their country, become entitled to the gratitude as well as the approbation of their fellow citizens:

¹ This paper, in the writing of Meriwether Smith, is in the Papers of the Continental Congress, No. 21, folio 145.

An amendment or motion, also in the writing of Meriwether Smith, on folio 148, reads as follows:

"That where provision hath been, or shall be made by any of the States for the Persons above described, equal to the half pay for Life, such States if they shall continue the said Provision shall be intitled to the Provision made by Congress in the foregoing Resolution and credited therefore in Acct, provided the persons aforesaid being at Liberty to make their Election, shall relinquish the Provision made by Congress as aforesaid."

On the back of this motion is the following, in the writing of "and, That all nonCommissioned officers and Soldiers, in the Service of the United States, engaged for three years or during the War, in Case they shall serve the same, or be honorably discharged, shall be entitled to receive half pay, according to the present Establishment during Life."

² From this point the entries were made by George Bond.

Resolved, That it be, and it is hereby, recommended to the several states that have not already adopted measures for that purpose, to make such further provision for the officers, and for the soldiers inlisted for the war, to them respectively belonging, who shall continue in service till the establishment of peace, as shall be an adequate compensation for the many dangers, losses, and hardships they have suffered and been exposed to in the course of the present contest, either by granting to their officers half pay for life, and proper rewards to their soldiers; or in such other manner as may appear most expedient to the legislatures of the several states:

Whereas many worthy officers of the Battalions commonly called the sixteen Regiments, who have served their Country with fidelity and reputation, have been reduced as supernumerary, and it is reasonable that provision should be made for such reduced officers without which many of them and their families may be exposed to want and distress, Resolved therefore that all such officers, who have been so reduced as supernumerary shall be entitled to and annually receive the half of the present pay annexed to their Commissions during their natural lives; provided, nevertheless, that every such officer shall be holden to take command in the army upon full pay when required, so as not to impair his former rank.

and commissary general; and that the committee be directed to take the necessary measures for this purpose, and inform Congress thereof.

A petition of Robert Martin was read.¹

The committee to whom was referred the report of the Board of War on the letter from Major General Phillips, report as their opinion, that as the imprisonment of Lieutenant Governor Hamilton was the act of the executive power of the State of Virginia, to whom it properly belonged to decide on the treatment suitable to his conduct: and as the American prisoners of war in New York have been hitherto denied the liberty of communicating to any public body within the United States the severities exercised upon them, Congress ought not to indulge Major General Phillips with forwarding his letters and papers respecting the said Hamilton:

Resolved, that Congress ought to advise General Washington, to whom the board of war have referred the application for two other British officers to go to Canada expressly to dissent from the proposal, favors being then only asked with propriety by an Enemy when he himself has first shewn a disposition to depart from a rigid exaction of the rights of war, or at least has not offended against the mild usages, adopted by civilized nations to soften the horrors of such state.

Resolved therefore that the President be requested to inform Major General Philips that Congress cannot gratify him, and to desire General Washington to refuse his assent to the officers to go into Canada.²

Amended

Resolved, That Congress agree to the report of the committee.

Resolved, That the President signify to General Washington the sense of Congress, that he refuse his assent to the request

Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended to the several States to repeal all laws or other restrictions laid on the inland trade between the said states.

Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to prevent the taking on board any provisions that shall be deemed necessary for the stores only of any ships or vessels of war, or others trading to and from these states.²

WAR OFFICE, August 27, 1779.

There has been for some time an unfortunate dispute between Colonel Bland, commanding at the post of Charlottville, and Col Aylett, the D. C. G. of Purchases, in whose district that post is comprehended. Much embarrassment to the business of supplies, as well as in the settlement of the public accounts, is likely to ensue from this misunderstanding. We do not see any method of preventing the like inconveniences but by directing the Commissary General of Purchases to appoint a person solely for the purpose of supplying the convention troops, confining his purchases to places from whence supplies cannot conveniently be drawn for the Army. This plan falls in with the original intention of Congress, as we conceive, in sending the Convention troops to their present place of residence, that they might consume the provisions which could not be of use to our troops, and thereby avoid interfering with the supplies which can be conveniently transported to the Army. The accounts too for the supplies to these prisoners can be in this way kept more distinct and therefore can be more easily settled.

Colonel Bland is exceedingly well calculated for the Station he now fills, but is uneasy under his situation, as it exposes him to infinite trouble and very heavy expence. The dignity of the Nation depends in some degree on our Officers in circumstances like Colonel Bland's not being exposed to the contempt of the British prisoners by an appearance in point of living inferior to the Station they hold. We would not wish them to keep pace with British luxury. But they ought in our opinion to have much more refreshments, as well as common provisions, than the regulations of the Commissaries department hold us out in directing to be delivered. Colonel Bland is obliged to see a great deal of Company, and to make a decent appearance in his quarters as to the Articles of his Table. He has drawn orders on the Commissary for supplies which could not be furnished him or at least were not supplied by M^r Aylett, and when we were consulted on the subject we could not advise M^r Aylett's complying with Colonel Bland's requisition. We will therefore take the liberty of recommending the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the commissary general of purchases be directed to appoint a deputy, for the special purpose of providing for the troops of the convention of Saratoga and their guards during their stay in Virginia:

On passing this, the yeas and nays being required by Mr. [Henry] Laurens,

New Hampshire,			Pennsylvania,
Mr. Whipple,	ay	} div.	Mr. Armstrong,	no	} no
Peabody,	no		Shippen,	no

New Jersey,			South Carolina,
Mr. Scudder,	ay	} ay	Mr. Laurens,	no	} div.
Fell,	ay		Mathews,	ay
Houston,	ay

So it was resolved in the affirmative.

Resolved, That he give orders to the said deputy to confine his purchases, to places from whence supplies for the armies of these states cannot conveniently be drawn.

Resolved, That the accounts of supplies for the said convention troops be kept distinct from the accounts of those purchased for, and issued to, the troops of the United States.

That Colonel Bland or Officer stationed at the post for the purpose of directing the business relative to the Prisoners, and having also the Military Command, shall be furnished with such articles of refreshment and extra quantities of provisions for the use of his table as the executive of the State of Virginia shall, on returns made to them of the quantities desired, think proper and necessary: or,

That the sum of dollars p^r month be allowed to Colonel Bland during his command at the post of Charlottville to defray the extra expence he is necessarily subjected to from his situation there.¹

Ordered, That the farther consideration of the said letter be postponed.

A letter, of 24 August, from Captain Geddes, of the Holker, a private armed vessel, was read.²

Congress proceeded in reading Mr. A. Lee's letter of 20th April last, and some progress being made therein,

A motion was made by Mr. [John] Mathews, seconded by Mr. [Thomas] McKean, to postpone the farther reading; on which, the yeas and nays being required by Mr. [John] Jay,

So it was resolved in the affirmative.

Congress proceeded to the consideration of the report of the committee relative to finance:

On motion of Mr. [Thomas] M'Kean, seconded by Mr. [Meriwether] Smith,

Resolved, That the farther consideration of the report be postponed.

A motion was then made by Mr. [Thomas] M'Kean, seconded by Mr. [William Churchill] Houston, in the words following:

Whereas it is inexpedient to derive the supplies for a continuance of the present war from emissions of bills of credit:

Resolved, That Congress will, on no account whatever, emit more bills of credit than to make the whole amount of such bills two hundred millions of dollars:

Nor will they emit the forty millions necessary to compleat that sum, provided a sufficient supply of money for the public exigencies can be obtained by other means.

A division being required, when the question was about to be put on the first clause, the previous question was moved by Mr. [Henry] Laurens, seconded by Mr. [Meriwether] Smith: on which the yeas and nays being required by Mr. [Henry] Laurens,
